SENATE BEATS LEVY ON BEER BY 61-24 VOTE

Second Move to Legalize Beverage Fails With Tydings Plan.

APPROVAL IS GIVEN TO WORT-MALT TAX

Fight Over Oil Tariff Under Way as Revenue Bill Work Is Speeded.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

The eloquence of senators who urged the Federal Treasury should have the revenues admittedly available from legalized beer, fell on the expectedly deaf ears of Antisaloon League senators yesterday and the Senate plunged into a debate on the oil tariff, the first of the tariff items in the revenue bill.

The proposal of Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, to create an emergency public construction fund of $1,500,000,000, to be derived from the sale of Government bonds which would be retired in ten years from revenue from legalized beer of only 2.75 per cent alcoholic content, was defeated by a vote of 61 to 24.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, proposed that the Senate should legalize 4 per cent beer. His amendment was voted down by a vote of 60 to 23.

Wort-Malt Tax Foes Fail.

The Senate then voted down the opposition of Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, to the finance committee's tax on wort and malt sirup. Senator Copeland mustered just seven votes. The opposition had 68.

The finance committee tax on brewer's wort was 15 cents a gallon and the tax on malt sirup and similar products was 3 cents a pound. After the Copeland amendment to tax malt at $1.10 a pound had been defeated the committee's proposal was approved.

Then the Senate proceeded with consideration of the oil tariff, the first tariff item, and was still considering that when recess was taken late at night.

Connally Launches Fight.

There was a succession of conferences among senators on the floor and in the cloakrooms as debate was begun on the oil tariff. Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, launched the fight for the tariff items in the bill. While he was talking Republican and Democratic members went about with slips showing the results of their conversations with this and that senator. Now and then one of the senators would leave the floor and go up into the gallery and confer with representatives of the businesses involved. Then they would bustle back and confer with this or that senator, sometimes on the floor but more often in the cloakrooms.

In the end it appeared the tariff advocates would win and there would be counted in their column the votes of several senators who would like to vote otherwise, but who agreed to accept embargo tariffs on oil, coal, copper and lumber because they feared if they didn't the whole budget-balancing tax bill would be thrown open to so many amendments it would be rewritten on the floor.

Frequent efforts were made to get a unanimous agreement on the time for voting on the oil tariff. These were defeated.

As the session wore on it seemed evident that the advocates of tariffs in the bill were willing and anxious to press for a vote, because they were confident of victory. Their prediction that a quick vote could be had

50 Workers Buried In Chile Mud Slide

Railway Tunnel Diggers Believed Dead as 800 Go to Rescue.

Temuco, Cautin Province, Chile, May 18 (A.P.).—Fifty laborers were buried alive today behind a curtain of mud at the entrance of Las Raices Tunnel, near Longquinay, on the route of the new southern railroad through the Andes.

Eight hundred men, sent to the mountain from Temuco, were struggling feverishly tonight to rescue them, but officials held grave fears that all of the buried men were dead from asphyxiation or cold.

The accident occurred at the northern mouth of the tunnel, which had penetrated the mountains to a depth of only 25 of its contemplated 100 feet. Loosened by the filtration of water, thousands of cubic feet of thick mud suddenly dropped into the mouth of the tunnel, cutting off escape for all the men inside.

32 Delegates Added To Roosevelt's Total

18 in South Carolina, 8 in Vermont and 6 in District Make New York Governor's Convention Strength 428 Votes.

(Associated Press.)

Franklin D. Roosevelt gathered in 32 more delegates from the East and South yesterday in his total convention vote for the Democratic presidential nomination to 428.

The New York Governor captured 18 uninstructed but claimed delegates in South Carolina, 8 unanimously favoring him from Vermont, and 6 pledged votes in a District of Columbia primary.

Counting 100 from New York and Pennsylvania already selected and which his managers expect him to get at Chicago, the 32 gained yesterday would bring Roosevelt's convention strength to within 50 of a majority. However, two-thirds, or 770, will be needed for a nomination.

In the only other delegate selections yesterday President Hoover won nineteen pledged delegates from Alabama and nine uninstructed, but claimed votes from Vermont. These 28 ran the Hoover pledged and claimed total to 995 and his pledged delegates to within six of the required majority.

A small vote was cast in the District of Columbia Democratic primary as there was no contest over delegates. It was described by John F. Costello, reelected national committeeman, as a compromise delegation which will vote for Roosevelt under the unit rule until a majority decides to go to some other candidate.

Vermont Republicans came out for resubmission of prohibition before the end of next year, while the Demo-

M'LEAN CHILDREN REST CASE IN TRIAL

Maj. Peyser Does Not Expect Publisher to Return to Testify.

(Associated Press.)

A justice yesterday quickly squelched attempts to introduce evidence in District of Columbia Supreme Court to support the claim that an effort was being made to keep Edward B McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, out of the United States through the threat of a Mann act charge against him.

Julius Peyser, McLean's attorney, made the assertion during trial of a suit attempting to oust McLean as cotrustee of an estate of millions left by his father, the late John R. McLean.

Maj. Peyser asked Elizabeth Poe, a member of The Post editorial staff, to produce "certain checks." After Justice Jennings Bailey asked why they were wanted, Maj. Peyser said they would support his charge that there was a concerted move to keep Mr. McLean from returning to this country. He is now reported to be in France and has been absent from the United States for several months.

From the first, Justice Bailey has made it plain he did not desire to hear sensational testimony hinted at in connection with the case unless it were necessary.

He told Maj. Peyser, after a short discussion, that he did not think it necessary to produce the checks. No further questions were asked Miss Poe. Shortly afterward the trial recessed to give Maj. Peyser time to produce additional witnesses.

After the recess the attorney said one of those he intended to call today is Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, the publisher's wife, who filed the ouster suit on behalf of her three minor children.

Gaston B. Means, now under indictment on charges that he embezzled $104,000 from Mrs. McLean by convincing her he was able to find the Lindbergh baby, has been subpenaed as a witness for Mr. McLean.

Maj. Peyser said yesterday there was little likelihood that Means would be heard if the case proceeded along present lines. He added he did not expect Mr. McLean to return from France to testify.

Attorneys for the children yesterday rested their case after Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co., the other cotrustee of the McLean estate, and Frank Williams, auditor of The Post, testified.

Mr. Thom repeated statements made Tuesday that Mr. McLean's absence caused difficulty in administering the trust. The bank president said that The Post had been an "unproductive asset" since 1924.

3 CAPITAL MEN MADE GAS FIRM DIRECTORS

Robert D. Weaver Becomes Acting President; P. U. C. Silent on Action.

The Public Utilities Commission continued to mark time yesterday afternoon after the directors of the Washington Gas Light Co. had held another meeting in evasion, if not in violation, of the order it issued on May 7 directing the controlling interests to surrender their stock.

While members of the commission declined to comment on yesterday's action, it was interpreted in utility circles as a move on the part of the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation to restore the management of the gas company to local men and so offset the opposition to foreign ownership.

Three influential Washington men were added to the board of directors and Robert D. Weaver, who was named a director last week, was elected first vice president and acting president. He is also president of the Georgetown Gas Light Co.

The new directors are Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co.; Sidney F. Taliaferro, former District Commissioner, and vice president and trust officer of the Riggs National Bank, and Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, retired.

Because the charter limits the number of directors to seven, George B. Fraser, acting president since the resignation of George A. G. Wood, resigned as a director to make room for one of the new directors. He will continue as vice president and treasurer. Mr. Thom was a former director of the company, but resigned last fall, presumably in a protest against the outside control. He has since reported to have reached an agreement with the controlling interests.

It was the vacancy created by his resignation and the post held formerly by Albert E. Peirce, of Chicago, president of the Central Public Service Corporation, which were filled yesterday.

The anual meeting of the stockholders, which was specifically blocked by the commission's order, was again postponed, this time until June 15. The meeting has been postponed several times during the past five months.

There is some question as to whether

Mexico Releases 5 Held In Search for Fleischer

Mexico City, May 18 (U.P.).—Police searching for Harry Fleischer, wanted in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case, today detained five men from Detroit, but released them in less than two hours. The men, police said, had no connection with any gangsters.

20 More Killed in Bombay Riots; Disease Peril Grows

More Than 100 Injured in Clashes Near Mills, Forcibly Closed by Mobs; Filthy Condition of City Causes Fear of Cholera Plague.

Bombay, India, May 18 (U.P.).—Rioting broke out anew tonight in the mill area, where police clashed with mobs in a fight that raised the death toll to about 100 in the last five days of disorders among Hindus and Moslems.

Four persons were killed when police and troops opened fire in the mill district, bringing the total killed to twenty. More than 150 were injured.

The situation was considered more threatening than ever because many mills were forcibly closed by the rioters.

In other districts, police three times fired into mobs of demonstrators, but otherwise managed to quiet the situation somewhat.

Meanwhile, officials became alarmed by the threat of a cholera epidemic or plague as a result of the rioting.

The city water works were closed because of threats by rioters, the debris of five days' disorders was piled in the streets, many corpses have not yet been removed from the streets and the normal garbage collections have ceased.

Part of the city is littered with filth and the tropical sun rapidly makes the situation more serious.

CHARITY HEADS LABEL U. S. AID FUND AS VITAL

HOOVER'S APPROVAL OF $600,000 IS CITED

Patrick Hits Action in House Against Taximeters at Hearing.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Urgent pleas from representatives of virtually every local relief agency, attesting need for a $600,000 unemployment aid item in the District supply bill, were laid before the Senate District appropriations subcommittee at a special session last night.

Witnesses who packed the committeeroom from 7 p. m. until adjournment at 10, asked the Senate to restore to the bill relief funds recommended as necessary by the President, but deleted by the House.

Only two spoke in opposition to the appropriation. They were Representative Thomas L. Blanton, defending the House action, and F. W. A. Summers, a former member of the District committee on employment.

Headed by Street.

Scores of witnesses appearing for the fund were headed by Community Chest Director Elwood Street. Included in their number were George S. Wilson, director of Public Welfare; Walter S. Ufford, of Associated Charities; Dr. Frederick W. Perkins, of the Washington Council of Social Agencies; Dorsey W. Hyde, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and Judge James A. Cobb, of the Municipal Court.

The burden of their testimony was that 20,000 persons are now out of work in the District, funds of many relief agencies will be exhausted by August, tenant evictions are the highest in Washington's history, demands for relief have increased 100 per cent, where only a 40 per cent increase was looked for last year.

Representative Blanton claimed the majority of those out of work here are transients "who should have stayed at home." He declared the depression "has not hit the District" and most residents do not want the $600,000. He charged the appropriation would be the opening wedge for the dole, and would constitute "bad psychology" for people in the States who are not getting similar aid.

Reply of Proponents.

To this the relief agencies responded that the fund asked is in no sense a Federal contribution, inasmuch as the great bulk of District appropriations come out of the pockets of District taxpayers.

Representative Blanton charged that when asked for a "breakdown" of relief agency expenditures, only a few units responded and others replied that the information was confidential.

Executive Secretary Ufford, of Associated Charities, said his group used 26 per cent of funds received for payment of personnel and other expenses. When Chairman Hiram Bingham

22 Blazes Menace Canadian Forests

Rangers Lead Army of Volunteers in Fight; Arson Suspect Held.

Toronto, May 18 (A.P.).—Twenty-two separate forest and brush fires were burning in New Brunswick tonight. The situation was reported by the government as the most serious since the fires of 1923. The Restigouche county situation had reached major proportions, with an army of volunteers, led by forest rangers, set for an all-night battle to bring the flames under control.

The Quebec Forestry Service stated the flames there were under control, although many new smaller fires had started. Fires in Ontario were reported under control.

Police in Rouyn arrested a man identified as John Rudy, who, they said, had confessed setting a blaze near there. They searched for another man named as an accomplice, describing him as of "Communistic tendencies."

2 U. S. Planes Wrecked In Lower California

San Pedro, Calif., May 18 (A.P.).—A message received at the Coast Guard base here said two airplanes of the scouting force were wrecked on the Lower California coast yesterday, and that the four Navy fliers, who manned them were walking overland to Ensenada to report to Mexican authorities.

The message named only one of the fliers, Lieut. J. O. Brown.

CURTIS BLAMES DECEPTION'S CONTINUANCE ON CLERGYMAN AS HOAXER IS LODGED IN JAIL

Norfolk Inquiry Bares Astounding Details of Deception.

DEAN ADMITS STORY OF "EARNEST MONEY"

Prosecutor Plans Questioning of Associates of "Negotiator."

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Norfolk, Va., May 18 (A.P.).—Astounding details of deception, of attempts to obtain "earnest money," and intimations of further startling revelations swirled tonight in the wake of the confession of John Hughes Curtis that his Lindbergh kidnaping negotiations were a hoax.

That Curtis had requested $25,000 of Col. Lindbergh as "earnest money" was confirmed by Chief of Police S. W. Ironmonger, the money to serve as evidence of good faith and a down payment on the ultimate ransom for the return of the child.

Director of Public Safety Charles B. Borland said he had learned that Curtis went to New York on the morning of April 2, the date that Dr. J. F. Condon tossed the $50,000 of futile ransom money over a Bronx cemetery wall.

Prosecuton to Question Dean.

Commonwealth's Attorney John M. Arnold said he planned to seek information from Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, the third member of the Norfolk trio, and Capt. F. H. Lackmann, skipper of the yacht Marcon, used during two weeks of maneuvers out at sea for a kidnaper's boat that never was seen.

Requests that these three grant him audiences for the purpose of asking questions were made today, Mr. Arnold said.

Dean Confirms Story.

Dean Dobson-Peacock, associate of Curtis in the "negotiations," gave further confirmation of the report. He explained that Col. Lindbergh was asked to place the money on deposit in a Virginia bank, subject to withdrawal only by the indorsement of all three of the intermediaries in the event the child was recovered. He stated that it was his understanding throughout the negotiations that no advance payment of ransom was either asked by the supposed kidnapers or planned by the trio.

Earlier in the day the clergyman, when asked regarding the report, said, "I know nothing about it."

To the rapidly unfolding details of the fantastic and weirdly ironic tragedy to which Curtiss confessed, Chief Ironmonger added his opinion that Curtis had not made a complete confession.

"Something important," the police chief said, "has been withheld. I be-

91 in French Liner Fire Still Missing

Albert Londres, Author, Is Among Them; 698 Passengers Rescued.

Paris, May 18 (U.P.).—About 91 persons, most of the first-class passengers, including the noted author, Albert Londres, are still missing in the destruction of the French liner Georges Philippar by fire in the Gulf of Aden, unofficial figures given out tonight disclosed.

It was estimated in revised figures that 789 persons were on board the steamer. The previous estimate had been 853. Of these, 698 were tentatively accounted for by rescue ships following the arrival of the S. S. Andre Lebon at Djibuti, Africa. Company officials said they hoped other passengers would be accounted for when the check is completed.

Insurance brokers face liability of about $3,500,000 in the disaster. The amount is widely distributed.

300 Veterans on Way Here Encamp in Iowa

Council Bluffs, Iowa, May 18 (A.P.). Headed for Washington to demand cash payment of the bonus, a box car army of 300 unemployed war veterans arrived today from Portland, Oreg.

They encamped in the Union Pacific yards, while free transportation eastward was sought on some other line. The police department and veterans' organizations provided breakfast for them and a gas company gave them free shower baths.

Police 'Certain' Baby Died Night of Theft

Kidnaping Date Given as Time of Murder in Preface to Statement by Curtis Saying Churchman Sought Publicity.

Hopewell, N. J., May 18 (A.P.).—The phrasing of a preface to a statement released from John Hughes Curtis tonight indicated police were convinced that the time and place of the murder of the Lindbergh baby was "in Hopewell, N. J., between 8 and 10 p. m., on the night of March 1, 1932." (The night the child was stolen from his crib.)

The preface to the statement of Curtis read as follows:

"Statement made to Inspector Harry W. Walsh, Jersey City Police Department, concerning the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., in Hopewell, N. J., between 8 and 10 p. m. on the night of March 1, 1932."

Curtis' statement said he had expressed a desire to drop his "fake" negotiations on March 15 "because of my knowledge that the whole thing was untrue," but "carried on because I had been continuously urged and encouraged by Dean Peacock, who was enjoying the publicity that he was getting out of the newspaper stories."

Dean H. Dobson-Peacock and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, of Norfolk, Va., were Curtis' associates in the Lindbergh case.

Curtis termed "another bid for publicity" by the dean, the latter's story of being held up by gangsters in a New York hotel on a visit to meet him (Curtis).

"Either I said or the dean said that if this case breaks from another angle we can always say we were working on a clew," Curtis related, "and the dean said 'that's right, we can never be criticized on anything we did.'

"I know from my experience with the dean that the only interest he had throughout this entire matter was one of satisfying his desires for

QUIZZING OF 'JAFSIE' LEAVES TALE INTACT

MAIN "JAFSIE" DATES.
(Associated Press.)

March 8—A week after the kidnaping—Dr. John F. Condon publicly offered to act as an intermediary for the return of the stolen Lindbergh baby. The offer resulted in his receipt of a communication, identified as genuine by comparison with the original ransom note, from the abductors.

March 12—Supplied with nursery toys and safety pins from the baby's garments by Col. Lindbergh, Dr. Condon met one of the "kidnapers" in Woodlawn Cemetery (New York City) and received satisfactory identification of the articles.

March 16—A garment purporting to be the baby's sleeping suit was received by Dr. Condon and accepted by Col. Lindbergh.

April 2—While Col. Lindbergh waited in an automobile nearby, Dr. Condon tossed a package containing $50,000 over a fence to a man in St. Raymond's Cemetery in the Bronx (New York City); but the man's directions for finding the infant proved false.

Hopewell, N. J., May 18 (A.P.).—Questioning of Dr. John F. Condon, Lindbergh intermediary, has police said tonight, "continued from time to time and his answers adhere consistently to the fundamental facts related so far." The police statement added that Dr. Condon thus far had been unable to identify any rogues

New York Police Trail Lindbergh Ransom Bills

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—The New York Evening Post said late today Inspector Henry Bruckman, of New York City police, and a staff of detectives were on the trail of the currency bills paid by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the hope of regaining his son alive.

GREEN SEDAN HUNT RESUMED BY POLICE

Parade of Mysterious Cars Now Includes One on Curtis' Property.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Another automobile was added today to the parade of mysterious cars figuring in the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation.

Like so many of the others, this one is a green sedan. It is the private automobile of John Hughes Curtis, who has been held on a charge of violating the law in his fake "negotiations."

Curtis had asked police to hunt a green sedan. He described the car in detail. Police searched—but the only car they could find answering the description was one parked at the shipbuilder's plant. Mud scrapings were taken from it. They will be analyzed to determine whether it might be New Jersey mud.

In a confidential bulletin sent out by police a few minutes after the kidnaping was announced on March 1 an alarm was sounded for a green sedan. The license number was given, but that car was found abandoned several hours later in Atlantic City.

Still the hunt for a green sedan went on.

Henry (Red) Johnson, seaman-suitor of the Lindbergh baby's nursemaid, who at one time was a suspect, owned a green coupe.

During the week after the kidnaping reports of green cars that had been viewed with suspicion came from all over the country.

On March 8 a toll collector told police two men, a woman and a baby crossed from Perth Amboy, N. J., to Staten Island in a green coupe the night of the kidnaping at 10:45 o'clock.

In the intervening two months scores of cars have been pointed out as suspicious, and have been stopped and searched.

It appears certain an automobile was used in the kidnapers' getaway, but little more about the car is known definitely.

Auto Kills Girl Twin, 6; Another Breaks Boy's Leg

Machine Runs Down Elaine Demos at Crossing Near Home.

One of the twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Speros Demos was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile a short distance from her home at 914 Twenty-second street northwest. The wheels of the machine passed over her body and she died at Emergency Hospital a short time after she was admitted.

The girl, Elaine Demos, 6 years old, was attempting to cross in the heavy rush-hour traffic at Twenty-second and H streets northwest. Police say she was struck by an automobile operated by John G. Hunt, 53 years old, of Berwyn, Md.

The child was placed in an auto-

POLICE HOLD CLERIC FAILS TO COOPERATE

He Replies to Shipbuilder and Denies Asking for Cash for Ransom.

Hopewell, N. J., May 18.—The full glare of the Lindbergh murder hunt put John Hughes Curtis in a jail cell tonight and reflected new light on the activity of Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, his associate in the baby negotiations which the boat builder confessed he "faked."

The garage on the estate of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was transformed into a courtroom for arraignment of Curtis—one of the closing chapters of the gigantic hoax by which the famous flier and countless others were given hope of finding his son alive long after the infant had been slain.

But before he waived a hearing on a charge of giving false information and started toward jail in default of $10,000 bail, Curtis voiced scathing criticism of his Norfolk (Va.) ally.

Puts Blame on Clergyman.

Curtis wished to end the enormous deception, he said, on March 15 "because of my knowledge the whole thing was untrue," but he said he "carried on because I had been continuously urged and encouraged by Dean Dobson-Peacock, who was enjoying the publicity he was getting out of the newspaper stories."

At one time, Curtis related, the remark that should the "case break from another angle we can always say we were working on a clew" prompted the clergyman to add "that's right, we can never get criticised on anything we did."

"I know from my experience with the dean," concluded Curtis, "that the only interest he had throughout this entire matter was one of satisfying his desires for publicity, and the more that he got the better he liked it."

At his Southern home, Dean Dobson-Peacock made an emphatic rebuttal to this criticism as well as to the more important police statements regarding him.

Dean Doubts Authenticity.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State police head, asserted the clergyman once expressed confidence in the "contacts" made by Curtis and endeavored without success to have Col. Lindbergh supply $25,000 for ransom purposes.

Dean Dobson-Peacock said he was skeptical of the authenticity of the latest Curtis statement and insisted "We did not even start the negotiations until after March 22, when we visited Col. Lindbergh." Earlier he had unequivocally denied any knowledge of a request that Col. Lindbergh put up money.

Police said that while the dean showed "no desire to cooperate with the authorities" in coming here voluntarily, they could not legally compel him to make a trip to this State.

A question as to whether grounds for criminal action possibly could be found in the asserted request for money from Col. Lindbergh was met with the announcement that a reply would be sought from the attorney general of New Jersey.

Police Fix Time of Death.

An incidental development was the phrasing of the preface to Curtis' latest statement to police, indicating the authorities were convinced the Lindbergh child was slain between 8 and 10 p. m. on the night of the kidnaping, March 1.

Another angle for investigation was provided by Charles B. Borland, direc-

THIRD-PARTY THREAT STIRS RELIEF ACTION

Watson Tells Borah Jobless to Be Provided For Before Congress Adjourns.

(Associated Press.)

Senate leaders renewed efforts yesterday for a compromise Federal relief program and hurriedly gave assurance of action as a warning of a third party movement was sounded on the floor on this issue.

The warning, from Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, who has been frequently mentioned in connection with third party possibilities, drew a prompt reply from Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, that Congress would provide for the jobless before adjourning.

Meanwhile a special committee of Senate Democrats named to draft a relief program sought an agreement on the $2,400,000,000 proposal of Senator Wagner, of New York.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and a member of the Democratic committee, predicted some kind of understanding on a relief measure by the end of the week.

"I see nothing in the way of preventing action at this session on the relief problem," he told newspapermen.

Tydings Amendment.

Party leaders in the House were noncommital on the relief question, however. Speaker Garner and Representative Snell, Republican leader, said the House would not adjourn or recess for the conventions until the tax, appropriations and economy bills were passed, but refused to talk about unemployment relief.

The Senate debate on relief came just before the Senate rejected the Tydings amendment to the tax bill to provide for a $1,500,000,000 construction program financed by a tax on beer.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, urged his amendment as the only program possible of enactment before the conventions in June, but Mr. Borah replied he could not conceive of Congress recessing until it had faced the unemployment problem.

"It would be a betrayal of public interest that could hardly be measured by language," Mr. Borah said.

He added that the two major parties in control of Congress would be in poor position to appeal to the country for support without an unemployment program.

"If anything would call a third party into existence that would," he said.

Mr. Watson agreed that "some legislation along that line must be passed."

Adjournment Endangered.

"There is no disposition so far as I know," he said, "for Congress to adjourn without enacting the revenue bill, the economy legislation, the appropriation measures and relief."

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, took the position, however, that he would "rather let Virginia levy her own tax and take care of her own unemployed than to have the Government collect a tax, bring it here and then dole it back."

Mr. Borah told Mr. Glass that some of the States and cities had "reached the limit" and Mr. Watson added that "some six or seven States have reached the limit of tax indebtedness."

Hard Hitters In Congress To Help Idle

A bitter congressional battle is in the making. Never before have members of the United States House of Representatives fought for unemployment relief as they will fight on June 4. So terrific will be the struggle that Griffith Stadium has been designated as the only place big enough for the conflict.

Although hard hitting and loud talk will be in order, it all will be in fun. The occasion is the biennial baseball game between the House Democrats and Republicans. All money will go for the relief of Washington's unemployed.

The official appointment of the team captains was announced yesterday: For the Democrats, Representative Thomas S. McMillan, of South Carolina; for the Republicans, Representative Vincent Carter, of Wyoming. The game is sponsored by Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to Presiden Wilson, and E. F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman for the District.

Distinguished guests are expected to attend and nationally known athletes will act as umpires. Nick Altrock, the funny man of the Washington Ball Club, will provide some of the laughs.

"I Told You So!" Liars And Egotists Are Allied

By JOHN J. DALY

I TOLD you so!

I knew it all the time.

I have inside information.

I—Ego—am a great guy because I think so. As a man thinketh so is he. I am convinced that I am imperial.

I know all there is to know—on any subject. That is why I am privileged to intrude on other peoples' preserves, into their private business. I am a sacred person.

I. I. I. I. I.

The I has it.

It is natural that I should figure so prominently in human affairs. See who I am. I am the Great, I am.

I am a man!

* * * *

ALL the world centers about my person, my activities, my hopes, my ambitions, aspirations, my desires. I control the universe. The sun shines for me. I am the reason why flowers bloom, shedding their fragrance for me. I am the listener to the songs of the birds. For me the moon shines and the stars twinkle. The earth turns on its axis once every 24 hours before I must be kept in motion.

I am the cause of the seasons' changes—the summer warmth to soothe me; the showers of spring to bathe me; the fruits of autumn to comfort me; the blasts of winter to stir my royal blood. I have the day for my endeavors, and the night for sleep. For me the ocean pulsates, and I am covered by the vaulted canopy of heaven, the sky. I am the biggest factor in life.

* * * *

THERE is no other. Even when I pray I place myself before the Supreme Being—"I believe in God, the Father Almighty, creator of heaven and earth," who put all these magnificent gifts at my service, that I should be happy in this world and in ecstasy, forever, in the next.

Here, I am a citizen, a gentleman and a scholar. There, I shall be an archangel. I shall own my own ark, a celestial bark, and I will be the captain.

I know more than anybody else—professors, teachers, preachers, students and statesmen. To me all doors are open, for I hold the key to the Book of Knowledge. I am all things to all men—especially in their sorrow and distress. I bring them the will-o'-the-wisp happiness, if only momentarily. I am everything but humble. I—— wasn't borne out as the night session wore on but Republican and Democratic leaders seemed in agreement that the oil tariff advocates had won enough votes to keep it in the bill. They admitted, too, that as the oil tariff went, so would, in all likelihood, go the other tariff items.

Oh, yes; I almost forgot to say that I am a liar.

PLAN TO LEGALIZE AND TAX BEER IS DEFEATED IN SENATE

Harrison Asks Postponement.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, ranking minority member of the finance committee, tried to do with the tariff items what he had vainly tried the day before to do with the general rules tax. He asked for unanimous consent to defer consideration of the oil and other tariff items until other provisions of the bill had been acted on.

That proposal didn't please the oil tariff advocates any more than had the proposal of Senator Harrison the day before pleased the advocates of the general sales tax.

Senator Huey Long (Democrat), of Louisiana, who had been very active about the floor in the course of the afternoon, assumed the role of objector to various requests to agree to a vote on the tariff.

Before that stage was reached, however, there were a series of parliamentary maneuvers about the matter, in the course of which sharp words were exchanged. Vice President Curtis ruled that the proposition before the Senate was to strike out the House oil tariff rates and to substitute the finance committee rates, which was a varied schedule, reducing the primary import tax from one to one-half cent a gallon on crude oil.

Norris Offers Amendment.

Senator George W. Norris (Republican), Nebraska, Senator Robert M. LaFollette jr. (Republican), Wisconsin, Senator Henry F. Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, and Senator Tydings got into the argument.

The upshot of the parliamentary tangle was that Senator Norris, who said he was opposed to a tariff on oil, offered an amendment to the committee amendment providing for an import tariff of one-quarter of a mill per gallon.

Senator Connally made a point of order against that proposal, which he said hadn't been offered in good faith because Senator Norris was opposed to any tariff on oil. The point of order was overruled. Senator Connally countered by offering a substitute to the substitute amendment. The Texan proposed to increase the tariff from the one-half cent a gallon proposed in the bill to one cent a gallon.

Senator Connally, taking the floor after the preliminary maneuvering, said that the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, which owned the Pan-American Petroleum Co., the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the Dutch Shell Oil Co. and the Gulf Petroleum Co., which was owned by Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, were the four organizations which would benefit by defeat of the oil tariff.

"It is simply a question whether the United States Treasury or these four companies get these $30,000,000," Senator Connally said. "This tariff will not mean anything else than that the revenue it will bring into the Treasury shall come out of the profits of these four great oil companies. Perhaps Mr. Mellon needs the money."

Democratic Support Fails.

Earlier in the day Senator Tydings had urged approval of his beer amendment. When it came to the test, the Democratic party again was found wanting in the Senate, if it is to represent itself to the Nation in the forthcoming campaign as the champion of the wets. Of course, the various senators will have various explanations. Perhaps they shall suffice them individually but the party record was absolutely ruined as to any claims to the sole support of the wet element when voting time came.

Senate Group Resumes Work on Economy Today

After a four-day intermission forced by the illness of one of its members the special Senate economy committee at 10 o'clock this morning will resume its search for $300,000,000 in Federal economies necessary to balance the budget.

Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, author of the Senate program of 10 per cent appropriation cuts and a member of the bipartisan Senate committee, will not attend the session.

In announcing the meeting, Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones made known that Senator McKellar, although considerably improved since his collapse Saturday from overwork, has not recovered sufficiently to sit in on today's hearings.

Senate speed on the revenue bill, which led observers to predict it may be out of the way by the close of the week, was believed to have inspired yesterday's economy committee call.

The economy measure was to follow the tax bill on the floor, as Chairman Jones had announced that both measures must be put through before the Senate passes any additional appropriations.

The bipartisan group is using as a basis the $42,000,000 in savings left in the House economy bill following its emasculation by that body and a list covering all practicable economies suggested during the retrenchment drive, prepared by Director of the Budget J. Clawson Roop.

During the economy committee's intermission Senator Hiram Bingham, a member of the group and chairman of the Senate District appropriations subcommittee, seized the opportunity to hold belated hearings night and day on the District supply bill. Last night he announced that the District hearings will be adjourned indefinitely to meet again on the call of the chairman.

HOUSE DEFIES CHIEF; VOTES BANKHEAD BILL

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic House, which bolted its leaders on both tax and economy bills, yesterday voted the Bankhead bill carrying a $4,000,000 authorization for vocational rehabilitation.

Over the protest of Representative McDuffie (Democrat), of Alabama, economy leader, the membership massed in support of Representative Bankhead (Democrat), of Louisiana, and approved continuation of rehabilitation work at the rate of $1,000,000 annually for four years. The funds would be spent on a dollar-matching basis with the States, under the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

The special economy, of which Mrs. McDuffie was chairman, had attempted unsuccessfully in its economy bill to eliminate gradually Federal aid to vocational education.

Mr. McDuffie clashed sharply yesterday with Mr. Bankhead, his personal friend and fellow Alabama Democrat, denouncing Bankhead's bill, both on economy grounds and as an usurpation of State authority by the Federal Government.

Mr. McDuffie said the economy committee had taken it for granted the vocational rehabilitation would expire at the time stated in the act—June 30, 1933.

He attempted to obtain a cut from $80,000 to $50,000 in an added annual appropriation for the four-year administration of the act, but failed.

Local Deficiency Totals Submitted

3-Year Estimates Are Given House; Requested From Hoover by Roop.

Supplemental and deficiency estimates for the District totaling $234,920, covering the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, were submitted to the House yesterday by President Hoover on recommendation of Col. J. Clawson Roop, director of the budget.

The items covered $695 for the coroner's office, $15,187 for contingent and miscellaneous expenses, $10,000 for the Garfield Hospital isolating ward, $12,566 for the support of convicts, $1,029 for writs of lunacy, $29,080 for District Supreme Court expenses, $23,500 for child welfare, $6,500 for the National Training School for Boys, $34,892 for medical charities.

Also $81,513 for St. Elizabeths Hospital, $2,500 for relief of the poor, $14,716 for payment of judgments rendered against the District and $2,595 for audited claims.

Vermont's Democratic Votes Are Uninstructed

Burlington, Vt., May 18 (U.P.).—Vermont's twelve delegates to the Democratic national convention will be uninstructed, the State convention decided today, although they are known to favor the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Their eight votes will be cast by four delegates with a full vote each, four delegates at large with a half vote each, and four women delegates with a half vote each.

Timothy Conklin, Roosevelt man, defeated James E. Kennedy, former national committeeman and Alfred E. Smith leader, after Kennedy had been nominated as candidate for delegate. It was the only contest of the convention.

asked if this was not a "little high." Mr. Ufford replied that it was "low" in view of the service rendered and the highly trained staff of 70 workers maintained by the organization.

Stress Operating Costs.

Director Street testified that the Chest only used 6 per cent of funds collected for expenses. Mr. Wilson and Commissioner Luther Reichelderfer asked the senators not to lower the limit of the $600,000 appropriation to be used for operating expenses below the 10 per cent specified in the supplemental estimates. To do this would entail unwise expenditure of the fund by an untrained force, they said.

Other witnesses who urged the appropriation included Newbold Noyes, Mrs. Ufford, Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, Frank R. Jelleff, Dr. John H. Gray, Miss Etta L. Taggart, Mrs. M. C. Betts, W. L. Darby, of the Washington Federation of Churches, Hetty Anderson, of the Young Women's Christian Association, George J. Cleary, of the Holy Name Society; Father Lawrence J. Sheehan, of Catholic Charities; and R. J. Clinchy, of the Monday Evening Club.

Right to follow through his order requiring taxi installation of meters was asked of the subcommittee yesterday by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission.

Hits House Action.

Chairman Patrick asked that House language prohibiting the commission from publishing the order be "wiped from the bill." He charged the clause is obscure. If the Senate wishes to continue the zone system of taxi operation in force, it should substitute a provision barring taxis from commission regulation, he said.

Representative Byron B. Harlan (Democrat), Ohio, who defended the order in the House, supported Gen. Patrick's testimony. He pointed to the District Supreme Court ruling upholding the order, and declared the restriction was approved by the House with only 25 members present.

Gen. Patrick reiterated his position that taxi drivers can not make a living at present rates and are forced to drive such long hours that they constitute a public danger. He said the new scale of meter rates would work a hardship on no one and operate to the benefit of the public generally.

Senator John B. Kendrick (Democrat), Wyoming, said he strongly opposed a return to the "monopolistic" system of taxi operation in force here about two years ago. Gen. Patrick replied the "monopoly" was due to lack of taxi regulation the commission now is seeking to correct.

Delegates from 31 local civic organizations, headed by Edward R. Williams, president of the Business High School Parent-Teacher Association, appeared in the interest of a stadium for the new Roosevelt High School.

Miss Margaret R. Ryan, a member of the delegation, read petitions asking the committee to increase the construction item for the school from $100,000 to $160,000, and boost the furnishings item from $150,000 to $220,000. George E. Sullivan, vice president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, testified to that body's support of the project.

Plea for School.

A strong case for reinsertion of $100,000 for a Foxhall Village elementary school, recommended by the Budget Bureau but dropped by the House, was made by W. L. Bruckart, representing organized residents of the community. He declared Foxhall children now must travel from a mile to a mile and a half to attend overcrowded classes, crossing traffic-laden boulevards.

Others who testified yesterday included District Tax Assessor William P. Richards, who said the District real estate rate compares favorably with other cities; George L. Gee, who urged Taft Junior High School construction needs, and Wilbur Finch, president of the Burroughs Citizens Association, who asked erection of an elementary high school and improvement of streets in his section.

Mr. Richards said recent sales of property below assessment levels will not affect assessments in the coming year but may mean lowered assessments thereafter.

Vermont G. O. P. Seeks Early Dry Referendum

Montpelier, Vt., May 18 (A.P.).—Vermont Republicans, at the liveliest State convention in years, today elected nine delegates to the Republican national convention who were uninstructed but favorable to the renomination of President Hoover, and demanded the prohibition question be submitted to the people before the end of next year.

The convention also adopted a resolution demanding "immediate and drastic reduction" of the "appalling expense of government."

Curtis Threatens to Call Roll on Noisy Senators

(Associated Press.)

Vice President Curtis had difficulty enforcing order in the Senate yesterday as the debate waxed warm over beer, tariff levies and taxes in general, and he once threatened to announce the names of disorderly senators.

This unusual warning came during a quorum call. Curtis was rapping insistently for order. As soon as he stopped, senators began talking to each other.

"If senators become out of order again," Curtis said, "the president will announce their names from the chair."

WOMEN PREACHERS DENIED EQUAL RIGHT

Move for Even Footing With Men Fails at Conference of Methodists.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 18 (A.P.).—The Methodist General Conference tonight refused to admit women to equal standing with men in the ministry of its church.

After a two and a half hour debate, the conference by vote of 417 to 331 vetoed the amendment which would allow women, married or single, to become members of annual conferences with the same status as ordained ministers.

Miss Florence Resor, a local preacher of Buhl, Minn., urged in the debate that women be given equal ministerial rights not as a matter of economics, but of social justice.

The victorious opposition centered its arguments on the fact that the marriage and maternity of a woman preacher interfere with her pastoral duties and that few churches would accept a woman pastor.

Col. Joseph J. Shy, of Chillicothe, Mo., speaking against ecclesiastical equality for woman, remarked: "Six days out of seven I must listen to a woman preaching in my home, and on the seventh day the Lord says, 'Thou shalt rest.' It seems to me, there are things higher and nobler for a woman than gallivanting around filling pulpits."

HORIZONTAL TARIFF RISE O'BRIEN'S AIM

Plan to Boost Duties Against Nations Whose Money Is Depreciated Scored.

(Associated Press.)

Robert L. O'Brien, chairman of the Tariff Commission, yesterday assailed plans for an upward adjustment of import duties against countries having depreciated money.

He announced his readiness, however, to support a horizontal boost in Hawley-Smoot rates for which "a great deal could be said."

Speaking for a majority of the group at whose head President Hoover recently placed him, O'Brien said, "It would be a great mistake" for Congress to enact the Hawley bill to compensate foreign currency depreciations by tariff increases.

"Pass a horizontal increase of 10 to 25 per cent on all ad valorem rates and that would meet the situation," he said. "I would support that."

He added that the proposed legislation "penalizing Great Britain, which has gone off the gold standard, but still is our best customer, in favor of France, which never has given us most-favored-nation treatment."

"Every country is rushing to protect itself by raising tariff duties, and I should like to see this country do the same, but not by assuming that in changing the yardstick of value you change the cost of production," he said.

"Temporarily there may be a little advantage for the country during a swing from one standard to another, but when you compare it with world prices, a changed standard of prices must take place."

O'Brien said statistics of the American Tariff League showed countries still on the gold standard were pressing American industry just as hard as those which have abandoned the gold standard.

Later, Dr. A. L. Faubel, secretary of this league, contended:

"I never saw a fair statistical treatment so unfairly treated as by the chairman of the Tariff Commission."

Brief pleas for the Hawley bill were made by Representatives Beedy and Snow, Republicans, on behalf of the Maine pulpwood and sardine industries.

G. W. Oliphant, of Castle & Overton, Inc., of New York City, said their business as a converting paper mill would be injured financially by the bill because they "contract for long periods in advance."

Ralph Shaffer, of Tacoma, Wash., indorsed the measure, arguing that the Shaffer Box Co. has suffered from debased foreign currencies.

2 Drivers Seized In Triple Wreck

Victims of Crash Pursue and Capture One Man in Woods.

Two drivers whose automobiles had been damaged in a triple crash on Sixteenth street northwest at Rock Creek Ford road last night chased the driver of the third machine afoot and held him for police. Two of the men said they had to fight their way out of their overturned car to take part in the chase.

An automobile driven by T. Ormonde Nichols, 29 years old, of Chevy Chase, Md., was overturned, he told police, when a machine operated by Alex Goines, 32, of 55 A street northeast, crashed into the car of Private Joseph R. Wharton, 24, of Walter Reed Hospital, and then careened into his.

Nichols said he and Fred W. Boothby, 28, of 1847 California street northwest, made their way out of the wreckage and with Wharton, caught Goines in the woods after a chase. Goines was charged with leaving after colliding and driving without a permit. Wharton also was charged with driving without a permit.

BABY ASLEEP TAKEN; TOSSED OVER FENCE

Extortionists Send 3 Notes, Kidnap 2-Year-Old and Then Lose Nerve.

Steubenville, Ohio, May 18 (A.P.).—Two-year-old Eugene Swearingen was stolen from his crib last night by extortionists, who apparently lost their nerve and tossed him behind a fence, county authorities said today.

Tonight Eugene was safely in the arms of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swearingen, of Warrenton, near here, none the worse except for a bruise over his left eye.

The father said theft of his son, one of seven children, was threatened in three notes received during the last two weeks demanding $500. As he is an unemployed steel worker without ransom funds, county authorities said the abduction probably was done by some one acquainted with the family and inspired by the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Little Eugene, wrapped in his blanket, was discovered half an hour after the entire citizenry of Warrenton, a village of 200 persons began a search. The rail fence over which he was thrown is only 500 yards from the Swearingen home.

The parents said they heard a noise earlier in the evening in the baby's room, but at first thought it was their dog. Apparently the kidnapers crept through a rear window into the room, located on the ground floor, and carried Eugene out.

The last of the three extortion notes was left in Swearingen's automobile yesterday morning, officials said. It said:

"Bring $500 to Yorkville Airport (4 miles from Warrenton), Wednesday night at 11:45. Bring a plank and put money under plank and don't bring any law with you. Don't fool us, or w will get one of your babies." It was signed "Sti-Al-14.012."

Swearingen turned this note over to authorities. He said he had been keeping a close watch over Eugene since the first note was received.

Lindbergh Extortionist Is Charged as Vagrant

Nebraska City, Nebr., May 18 (A.P.).—A vagrancy charge was filed today by County Attorney George H. Heinke against John C. Sonnie, 22, of Greensburg, Pa., in jail here in connection with an attempt to extort $35,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The young man admitted he wrote a letter to Lindbergh demanding the money for delivery of the Lindbergh baby and said two men from Omaha forced him to write it.

Sheriff Carl Ryder is holding Sonnie for postal inspectors who are investigating the case. A deputy United States marshal is expected to take Sonnie to Omaha tomorrow. A hearing on the vagrancy charge will be held here later.

CURTIS BLAMES COLLEAGUE FOR CONTINUANCE OF HOAX

tor of public safety in Norfolk, Va., who said he had learned Curtis went to New York on the morning of April 2, the date that Dr. John F. Condon, another intermediary, tossed the futile $50,000 ransom to a man in a Bronx (New York City) cemetery.

Police asserted answers Dr. Condon has made to their questions "adhere consistently to the fundamental facts related so far."

In New York Dr. Condon disclosed tonight he received between five and seven notes, supposedly from the kidnapers, after he had paid the ransom. All demanded more money. He replied to them by putting his answers under a rock near the cemetery, where the ransom was paid, as directed to do in the notes.

Headline Pleases Jafsie.

He said these later notes did not bear the cryptic symbol which appeared on the original ransom demand and also was in the notes received before he paid the $50,000. He was not sure, he explained, whether these last five to seven notes were "genuine," but added:

"I wasn't taking any chances, so I answered them."

They were not shown to Col. Lindbergh, he said, but Col. Henry Breckinridge, the flier attorney, knew of them.

"I was determined not to pay any more," Dr. Condon said in discussing the notes.

"You don't see my chin down, do you?" the aged educator said, as he drove downtown to deliver a lecture. "I don't ask any favors of anyone. I know they're pointing their fingers at me, but all I wanted to do was restore that baby to his mother."

He bought a newspaper and scanned it for his name. His eye spotted the line:

"Jafsie sole contact now."

"There, isn't that fine?" he said, reading the headline aloud.

Curious About Public Feeling.

He was anxious to know if there was any change of public feeling toward him.

"I worked night and day to restore that baby," he said with a sigh, "and all I get is thankless criticism."

Commenting on his scheduled appearance before the Bronx (New York City) grand jury Friday, he said:

"I've told my story. They have my statement. If I make a contradiction they must remember I've been pretty busy and this isn't all I have on my mind."

"Do you think I took a penny of that $50,000?" he asked. "Why, I even saved Col. Lindbergh $20,000."

In explanation he reiterated a story of how he had been given $70,000 by Col. Lindbergh, the amount demanded, but before keeping the cemetery rendezvous handed $20,000 back to Col. Lindbrgh and persuaded the man he met to be content with the remaining $50,000.

Suicide Attempt Denied.

Arraignment of Curtis late in the afternoon climaxed a day during which he had been under the constant escort of a State policeman who was guarding against the possibility of a suicide attempt by Curtis. The police said information from Norfolk related that Curtis, who suffered financial reverses in recent years, had once sought to take his own life in the South.

It was emphatically and officially denied, however, that he had made any such attempt since his confession.

Curtis was formally arrested in the Lindbergh garage prior to his being taken before Justice of the Peace George Webster. The complaint on which he was arraigned charged that "On May 13, 1932, John Hughes Curtis, being within the State of New Jersey at the township of East Amwell and the County of Hunterdon aforesaid for the purpose of hindering the apprehension of the person or persons guilty of the said crime, did knowingly or willfully give false and untrue reports of the person or persons guilty of the commission of the crime aforesaid."

As soon as he waived hearing, bail was fixed and he was held for action of the Hunterdon County grand jury. He was ordered placed in the Hunterdon County Jail at Flemington.

"Do you want counsel?" Hauck asked Curtis at the outset.

"What's it all about?" replied the boat builder.

Then as the reading of the charge began, Curtis faced the justice of the peace. His frequently photographed smile of confidence was missing, but he appeared outwardly composed.

He was asked again if he desired an attorney, but he said that he would obtain one himself.

"I waive the hearing," Curtis spoke out in answer to a question.

Bail then was fixed.

"Where are you going to take me from here?" asked Curtis.

He was told the name of the jail, but he made no further comment and was silent throughout the automobile ride to Flemington. A second automobile of troopers accompanied the car in which Curtis rode.

2,000 in Crowd at Jail.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 persons was gathered at the jail. Any opportunity for a demonstration by the crowd was circumvented by authorities who escorted their prisoner directly through a side entrance into the sheriff's office.

Trailing the strange procession was one State trooper bearing a cardboard box containng a few personal effects of the prisoner.

Prosecutor Hauck said that he delivered Curtis to the jail in good physical condition, but that the boatbuilder showed some signs of the "ordeal" he had passed through.

The prosecutor said the reason for the private arraignment at the Lindbergh estate was the desire for speed.

Curtis was placed in a cell on the second floor of the jail and in a section which was otherwise unoccupied. A 24-hour personal guard will continue in force while he is in jail.

New Questions for Curtis.

As the criminal action against Curtis went forward police had at least three pertinent questions about him to which they urgently desired satisfactory answer. They were:

Where was Curtis the night of March 1, when the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby occurred?

Was the green sedan which he urged investigators to hunt his own car—the only one found that answered the description he gave?

Was mud found on that sedan Jersey mud?

The chief of police in Curtis' home town, where one division of the investigation is centering, said he did not believe the shipbuilder had made a complete confession.

"I believe there is something more, something important he has not yet told," said the chief, S. W. Ironmonger.

In their checking of Curtis' story the authorities had the assistance of Miss Ruth Gay. She was identified by William E. Haskell, of the New York Herald Tribune, as a stenographer, apparently employed by Curtis at one time.

Girl's Story Being Checked.

As a stenographer, Haskell said, she attended all conferences between Curtis and members of the Herald Tribune staff regarding the possible availability of Curtis' story for publication in the event of success in returning the baby.

Curtis, in one of his statements to police before he confessed the "enormous deception," said he had discussed with Haskell and Grafton Wilcox, managing editor of the Herald Tribune, the possibility of publishing his story. He said Miss Gay and his friend, Edwin K. Bruce, of Elmira, N. Y., were present.

Police said Miss Gay had been "actively cooperating with the police in an effort to determine the actual facts of Mr. Curtis' activities, and to vindicate herself so far as inferred implications of her connection with this case might exist."

"Miss Gay is being questioned and a statement is being taken which will be investigated and checked," said police.

"There has been nothing developed up to this time which would indicate Miss Gay was knowingly involved with any intention of deceiving either Col. Lindbergh or the authorities."

Dr. Condon appeared visibly tired after an inspection of some 1,900 rogues' gallery pictures in Westchester County.

A large crowd had gathered in front of the Decatur avenue home of Dr. Condon as he returned to New York, and to escape the crowd he had his car driven in the back way. A New Jersey policeman was at the wheel of the machine, and accompanying them was another car carrying two New York City detectives and a second Jersey State policeman.

Dr. Condon's car drove up to his back door. He had with him two worn suitcases, but he refused to answer any questions.

The New Work Evening Post said Bronx County (New York City) detectives are close on the trail of twelve pieces of the ransom money paid by "Jafsie," and which were disclosed as having been passed in New York within the past ten days.

"Contacts" in New York Hotel.

In another phase of the "fake" Norfolk negotiations, police said regarding the third of the intermediaries there, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, "nothing has been developed to indicate that Admiral Burrage was actively involved in this deception."

Dean Dobson-Peacock at one time told of attemptting to treat in a New York hotel with gangsters claiming to have the baby in their possession. Police said regarding this "investigation has developed that the alleged anonymous telephone call which summoned Mr. Peacock to the Park Central Hotel in New York, where he registered under the name of Hill, was apparently put in by Curtis."

WALKER'S BROTHER LINKED TO CHECKS

Salesman of City Supplies Denies He Split Fees With Mayor's Kin.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—The Hofstadter investigating committee today heard charges alleging that a salesman of city street-cleaning equipment split commissions with Mayor Walker's brother and his missing accountant.

Dr. William H. Walker, physician and brother of the mayor, received $2,828, Counsel Samuel Seabury charged. This was half the commissions the salesman, William J. Scanlan, was paid for selling equipment to Walker's administration.

Seabury at the same time brought out that Russell T. Sherwood, a long-sought witness, got $6,000 shortly after a similar deal was put through.

On top of these disclosures testimony was produced that the records of a transaction by which Mayor Walker profited to the extent of $26,835 without risking a cent were unaccountably missing from the files of the suspended Wall street house of J. A. Sisto & Co.

Checks Half of Deposits.

William J. Scanlan, a broker, a realty dealer and a salesman of sorts—who has no office, but takes his phone calls at City Hall—admitted the payment to Dr. Walker, and said it was for medical services. He denied it represented a split on commissions on the sale of street sweepers by the Butler Manufacturing Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, and of ash removal trucks.

But Counsel Samuel Seabury came back at the witness with evidence showing that on each of three dates he drew checks to the mayor's brother he deposited double the amount in a Fifth avenue bank. These deals occurred in 1930 and 1931, when the city was purchasing much equipment.

"Your practice was that as soon as you got your commissions you would not wait," Counsel Seabury asked, "but divide right away with Dr. Walker?"

Sherwood's Sisters Called.

"I pay my bills," the witness replied. "I paid what I owed him."

Disclosure of the missing brokerage files was made by William P. Derby, a partner in the Sisto firm in 1929. He testified that during a period of receivership by the Irving Trust Co. in 1931 the records were transferred from his office. The data involving a gift of 33 bonds to Mayor Walker was missing when the files were returned, he said, but he did not know it was not missing before the transfer.

Late in the day Sherwood's two sisters, the Misses Mildred and Velma Sherwood, of Suffern, N. Y., took the stand and were cloaked with immunity. They did not know where their brother was, they said, and had not seen him since last summer, when he went on a honeymoon trip to Mexico City.

publicity and the more that he got the better he liked it."

Norfolk, Va., May 18 (A.P.).—Dean H. Dobson-Peacock indignantly denied tonight a charge made by John Hughes Curtis that he had urged his associate to carry on the faked Lindbergh negotiations much against the will of the principal "negotiator."

"It is absolutely untrue," the minister said. "I don't believe Mr. Curtis said that. Where is that coming from any way?"

When explained further, that it was a new statement made by Mr. Curtis, Dean Dobson-Peacock reiterated, "Well, I don't believe he said it."

Dean Dobson-Peacock said the negotiations were not under way on March 13, the day Curtis, in his new statement said he expressed a desire to drop his activities, but "carried on because I had been continuously urged and encouraged by Dean Peacock."

"That is untrue," he said, "We did not even start the negotiations until after March 22, when we visited Col. Lindbergh."

The minister refused to comment on other portions of the new statement.

No police officials could be reached for amplification of the preface to the Curtis statement. Authorities in nearby cities, however, pointed out that it is customary in obtaining statements prior to prosecution to identify fully and explicitly at the outset the case history. Such legal phraseology as employed in the preface is routine, they said.

It was known, however, that authorities were overlooking no possible clew to the main crime and have even gone to the extent of making a thorough inquiry into Curtis' whereabouts the night of the kidnaping.

House Group Approves Death for Kidnapers

(Associated Press.)

While the Nation was learning more yesterday of the Lindbergh baby hoax, a bill providing life imprisonment or death for kidnapers was given the approval of a House subcommittee.

A recommendation was made that the full judiciary committee submit the measure—sponsored by Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri—to the House for action as early as possible. It would forbid the transportation of a kidnaped person in interstate or foreign commerce and leave to the discretion of a Federal judge the imposition of the death penalty or a sentence of from one year to life.

Meanwhile, Federal prosecution of John Hughes Curtis, confessed hoaxer in the Lindbergh case, seemed remote.

It was said that the responsibility for taking whatever Federal action is possible rested with Paul W. Kear, United States attorney at Norfolk, and that there is no present intention of guiding him from Washington.

A resolution offered by Representative Douglass (Democrat), Massachusetts, to authorize a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the Lindbergh kidnapers and other abductors was tabled by the House judiciary subcommittee because Congress has no power to create such rewards. The President, however, would be so empowered under the Cochran bill, Montague said.

The full judiciary committee will act on the Cochran bill next Tuesday.

VICTIM OF AUTO

TOMMY AYCOCK.

LEG OF BOY CRUSHED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Ralph Wainut, 11 years old, of 5117 Eighth street northwest, schoolmates at Truesdale School, Russell, who was driving south on Eighth street with two American University students on their way to take part in a church play at Hamline Methodist Church, said he saw Henry and Ralph as they darted to safety in front of his car.

He saw Tommy a little too late. He swerved to the right, but the left front fender brushed the boy on the leg and sent him spinning into the street.

Russell immediately brought his car to a stop and with Henry Weeks, sr., who had been watching the boys at play, placed Tommy in the car and took him to the hospital.

"I'se regusted," the little boy said between clenched teeth as they placed him on the operating table.

Physicians found several inches of bone had been broken in his leg. They believed an amputation might be necessary. The boy is the son of T. C. Aycock, assistant chief operator of the Western Union offices in Washington.

Dolly Gann Scores Democratic Chiefs

Party's Congress Leaders Blamed for Slump's Continuance.

St. Louis, May 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, in a speech here tonight blamed Democractic leaders in Congress for a continuation of uncertainty regarding the business future of the United States.

"Only the resolute opposition of the President," she said, "has saved the country from huge bond issues that would still more disastrously have unbalanced our budget, and from fiat money proposals that would have debased our currency, forced us off the gold standard and wrought literally immeasurable disaster."

In the coming campaign, Mrs. Gann said, the issue will be clearly drawn between the "careful, constructive, calm and well-balanced attitude of the President and the unsound, hysterical and destructive measures which have been sponsored by Democratic leaders."

Curtis References To Offers Clarified

One Man Says Shipbuilder Had Broached Subject of Money for Stories.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—References in the Lindbergh case confession of John Hughes Curtis to two men not fully identified were cleared up today. In explaining his claim he had been offered money for his "knowledge of the Lindbergh case, or pictures of the baby," Curtis said:

"Mr. Twin and Fox offered me money."

Although the identity of the "Mr. Twin" was not known immediately, the "Fox" reference was generally interpreted as referring to the Fix Film Co. The Fox Film Co. is in no way involved, and this correction is emphasized.

E. Turin, manager of the advertising board of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, said that he had made no offer to Curtis, but that the shipbuilder had broached to him, as manager of the Norfolk-Portsmouth News Bureau, suggestions of remuneration for information concerning his negotiations.

Attorney to Defend Curtis Not Yet Named

Norfolk, Va., May 18 (A.P.).—It was learned from a source close to the family tonight that no attorney has yet been appointed for John Hughes Curtis, confessed fake negotiator in the Lindbergh case.

A report that an attorney from the South, probably Norfolk, was en route to Flemington, N. J., was said to have originated from the fact that Edwin Bruce, of Elmira, N. Y., a friend of Curtis and associated with him in his negotiations, had left here to join Curtis.

mobile and taken to the hospital. Physicians' efforts to save her life were unavailing. Death came at 5:45 p. m., slightly less than an hour after the accident. Her chest had been crushed.

Hunt was arrested by Third Precinct police and held in $1,000 bond pending an inquest which was set by Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, deputy coroner, for 11:30 o'clock this morning.

The child is survived by her twin brother, James, and her parents.

Girl Hurt in Fall From Horse.

Miss Ruth Mann, 20, of the Dupont Circle Apartments, Connecticut avenue and O street northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital last night for injuries to the right hip, suffered when the horse which she was riding along the Speedway, at Hains Point, shied and threw her. Her condition was not thought to be serious.

SHOUSE ANALYZES HOOVER'S 'FAILURE'

Not Able to Meet Leaders on Equal Footing, Claim Made to Harvard Club.

Cambridge, Mass., May 18 (A.P.).—Jouett Shouse told the Harvard Democratic Club in an address tonight that when it is remembered the Presidency "is not in its real essence so much an executive task as it is the post of a master politician, the causes of the failure of President Hoover become clear."

"Mr. Hoover can order and direct subordinates," said the chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, "and when he has been in positions to command obedience we find the resulting public record which built his former reputation for executive ability.

"The President of the United States can not successfully administer the vast affairs of this great Nation, which react and interact throughout the world, through the issuance of commands to minor subordinates. He must have the capacity not only to meet many problems quickly, forthrightly and courageously, but above all things he needs the political faculty of dealing successfully with all manner of men who are not and can not be subordinated to the position of cogs in an executive machine.

"Mr. Hoover has shown a truly pitiful incapacity to deal with the representatives of independent forces and sovereignities on free and equal footing and to secure the cooperation which every President must have in order to so manage the affairs of the Nation as to protect the welfare, the safety, and the livelihood of us all."

Blowout Injures 2 On New Highway

Auto Turns Over Several Times on Mount Vernon Boulevard.

A blowout which caused the light roadster in which they were riding to overturn several times on the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard yesterday afternoon sent two men to Emergency Hospital with serious injuries. William Burroughs, 20 years old, of 4004 Reservoir road northwest, driver of the car, suffered a severe skull injury. Lester Dixon, 21, of 1436 Foxhall road northwest, was treated for internal injuries.

Park police said Burroughs was about to pass a truck operated by James E. Stansbury, 30 years old, of 3616 O street northwest. The truck started to make a left turn 500 yards below the railroad bridge, and Stansbury applied the brakes to avoid a collision.

A front tire blew out, turning the roadster over several times. The injured men were picked up by Edwin Culpepper, of 706 Concord avenue northwest, who took them to the hospital.

"Burnt-Match Burglar" Is Given 2 Years in Jail

James Jumper, convicted by a jury in Prince Georges County Circuit Court in Marlboro, of being Mount Rainier's "burnt match burglar," was sentenced to two years in jail as Judge Joseph C. Mattingly brought the spring term of the court to an end yesterday.

Sam Davis, who pleaded guilty to assault with intent to commit a criminal assault on Mrs. Anita Doyle, will be sentenced when the court resumes its sessions, which will probably be in June, it was said. Ernest Diggs and Edward Good, convicted of robbing two gasoline stations, were sentenced to four years in jail.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Dr. John F. Condon, mediator in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, returned to his Bronx home shortly after 3:30 p. m. today, visibly tired after an inspection of some 1,900 rogues' gallery pictures in Westchester County.

A large crowd had gathered in front of the Decatur avenue home of the aged negotiator, and to escape the crowd he had his car driven in the back way. A New Jersey policeman was at the wheel of the machine and accompanying them was another car carrying two New York City detectives and a second New Jersey State policeman.

Dr. Condon's car drove up to his back door. He had with him two shabby suit cases, but declined any information as to what they contained and also refused to make any statement.

Art World of Capital Again Flocks to "Nana"

Washington art lovers are again giving a cordial reception to "Nana," world-famous painting by Suchorowsky, which is being shown at a specially arranged studio on the ground floor of the City Club Building at 1314 G street northwest. The picture has been exhibited in most of the principal cities of America and Europe.

The painting represents a young woman reclining on a Turkish couch, gazing into a mirror. Special invitations are to be issued by H. W. Sutton, manager of the exhibit, to members of the Fine Arts Commission, members of Washington's art colony and local art collectors. The painting was viewed by more than 25,000 when it was shown in Washington in 1930.

K. M. Landis Defeated In Court Comeback Try

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball and former Federal judge, "struck out" today in his comeback as a lawyer.

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green returned a verdict in police court finding the white-haired law veteran's client, Mrs. Julia Luciett, guilty of using another's charge account, without permission, to obtain less than $100 worth of clothing. Landis accepted the verdict and said he would not appeal after Judge Green admitted his client to probation.

Pope Asks World to Pray To Avoid Terrorism Peril

Encylical Calls for Period of 8 Days of Penance to Start June 3; Says Present Crisis is Worst in History and Scores Greed.

Vatican City, May 18 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XI warned the world today against greed, atheism, communism and nationalistic imperialism, threatening anarchy and terrorism in this time of "spiritual and economic distress."

Treaties and conferences are in vain, he said in an encyclical, unless "there trimuphs moral law based on God and conscience." Speculators had caused much woe and from "so much economic distress" Communists and "enemies of all social order" profited.

The Pontiff poured out the "bitter grief of our soul" over the "war on God and church," marching under the "satanical banner" and using, he said, the modern inventions of the movies, radio and phonograph to corrupt the world.

Tracing the world's evils to the "lust of earthly goods," inequality of wealth and "nationalistic imperialism," he established an eight-day period of prayer, penance and expiation, beginning June 3 and coinciding with the Feast of the Sacred Heart.

Proceeds of Retrenchment.

In the encyclical, entitled "Caritas Christi"—Christ's charity—he asked the faithful to abstain during the eight-day period "at least from entertainments and amusements" and urged that "those in easier circumstances" give to the poor "the proceeds of this retrenchment."

The pontiff called on all men to "unite together even at the cost of heavy sacrifices to save themselves and mankind." All "who do not want anarchy and terrorism ought to bestir themselves with a will," he declared.

Only when "the order established by nature and its Creator" is restored and "then only will stable peace be possible," the pope added.

Atmosphere of Peace.

"But to create this atmosphere of lasting peace, neither peace treaties, nor the most solemn pacts, nor international meetings, nor conferences, nor even the noblest and most disinterested efforts of any statesmen, will be enough," he continued, "unless in the first place are recognized the sacred rights of natural and Divine law.

Turning his criticism upon speculators, he said a small group of holders of the world's wealth "manipulate the markets of the world at their own caprice to the immense harm of the masses."

"Profiting by so much economic distress," he continued, "and so much disorder, the enemies of all social order, be they called Communists or any other name, boldly set about breaking through every restraint.

Most Dreadful Evil.

"This is the most dreadful evil of our times, for they destroy every bond of law, human or Divine; they engage openly and in secret in a relentless struggle against God himself; they carry out the diabolical program of wresting from the hearts of all, even from children, all religious sentiment; for well they know that when once belief in God has been taken from the heart of mankind they will be entirely free to work out their will.

"Thus we see today what was never before seen in history—the satanical banners of war against God and against religion brazenly unfurled to the winds in the midst of all peoples and in all parts of the earth."

Exaggerated nationalism, the Pontiff said, by abusing love of country, leads to "hatred, driving all to destruction."

Atheism, he said, has spread through several large masses of the people and worked its way "even into the common schools."

Economic Crisis.

"It appears in the theater," he asserted. "In order to spread itself it makes use of its own cinema films, of the gramophone and the radio. * * * It has formed its own political parties and its own economic and military systems."

In connection with the economic crisis, he said:

"The holy cross of our Lord, symbol of humility and poverty, is joined together with the symbols of modern imperialism—as though religion were alive with those dark powers which produce such evils. Thus they (agitators) strive, and not without effect, to combine war against God with men's struggle for their daily bread, with their desire to have land of their own, suitable wages and a decent dwelling; in fine, a condition of life befitting human beings."

He urged the poor and the unemployed, in a spirit of penance, to accept "with humble and trustful heart from the hand of God the effect of poverty rendered harder by the distress in which mankind is now struggling."

Expert Describes Television Growth

Dr. J. O. Perrine Speaks to Telephone Company Employes.

Television was described last night at McKinley High School as a "cathedral" built of nearly a century of invention and development, by Dr. J. Perrine, associate editor of the Bell System Technical Journal. He was addressing employes of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

Dr. Perrine, by means of experiments with the photoelectric cell, or electric eye, the neon lamp and the scanning disk, showed how the transmission of vision was made possible.

He was introduced by John A. Remon, general manager of the telephone company. Mr. Remon complimented the employes for their cooperation with the company in attaining the record of the last few years. Other features of the evening were a short concert by the C. & P. Glee Club and the showing of several sound reels relating to the telephone.

Man Is Held for Jury On Charge of Assault

On a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, Anthony Finelli, manager of a shoe shine and valet shop at Tenth and F streets northwest, yesterday was held under bond of $1,000 for grand jury action when he was arraigned in Police Court.

Edward Green, a colored bootblack, said that he was shot in the arm by Finelli.

NORFOLK DEAN CONFIRMS REQUEST FOR EARNEST CASH

lieve. I can not say, however, what my information is."

A high official also revealed today that the investigators are seeking to determine definitely the whereabouts of Curtis the night of March 1, when the infant Lindbergh was kidnaped from his parents' home in the Sourland Hills. Mrs. Curtis said shortly after she was advised of the confession that Curtis was at home in Norfolk that eventful night.

Officials began searching for a green sedan mentioned by Curtis, which they believed was not a "phantom of the imagination," but perhaps Curtis' own car, the only one which Chief Ironmonger said answered the description. Mud was scraped from the sedan and was taken to headquarters, where it will be analyzed. Police want to know whether the mud came from New Jersey.

The whole affair, involving ghostly men and ships, was being combed for threads in the tangled yarn, while Dean Dobson-Peacock maintained that all he knew of the bewildering details of the hoax had been revealed by him to the press.

The dean told Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of New Jersey police, that he could not go to Hopewell for questioning at present and that he "knew nothing" about the request for "earnest money," allegedly conveyed to Lindbergh by him. Schwarzkopf quoted him as saying he was doubtful whether he could get to Hopewell at all.

The dean refused here to comment on Schwarzkopf's statement that it was apparently Curtis and not an unidentified man who summoned him by telephone to New York, where he said he was presented with a proposal for the return of the child for $50,000 ransom.

Suspects Separate Plot.

Dean Dobson-Peacock reiterated his statement that he believed the men, whose identity he said was unknown to him, were engaged in an extortion plot entirely separate and independent of the Norfolk "negotiations."

The proposal, he said, was rejected after he had sought out Curtis, then in New York, and the two decided that they had better "clews." Dean Dobson-Peacock denied flatly the charge attributed to Curtis that the minister could have prevented his unfortunate part in the hoax.

It was learned from bank officials that New Jersey authorities during their investigation here opened a safety deposit box of Curtis and examined its contents. It could not be learned, however, what information or clews the investigators may have obtained.

While Dean Dobson-Peacock was maintaining that he had worked with Curtis in good faith, and with absolute confidence in the Norfolk shipbuilder's story, Admiral Burrage continued silent. The admiral, consulted by Curtis because he knew Col. Lindbergh, has been entirely noncommittal since the revelation by Curtis that the two months of "negotiations" here were a hoax, and all the characters and "boats imaginary."

Burrage's Part Explained.

The admiral's part as a member of the trio apparently was to gain them an audience with Col. Lndbergh, who returned from his epochal Paris flight on the cruiser Memphis, commanded by Burrage.

Commonwealth's Attorney John M. Arnold started an investigation today to determine whether or not false information regarding any person had been furnished by Curtis or anyone else in connection with the Lindbergh case.

Mr. Arnold said he is proceeding under section 4427-A of the Virginia code, which makes it a misdemeanor for any person "who knowingly and wilfully states, delivers or transmits by any means whatever" to any newspaper or other publication "any false or untrue statement concerning any person." Convictions of the act is punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 or a year in jail, or both.

It was reported that the first news that Curtis had confessed to the weird hoax was received here from Col. Lindbergh himself. The famous flier is said to have communicated the report by long distance telephone to Capt. Kenneth Whiting, of the Naval Air Station here, who took part in the activities of Curtis during the period when Col. Lindbergh was an active participant. Capt. Whiting refused to comment.

Mrs. Curtiss Taken Ill.

Mrs. Curtis, wife of the Norfolk hoaxer, was ill at her home today and under the care of a physician. She apparently had no knowledge that her husband, during the long weeks of his mysterious trips by air, by water and by land, was only playing an imaginary role.

Mrs. Curtis, after learning of the confession made by her husband, said he was home on the night of March 1. She expressed the fear that "something happened to him" Monday night or Tuesday morning when he made the confession.

"I talked with John at 6:30 o'clock Monday night," she told friends, "and at that time he said he was at the Lindbergh home, and they had asked him to remain over several days to do what he could to help. He was cheerful and apparently all right then."

Doubts Mate's Confession.

Mrs. Curtis said she could not believe the "confession" because she herself had handled some of the telephone calls to her husband.

A denial was made today by F. E. Turin, of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce, that he had offered money to Curtis for his knowledge of the Lindbergh case. Stating that suggestions of remunerations for information had been broached by Curtis, Turin explained that he had been interested in the matter only in his capacity of manager of the Norfolk-Portsmouth News Bureau. He said he had conferred with Curtis in the hope of having the announcement of the return of the baby made at Norfolk.

Sam Fox, photographer, also mentioned by Curtis as being among the individuals offering remuneration, said he had received a letter on April 16 from a news photograph syndicate (not the Associated Press) authorizing him to act as its local representative in obtaining pictures and directing him to offer on their behalf the sum of $2,500 to the owners of such photograph if given exclusively to that syndicate. Fox said he showed the letter to Curtis, who, after reading it, replied:

"It is hard for me to say at this time what I can do."

AIR-CONDITIONED

COOL · CLEAN · QUIET

AGAIN the Baltimore & Ohio forges ahead! It now offers the traveling public the greatest fleet of air-conditioned trains in the world!

Last summer we introduced the first air-conditioned train in railroad history—the COLUMBIAN, between New York and Washington. On April 20, 1932, we announced the initial run of the world's first air-conditioned long-distance train, the NATIONAL LIMITED, between New York, Washington, Cincinnati, Louisville, and St. Louis. And now, we offer a third completely air-conditioned train, the CAPITOL LIMITED, between New York, Washington, and Chicago. Thus, beginning May 22d, you will be able to travel in the utmost comfort, day and night, no matter how hot and oppressive the weather outside.

We draw fresh air constantly in from the outside; automatically remove smoke, dust, soot; correct unpleasant humidity; artificially cool and circulate the clean, pure air without drafts throughout each car. Windows are for vision only; being closed, they keep impurities from entering and add greatly to the quietness inside.

Why not ride on these trains on your future trips? We feel sure you will enjoy—besides this travel innovation—the appointments and service which they offer. The two long-distance trains to the West carry air-conditioned Sunroom-observation-lounge car, Club car, Colonial diner, and Sleeping cars—all cool, clean, quiet! Also a train-secretary, maid-manicure, barber-valet, and shower-bath.

NEGROES REACH NEW STEP, WILBUR SAYS

Hoover Extends Greetings to National Association in Conference Here.

Greetings of President Hoover were extended to the twenty-third annual conference of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People yesterday at the Shiloh Baptist Church by Secretary Ray Lyman Wilbur. The President expressed an "earnest hope that the conference may bear fruit in the well-being and advancement of the colored race in America."

Secretary Wilbur spoke on behalf of 4,000,000 Negro children of America, outlining a program of health and education to meet specific problems.

"The Negro in America," he said, "has reached a new stage in his development. The last living links with slavery are almost gone. The Negro child must be viewed from the standpoint of education, health, home, recreation and welfare. A cultural adjustment is necessary. In particular it is vital to have a vocational guidance for colored youths so that they may be prepared to fit into civilization, rather than have occupation by chance, or to be allowed to drift at the age when they need most care.

"It is important in housing to progressively stabilize the housing of the Negro on a higher plane. There is need of the adoption of codes and their maintenance. More and more it is becoming clear that the Negro can profit by development of subdivisions instead of being forced into old areas. Whatever else is done for the Negro child of the future, he must be brought up under open-air conditions in so far as possible, with the same playground and recreational advantages that other races have."

Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Ohio, urged the Negro to vote independently.

Consideration of problems of all colored peoples of the world was urged on the conference by Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, who asserted that the "present problems of race in Asia, Africa and the other Americas are of primary and pressing interest to the Negro race in the United States." In the light of the World War, and the Russian revolution he declared, the association would soon be called upon to decide whether it stood with mass or class.

Other speakers yesterday were Dorothy Detzer, "World Peace and the Negro;" Charles E. Dickinson, of Columbus, Ohio, "State Conference;" Sarah M. Nutter, Charleston, W. Va., "A Year's Program;" Abram Harris, of Howard University, "Economic Reconstruction and Negro Welfare." A musical program was presented by the Dunbar High School choral class, direction of Mary L. Europe. Col. Joel E. Spingarn presented the Walker medal to C. E. Dickinson, of Ohio, president of the conference of that State.

Conferences today will discuss the Negro in the changing economic order, and "Youth and the Association for Advancement of Colored People." A mass meeting tonight, at Shiloh Church, will be addressed by George S. Schuyler, and Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia University, following a musical program by the Armstrong High School Choral Club, under direction of Ernest R. Ames.

House Is Urged to Vote Memorial Day Expense

The bill, it was pointed out, has been passed by the Senate. In order to insure Memorial Day exercises in Washington cemeteries, the organization declared, the measure should be considered at once by the House.

Nail Swallower Is Jailed As 10 Cafes Pay Tribute

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—Gerald Bodine acknowledged, somewhat proudly today, that he had collected about $600 in the last few months as a nail and pin swallower.

In a Monon dining car one day, he carefully, swallowed a nail. Then he charged the railroad with feeding him a nail in his food; an X-ray photograph confirmed it, and he collected. He worked it next on the New York Central, and then started a restaurant tour.

The tour stopped when he put in a claim against a Chicago restaurant protected by an indemnity insurance company. The company investigated and found he had collected ten times under various names in various parts of the country. Questioned, police said he admitted it. They held him.

Chairman, President and Comptroller of Looted Firm Sentenced.

Los Angeles, May 18 (A.P.).—Sentences of two to twenty years in prison were meted out today to three Richfield Oil Co. executives convicted of taking large sums of money from the concern for personal uses.

James A. Talbot, former chairman of the board, was sentenced for theft of $100,000; Clarence M. Fuller, former president, for theft of $130,325, and Raymond W. McKee, former comptroller and vice president, for thefts totaling $22,500. Additional thefts of $700,000 are alleged in indictments remaining against the trio.

Motion for new trial was denied. The defense gave notice of appeal. The Richfield company is now in receivership.

M'CURDY TO HEAD LABOR FEDERATION

Baltimore Man Is Elected President as Cumberland Convention Closes.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 18.—Joseph P. McCurdy, Baltimore, was elected president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor at its closing session today, and Hagerstown was selected for next year's meeting. Other officers chosen are: C. L. Higgins, Charles Revlol, Baltimore; R. A. Dickson, Newton A. James, Washington; James J. Brehany, Cumberland; Walter L. Geist, Hagerstown, vice presidents; Frank J. Coleman, Washington, secretary; John L. Geist, Hagerstown, treasurer; Charles Frazier, Washington, organizer.

Raymond W. Bellamy, Federal director of employment in Maryland, who yesterday addressed the convention, today extended the greetings of Secretary of Labor Doak. He was followed by Edward J. Roche, of Washington, who declared "Secretary Doak is one of the best labor unionists in the United States." A resolution was adopted commending Secretary Doak and his assistant, John R. Alpine, for determined stand against wage cuts as affecting the building trades in connecton with Government construction work.

The federation indorsed the action of the American Federation of Labor on the question of sales tax. An amendment offered that Alfred E. Smith also be notified of this action did not prevail.

'Shipwreck' Kelly Climbs Pole to Await Real Beer

Boston, May 18 (U.P.).—Alvin "Shipwreck" Kelly, twentieth century stylite, today became a flagpole sitter with a purpose.

Heretofore "Shipwreck" has had no higher aim than to collect money for his feats. But today he became a kind of idealist. He announced before mounting a flagpole on a theater building that he would not come down until "real beer" was legalized in the United States.

Consequently the action of the Senate in rejecting, later in the day, the Tydings beer tax bill, was a rude shock to "Shipwreck."

"It ain't right," he shouted to a reporter. "But I'll stick it out up here just the same. I'll show them."

"Shipwreck's" record for flagpole sitting is 49 days 1 hour. It appears now that he may break it.

FEDERAL HINDRANCE TO TRADE ASSAILED

Sargent, Rail Chief, Tells U. S. Chamber of Way to Prosperity.

San Francisco, May 18 (A.P.).—Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, declared at the annual dinner of the United States Chamber of Commerce tonight that government must be taken out of business.

Summarizing a long and vigorous attack on what he termed hindrances to commerce, Sargent said:

"In short, I believe the remedies to lie along the line of reducing taxes, balancing budgets by cutting governmental expenditures, eliminating Government regulations that interfere with private business, avoiding subsidies, removing unjust and destructive restrictions from railroad managements and operation, helping to revive commodity prices of agriculture by utilizing foreign debts for such purposes, and then through private initiative and enterprise on a national scale, possibly through the channel of enlarged building and loan associations, adopt a system of long time credits that would enable the financing of home improvements on the farms and the removal of slum and health destroying conditions in our great cities.

"In other words, we have only scratched the surface in the development of America. The field for the use of manufactured products and the employment of labor has not yet been cultivated in that intensive way that would bring to the masses of our people the ordinary conveniences and comforts of life."

DO YOU INHALE?

...wonder why cigarette advertising generally avoids this question?

ONE of the mysteries in cigarette advertising has been the apparent fear of the word "inhale." It seems rather foolish—for everybody inhales—whether they realize it or not . . . every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question...because when you smoke Luckies your delicate membranes get the protection no other cigarette affords. All other methods have been made old-fashioned by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So truly this message is for you.

TRAINING CAMPS SAVED.

A determined movement to prevent crippling of the Army was manifested in the House when it struck out three alleged economy measures from the War Department appropriation bill. Apparently the House is now in a more deliberate mood than it was last week, when it voted to eliminate 2,000 officers from the service.

Among the items restored to the bill by the House are $2,109,768 to provide training for the organized reserves; $1,080,000 for continuance of the reserve officers' training camps, and $2,603,000 for the citizens' military training camps next year. The House also voted to continue aiding schools that provide compulsory military training.

The elimination of these items from the bill by the appropriations committee was a pacifistic move. The proposal was not to reduce the allowance for these training agencies, but to suspend them. With the Army already reduced to a skeleton and organized reserves cut down below the minimum required for national security, this attempt further to reduce the agencies of national defense was inexcusable.

The Army and Navy ought not to escape a trimming of their allowances any more than the other departments in times like the present. But the reductions should be made where they will not destroy the efficiency of the national defense. The vote last week to cut off 2,000 officers from the active list is utterly inconsistent with the action of the House on training camps. It strikes at the heart of the Army. By all means that vote should be reversed before the bill is sent to the Senate.

IMPORT TRADE FLOURISHES.

Developments in American foreign trade this year give the lie to the political jargon about the destruction of international commerce. An analysis prepared by the Department of Commerce, covering imports and exports for the first quarter of this year, shows that the ratio of foreign goods to domestic goods consumed in the American market is far larger than it was before the depression began. When misleading figures on price are discarded and the actual quantities of merchandise flowing into the United States from other countries are considered, it is evident that foreign industries have been steadily encroaching upon domestic enterprises in spite of the tariff.

The decline in imports, which began in 1929, was virtually stopped a year ago. The volume of imports during the first quarter of 1932 was only 4 per cent lower than in the corresponding period a year ago. This corresponds with a 16 per cent decline for exports and a 19 per cent decline for domestic industry.

Foreign trade has reached a point where price comparisons are meaningless. Since 1928 export prices have fallen 37 per cent and import prices 56 per cent. Politicians who prate of the ruin of international trade, basing their whole argument upon the fall of prices throughout the world, while the volume of goods exchanged between nations has been only slightly changed, display ignorance of the actual situation.

A chart published in Commerce Reports shows that industrial production in the United States has declined about 35 per cent since 1928. These figures are based on actual volume and do not involve the element of falling prices. Freight car loadings fell off about 38 per cent and a similar decline is noted for exports on a quantity basis. But imports received in the first quarter of this year are only 16 per cent below the corresponding quarter of 1928. The only fair deduction that can be drawn from these figures is that exports have maintained their previous relation to the domestic output, while imports have acquired a favored position.

Copper imports have increased about 45 per cent in the last year, cotton cloth 42 per cent and wood pulp 30 per cent. Tin and raw silk are the only important commodities that were imported in substantially smaller volume during the first quarter of 1932, although the value of many imports was lower.

Prices have fallen so low in many foreign countries that goods are sold almost without reference to what they will bring. Large quantities of foreign products are dumped on the American market regardless of the tariff. Without protection American industry would have been prostrated. Politicians love to bluster about the destruction of foreign trade by the tariff, but as a matter of fact the importers who take advantage of the American market have, as a group, maintained their volume of business far above the average for this critical period. In the face of this record it is difficult to understand how any American can demand greater favors for foreign interests at the expense of domestic industry.

FIGHTING DEFLATION.

Governors of the twelve Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board have decided to continue the open market policy of buying Government bonds to ease the credit situation. There is no indication as to how far the policy will be carried, except that the open market committee will be governed by financial and industrial conditions.

Considerable pressure has been brought to bear upon Federal Reserve authorities to discontinue the credit expansion campaign. Bankers in the central States are reported to be opposing it, because the reserve banks are absorbing Government securities and leaving the member banks without a profitable source of investment. That is the very purpose of the reserve board's action. If commercial banks are put in an ultra-liquid position they will be forced to make commercial and industrial loans. The banks complain that the demand for commercial loans is meager, but if a large reservoir of credit is accumulated for the benefit of business, the tendency should be to break down the barrier to new commercial enterprise.

More than $500,000,000 in Government securities has been purchased during the last five weeks, and it is expected that another $100,000,000 will be added to the total this week. Federal Reserve banks will then hold $1,485,000,000 in Government bonds, the largest amount ever purchased in the history of the system. Enormous new sources of credit have thus been made available to commercial banks. For the most part those banks have not taken advantage of their increased reserve balances, and the benefits of loose credit have not been passed on to the public. But if the reserve authorities continue their policy without deviation, the ultimate effect should be to overcome this resistance and force an expansion of activity.

Several factors have contributed to the present viscosity of credit. Uncertainty as to taxes and other legislation of far-reaching influence on business interests discourages new enterprise. Falling prices, which have not yet been arrested, make it extremely difficult for business to proceed with any assurance of profits. This condition can not be reversed overnight, regardless of what action the Federal Reserve Board takes. But it may be overcome by patient, steady endeavor by financial experts.

Results of the credit expansion program thus far illustrate the folly of the Goldsborough bill, which would instruct the Federal Reserve Board to raise prices to the 1926 level. The board is now employing its most powerful weapon against price declines. There is still hope that the board will succeed, but that is by no means certain. If Congress should order the board to raise prices, and it should fail, confidence in the Government itself would be shaken.

Continuance of the open market policy removes all excuse for passage of the Goldsborough bill through the Senate. Maintenance of that policy until the budget is balanced and Congress adjourns should provide the stimulus for which business is waiting. It is to be hoped that Congress will take note of the constructive program which the board is carrying out and refrain from upsetting it by any bungling legislation.

POVERTY AND DRINK.

A recent statement by Col. George Davis, of the Salvation Army, Chicago, is as follows:

> Out of more than a million cases we have dealt with in the past 16 months, there were only 75 bad cases of drink, and of moderate cases, only 500. From October 11, 1930, to February 3, 1932, we helped 1,102,545 unemployed men. Of this number, we found 99.92 per cent drink free. * * * The number of women coming to our doors with a tale of being ruined by drink is less than 1 per cent of the entire number, whereas in former days it was a considerable proportion. In our family welfare relief work in these days we seldom find need arising from strong drink on the part of one or other of the parents, whereas in the old days it was 90 out 100 cases. In fact, poverty from drink has almost disappeared.

If the poor are in need of social aid today, then, it is not drunkenness that is responsible for their plight. Would they be in better condition if they drank? Col. Davis does not think so. On the contrary, they would be in worse. Money can not be spent for meat and drink simultaneously; the same money will not buy both. When industry is ailing and unemployment rife, the dollar is hard to get. Even when it has been earned, it will purchase no more than a dollar's worth of any commodity. Used to buy liquor, it is spent for a luxury; used to buy bread, it provides a necessity.

Col. Davis continues: "Before prohibition the Salvation Army would gather drunks by the truckload and busload from the saloons and park benches. Today one would have to search high and low in every American city to find at one time 100 men and women of the type the Salvation Army used to gather by the thousands under the rule of John Barleycorn."

PRISONERS OF WEALTH.

Recent events, it may be hoped, have done something to dispel the ancient myth to the effect that the rich are to be envied. Many a poor man or woman in the United States has held it a fundamental tenet of the philosophy of life that the acquisition of great wealth is a certain road to happiness, security and contentment. The notion is fallacious in the extreme, as well as unworthy of the people of a democracy.

Wealth in itself is but a responsibility. It must be defended, protected, guarded incessantly. No very rich man is free. His property holds him captive. His energies must be spent in the maintenance of the position he has reached. Day and night he must devote himself to the dreary business of holding what he has. Especially in our day, individuals known to be well-to-do are targets for every sort of fraud, every sort of deception, every sort of assault. Money does not provide for its own safety. The task must be assumed by its possessors.

Society expects of millionaires greater generosity than circumstances permit. Appeals for aid flood the offices of persons supposed to be well-equipped with material goods. To give wisely and effectively is another burden to be borne. Even so, critics are legion. Rich men are slandered and villified for their virtues as well as their faults. Wherever they go and whatever they do, they are victims of the "mischief of tongues."

Wealth, too, is fluid. It ebbs and flows with conditions over which few individuals, however powerful, have any control. Thus a man may be rich one day and poor the next, and the danger of such an accident hangs over the head of the capitalist as the proverbial sword threatened Damocles. Poor men may ignore in large part the rise and fall of market prices. The rich man's fate hangs upon the caprice of others.

Since wealth is socially produced, there is the duty which rich men perforce must feel toward their hired helpers. Shops and factories, mills and mines must be active if wealth is to be accumulated and maintained, and the regular employment of labor is therefore a constant problem to those who are masters of capital.

In America, wealth has met the demands made upon it. Carnegie, Rockefeller, Harkness, Folger, Rosenwald, Brookings, Thompson, Eastman—all these are representative names for philanthropies rather than hoards. The list is endless.

But life does not favor the rich. It does not exempt them from disease or death. It does not spare them from worry or fear. On the contrary, it seems to invade their destinies with particular violence. The rich have all the ordinary troubles of other men, and fate adds other troubles to their lot which poor men never know.

In terms of "life more abundant"—life sweeter and freer—the rich are just as poor as the poorest poor. They certainly ought not to be envied by any ordinary man or woman who has health of mind and body, skill to work, and the affection of family and friends.

FILIPINO OPINION

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

Filipino newspapers, which have just arrived from the islands, carry thought-provoking editorials and statements on the Hare bill which passed the House last month, purporting to actualize Philippine independence in eight years on a program of commercial restriction, political confusion and financial constriction of the Filipino people.

They reflect, in general, approval of the bill by those who couldn't do otherwise without being scandalously inconsistent, and significant reserve on the part of those who are not in the government service; and appreciation of the realities of the situation by those who have the courage to express their views publicly. The absence of enthusiasm for the bill is conspicuous.

El Debate, a newspaper whose editorials are the very mirror of Filipino militant nationalism, said in an editorial entitled "Almost a Fatal Fact" that it was the American farm bloc, dictated by its own interests, that pushed the Hare bill to an overwhelming victory, expressing the anxiety that the landslide may drag "President Hoover and our friends, Secretaries Stimson and Hurley," into approving the bill, for no President would dare veto a measure which has such overwhelming support.

Calling Messrs. Stimson and Hurley, who vigorously opposed the independence bill, as "our friends" is not mere editorial courtesy, but is a recognition of the fact that these two high Government officials are sincere friends of the Filipino people, having no selfish motives to serve, upholding America's noble intentions and intimately cognizant of the Philippine independence problem and its allied problems. The service of these gentlemen will be more and more appreciated as the Filipinos read statements like that made by a member of Congress the other day, "Philippine independence and the Goldsborough bill were the two major accomplishments of this Congress for agriculture."

Among the Filipinos of culture and influence who commented on the Hare bill is former Senator Isabelo de los Reyes, an intense nationalist, a founder of the Filipino independent church and father of 25 children. His statement not only does honor to his civic courage but reflects the purified atmosphere which Senate President Manuel L. Quezon has given to Filipino politics when a few months ago he emphasized the necessity of time for ultimate independence and realistic statesmanship on the part of Filipino leaders.

Former Senator de los Reyes said: "That ominous independence which America now offers us is unworthy of her proverbial generosity and nobility. That independence is not acceptable, because with it the Filipinos can not exist. It is pure selfishness. It is like the legendary partition between the lion and the bee—all the advantages are with America and the burdens with the Philippines."

The embattled former senator proceeds: "America is granting us independence, not for altruism, but to do away with the alleged competition of our products and to keep out the few Filipino immigrants who come to America. With that independence we can not exist as a nation, for we will have to spend vast sums for an army and navy. We shall lose the backing of America on our bonded indebtedness. Where shall we get our means of livelihood if America should close her market to our principal products?" Then, appealing to the Filipino sense of self-preservation, he said, "Let us dispassionately compare our present situation with that which this lurid independence will bring when our means of livelihood are swept away."

New voices are heard in the Philippines. They portray a conception of love of country that rests on knowledge of the country's problems and needs and the desire to meet them in a practical manner, in order to promote her welfare and secure a real and enduring independence in its proper time and setting.

The Descending Knife.

POST HASTE

Don't quit trying. As world-famous an economist as Maynard Keynes comes down to this as his remedy for depression—some one has got to spend a lot of money on something.

If Roosevelt had made Al Smith's latest speech two months ago he would have been as good as nominated by now.

The District of Columbia, in company with Hawaii, the Philippines, Alaska and Puerto Rico, is permitted to send delegates to national party conventions. Of course, the District is not quite in the class of the others, since it has no delegates in Congress, but which one, as an understudy is it supposed to resemble most closely?

Having arrived at the seventeenth hole Congress now regrets foozling so many shots and wasting so much time in the rough at the second and third.

And by mid-June not only the thermometer but the temper of the people will make the legislators anxious to avoid a return engagement in the Capital this summer.

When as dry a dry as Bill McAdoo says he has arrived at no conclusion about a referendum on prohibition it means he is temporarily stuck on a picket while climbing the fence.

Congress can adjourn by June 10 if it will just drop the measures it knows can not possibly become laws, the bills for bonus, bonds and beer.

Permitted concerted action on exported products, American oil men are conferrng with petroleum interests from all over the world to regulate marketing. No matter how demoralized the situation here, they can't do that at home.

Our poll shows that there will be no tears if the racketeers are added to the list of unemployed.

With the passing of spring floods and coal bills, the front door is less endangered by Old Man River and the wolf.

Secretary Wilbur says civilization has the hives. If this diagnosis is not exactly correct remember his realm is the Interior; he is not a dermatologist. PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE GUNMAN.

For a little bit of silver he had shot
a stranger down,
And had been a hunted creature in the back streets of the town.
For his capture gold was offered, and he shivered as he read:
"Wanted here for theft and murder—bring him in alive or dead!"

He was cunning, he was clever, as the days went rushing by.
It was safe, he thought, to venture out beneath the open sky.
He had fooled the law completely; no policeman on his beat Would remember he was wanted as he passed him on the street.

Easy picking; easy living; pistol courage gathers gain.
Man can cheat the code established
if he only has the brains.
Once he shot a man for silver. Now the world will never know
He was hunted—lost—forgotten!
That's the way such cases go.

Now he's on his way to prison, after three brief years of crime,
Where he'll find a lot of fellows just as smart, all serving time.
For in spite of clever planning and his stock of pistol pluck, Comes that unexpected moment when the crook runs out of luck.

You May Take All the Honey, But What When the Bees Starve?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS depression will prove a blessing instead of a curse if it teaches America that a wage earner is also a customer.

For the first time in history, men are beginning to realize that the prosperity of capital depends on the prosperity of labor.

Such industrial lands as England, where capital draws its profits from world-wide markets, may thrive in spite of low wages; but in America, where capital enjoys the world's greatest market and derives most of its profit from home consumers, the employer's prosperity depends almost wholly on the employe's ability to buy.

In short, all of us must prosper together or not at all.

But even in normal times it is impossible for all to prosper if the rules give too much advantage to those who have money.

In other words, poverty—the curse and shame of civilization—can not be abolished while law and custom enable any man to obtain and hold more than he deserves and more than he can use.

But, you say, a man deserves all he can get.

You are wrong. Society claims and exercises the right to limit every man's gains.

France forbids speculation in wheat; America forbids monopoly.

Why? Because the man who obtained a monopoly of any necessity could also obtain a monopoly of wealth.

The world recognizes the principle that society has the right to protect itself from the power of wealth, but the size of present great fortunes is proof that further restriction is necessary.

Under present rules, one great fortune could control all industry and one man become the employer of all others. Would that one man "deserve" so much, however honestly acquired?

There must be a more equitable distribution of the wealth men create.

It isn't enough, nor is it wise, to reduce great fortunes by punitive taxation. If a man obeys the rules, is it just to punish him because he wins?

The fault is in the rules. The time to distribute wealth is before the rich man gets it—not afterward.

If the big man gets too much, it is because the little man doesn't get enough.

If an industry can pay one man a million dollars a year, it is charging the consumer too much or paying the worker too little.

Hoover Leadership.

San Francisco Chronicle.

More and more the American people are coming to realize the unique leadership of President Hoover. Because it was without fanfare of horns and plume and sword and prancing steed, it took time for the quiet efficiency of the Hoover method to be perceptible. But now, looking back on the record of the two years and a half of depression it is seen that absolutely every practical step that has been taken has come from his office. There have been false steps, too, some of which the President has vainly opposed and some of which he has reluctantly accepted, as a less evil than further fighting them, and many of the worst of which he has successfully thwarted. But the things that have actually been done have all been his.

The Test of Service.

Collier's Weekly.

We are going to pay our debts. We are going to keep up an efficient Army and Navy. We will continue to demand a highly complicated government. We shall also provide generously for those veterans who were actually injured by their war service.

We can't, however, go on making endless appropriations for farmers, bankers, veterans or any other special group which demands tax money. Neither can we afford the extravagance of poor organization.

Representative Crisp said, the other day, "It is my philosophy to believe that I serve my district best when I serve my country best." Exact that test of all our representatives in Congress and great savings can be effected in the bills we are called upon to pay.

Owen Young's Refusal.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

To the more hard-boiled politicians the significance of Mr. Young's positive refusal consists in its effect on the general "stop-Roosevelt" movement, headed by Messers. Smith and Raskob, which was believed ready to produce him as its candidate at the critical moment, without regard to his latest economic and social proposals. The promoters of this movement have no particular affection for Mr. Young, but they were ready to use him for their purposes. Standing intellectually head and shoulders above most of the candidates, he would typify the sort of man the conservative East could support against the New York governor whom Mr. Smith had felt impelled to denounce as a "demagogue."

Billions in the Red.

Des Moines Tribune.

Recent disclosures concerning the state of municipal finances in some centers of population lead one to wonder if city voters are really blind, deaf, dumb and paralyzed.

New York City owes today the astoundng sum of $225,000,000,000. That is more than $350 for every man, woman and child in the city.

Before the war the net debt of the United States was just a trifle over $1,000,000,000.

Latest figures, tabulated in 1929, place the entire indebtedness of all the 48 States of the Union at 36 per cent less than New York City's total.

And yet there are supposedly intelligent citizens who still say that graft is a necessary adjunct of efficient municipal administration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

San Diego Reader Protests Against Government Profit From Liquor Trade.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Listening to the present loud clamor of so many Christian men and women demanding that the traffic in liquor be legalized, for government revenue, I am reminded of the very different attitude bespoken in the words of Tao Kwang, China's ruler from 1820 until 1850, regarding a similar use of the opium trade: "True, I can not prevent the introduction of the poison, but nothing will induce me to raise revenue from the vice and misery of my people."

Tao Kwang, however was only a heathen.

In 1858 Christian Britain and France, by the gentle persuasion of bayonets and cannon, and with the encouraging advice of America's envoy, compelled this heathen empire to legalize and tax this degrading traffic, but, strange to say, these heathens refused to see the beauty of gold wrung out of an evil habit and, among the reforms proposed and effected by the Empress Dowager was that of 1906 by which China arranged to end the degradation of her citizens for the sake of blood money. She was willing to forego the $15,000,000—a great sum in her budget—to accomplish this and did, with the rather unwilling consent of her Christian neighbors.

The liquor and opium trades have exactly the same objectives, to develop and feed evil appetites in order that a few may make big profits, part of which they are willing to give the governments as a bribe. For centuries Christian nations have indulged in this method of taxing vice, of making the weak and wicked pay running expenses for the godly. And yet we send missionaries to China. What a tragic comedy!

Jeremiah Johnson Pleads for Boost of Silver as a Cure for Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that Congress is gradually coming to the conclusion that something must be done to restore the price of silver from 30 to 60 cents an ounce and the House coinage committee urges an international conference, it may be proper to recall to the readers of The Post that for more than two years this writer has repeatedly said that the depression would get worse instead of better unless something were done to restore the purchasing power of silver, the real circulating money of the globe, and the standard of money over more than half the globe for nearly 6,000 years until the hypnotized gold standard fiends demonetized silver in India, Indo-China, Belgium and other countries.

Senator Smoot's idea of letting Europe pay its annual indebtedness of 250 millions in silver would help, and the writer has suggested that we do away with our 346 millions of greenbacks (fiat money) and take the 150 millions of gold placed in the Treasury to sustain them and buy with that gold enough silver to issue 346 millions of silver certificates.

The writer gets the inspiration for his views from the great silver speech of the late James B. Beck, of Kentucky, who was a tariff and monetary expert, and who began his great speech of 1877 with the remark that when the world finally demonetized silver all commodities would recede in price to about one-half.

But our country and Europe seem determined to wallow in the trenches of depression rather than make an effort to see if the restoration of silver would accomplish something.

Why can not our captains of industry see that our export trade has vanished trying to sell goods on a gold basis to countries on a silver or paper basis?

JEREMIAH JOHNSON.

Primary Vote of Palo Alto, Home Town of President Hoover.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The largest San Francisco newspaper came out in flaring headlines two different days with the implication that Palo Alto had repudiated Hoover for Garner in the California primaries.

As I had dwelt in and edited a paper at Palo Alto I was interested in the actual voting figures. They were officially supplied by the city council. Here they are:

Candidate.	Votes.	Per cent.
Hoover (R.)	3,243	75.7
Garner (D.)	464	10.8
Roosevelt (D.)	356	8.3
Al Smith (D.)	221	5.2

Palo Alto is the "home town" of President Hoover, adjoins the campus of Stanford University, and is 33 miles down the peninsula from San Francisco.

Preliminary to the primaries I received several assurances that Garner was to sweep Palo Alto, and that Hoover was "losing out." There is a press campaign on implying that the Democrats are making huge numerical gains in California. Eastern reaction to these reports has caused some to predict that California will go Democratic this year.

It is to laugh. In 1928, with only 45.9 per cent of her present votable adults voting, California gave Hoover a majority of 547,958 votes, or 65.2 per cent of the votes cast.

They sound like headlines in any daily newspaper, don't they? But every one is taken from a copy of The Washington Post, dated May 7, 1895, which was brought to the Vidette this week by Rufus Redman, of Melbourne. You draw your own conclusions; we haven't the heart.

SOCIETY

First Lady Receives Rubinstein Choral Club; President and Mrs. Hoover Attend Iowa Society Meeting.

MRS. HOOVER YESTERDAY received at the tea hour the members of the Rubinstein Choral Club, the leading organization of women singers in Washington, of which Mr. Claude Robeson is conductor. The club is composed of about eighty singers, nearly all of whom are soloists in local church choirs.

Mrs. Hoover went to the meeting last night of the Iowa State Society at the Willard, the last meeting of this season. Mrs. Hoover was accompanied by Mrs. Edgar Rickard, of New Canaan, Conn., and Mrs. Stark McMullin. Both the President and Mrs. Hoover are members of the Iowa Society, as both were born in the State and spent the early years of their lives there. Mrs. Hoover was born in Waterloo and the President in West Branch, although they did not meet until their families had moved to California.

When Mrs. Hoover and her party entered the hall they were greeted by the Iowa State officers. Col. Henry Spencer Merrick, president of the society, escorted them to their box, which had been especially decorated for the occasion. As the party entered the box the entire Iowa State Society sang the "Iowa Corn Song," after which another Iowa song, "The Little Brown Church in the Dale," was sung.

Mrs. Hoover was presented with an old-fashioned bouquet by Babara Ramseyer, daughter of Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa. It was made of flowers that grow in Iowa gardens.

Miss Janet Coon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Coon, of Esterville, Iowa, dressed in a period gown, gave a short program of whistling and vocal numbers. McMahon, Des Moines; secretary, Miss Maud Phillips, Centerville; chairman of entertainment, Miss Gertrude Lewis, Grundy Center; chairman of reception, Dr. H. M. Dudley; chairman of finance, Mr. Jay R. Hutchison, Des Moines, and treasurer, Miss Sarah Kammerer.

Robinson, Representative Gilbert N. Haugen, Representative Cyrenus Cole, Representative and Mrs. William Ramseyer, Representative and Mrs. Casmus Dowell, Representative and Mrs. Lloyd Thurston, Representative and Mrs. Charles Swanson, Representative Ed Campbell, Representative and Mrs. Fred C. Gilchrist and Representative and Mrs. B. M. Jacobsen.

Lieut. R. V. Marron Weds Miss Caroline E. Lowman.

The marriage of Miss Caroline Ethlyn Lowman, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Seymour Lowman, to Lieut. Raymond Virgil Marron, United States Coast Guard, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Marron, of Denver, Colo., took place yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Patrick's Church, the Rev. Lawrence Sheehan officiating. The church had no floral decorations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a beige crepe suit trimmed with blue fox and a small beige felt hat. She had no flowers.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Katherine Lowman, and Lieut. Comdr. Adrian Marron, U. S. N., stationed at Portsmouth, Va., was best man for his brother. Miss Lowman wore gold color crepe with a hat to match. Mrs. Lowman wore flowered chiffon and a purple hat.

Following a wedding breakfast at 2400 Sixteenth street, the home of the bride's parents, Lieut. and Mrs. Marron left for a wedding trip by motor through the Southern mountains. The Lowman apartment was decorated with flowers, principally roses, from their home in Elmira, N. Y.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A. Marshall Lowman, brother and sister-in-law of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. John A. Schwab and Miss Carrie Smith, all of Elmira, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Marron and Miss Adrianne Marron, of Portamouth, Va., and Mr. Jacob Ahlager, of Boston.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, Lieut. and Mrs. Marron will be at home at 2001 Sixteenth street.

The great crowd which filled the grounds of Esta Brook, the home of Col. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, yesterday for the charity fete were thrilled with the many events arranged for their amusement. Miss Margaret Corspecker, champion tennis star, of Philadelphia, West Virginia and Maryland, at various times, beat Mrs. Charles Stone after much skillful playing on the part of both, the score being 6—3, 6—love, amid much enthusiasm. The swimming matches between the Central High and the George Washington University teams also aroused much enthusiasm. One of the outstanding features was the three strolling musicians led by Pete Macias.

Mrs. George Barnett's sideshow was adjudged one of the great successes, Henry Suydam, her son-in-law, scarcely recognizable in fantastic dress, being the harker, while his brother did the heavy comic inside. These and the tea table were the specially successful features.

Assistant Attorney General Charles P. Sisson will be the principal speaker tonight at the semimonthly supper meeting held by the membership committee of the Young Republican group of the National Capital Republican Club. How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Start the Day's Beauty Program Preceding Night.

MANY women want to know what is the best time for facial treatment, exercise and beauty details in general. This is a difficult question to answer, for each woman is a law unto herself and should work out her beauty program according to her own convenience and leisure.

Elsie Pierce.

The right time to start your day's beauty program is the night before, but if you find this impractical or inconvenient, follow the program during the afternoon or early evening if this is the logical time for you.

At night, before retiring, is the time that most women give their skins a very thorough treatment. The morning treatment usually consists merely of cleansing and toning, and then, of course, the protective finish before make-up. But the night treatment is the corrective treatment, routing blackheads, dimming wrinkles and unwelcome lines, applying preparations that heal eruptions, patting skinfood and leaving a little overnight if the skin is dry or leathery and needs this lubrication.

After a full social evening, if you are retiring very late, it may be impossible for you to follow your individual treatment through completely. In that event, limit the treatment if you must; but never, under any circumstances, retire without removing every bit of make-up from your skin.

Complete Beauty Routine.

The complete beauty routine should include a few minutes' exercise, then the warm, cleansing and relaxing bath, scented if you like. Then the facial treatment that is suited to your individual needs. Another word of caution here. Please do not use any preparations because you like the perfume, or the color, or because your neighbor or favorite screen star prefers it. These reasons are good enough only if they supplement the one important reason, which is the preparation actually suited to your own needs and will benefit you.

Having treated your skin, turn your thoughts to your hair, and remember to brush up and out for several minutes. Brush your brows, too, pinching and shaping them, and apply a little vaseline or pure castor oil if you wish to encourage the growth of the brows and lashes and also heighten their sheen.

The teeth should be brushed and a mouth wash used. The cuticle at the basis of each nail should be pushed back after the hands are washed and a little cream or hand jelly applied to the hands to keep the skin soft and smooth. The clothes you intend wearing the next day may be looked over and laid out, and any other personal details cared for. Once you are in bed, remember to relax completely, do a few deep breathing exercises (of course, your window is open top and and bottom). Let go, head, arms, shoulders, your entire body. Think only of sleep and rest, not of any of the day's details. And if you sleep restfully, your body will recharge a new fund of energy and enthusiasm for the next day.

If you have any beauty problems or if you wish a definite outline for individual needs of your complexion, send a self-adressed envelope to Elsie Pierce, in care of The Washington Post.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

What clever fingers can do in the way of elegance is shown in the summer ensemble of maise organdie for the frock and two tones of blue for the coat, both trimmed with braided twists of material. The coat completely covers the dress. (A Dah-ray design.)

NEW YORK, May 18.—With good taste, patience and clever fingers, a woman can be as well dressed as a queen.

Oh, yes, she can. But she has to have these three things—good taste, which if queens don't have, they can afford to pay some one to have for them; patience and clever fingers which her patience has trained to fashion fabrics and threads, buttons and embroideries into garments for herself.

There are just so many things that can be done with fabrics, so many and no more. When one learns what these are and how to do them, where is the queen or the coutouriere who can do any better? As long as it is woven stuffs with which we cover ourselves, 'tis only a matter of learning how to manipulate these woven things. Patience and training one's fingers into clever fingers will do it.

Summer elegance, for instance, and what clever fingers can do, I have suggested for you today. The frock is maise organdie, trimmed with braided strips of the same material, flat, you know. And the coat is Alice blue crepe marocain, trimmed with braids of navy blue. Could anything be more elegant and look more expensive? Yet only the material and patience and clever finger work are responsible.

Anyone can learn to sew. Of course it is a matter of practice, too, as well as knowledge. One learns, then practices, on cheaper materials. And one denies the possibility of mediocre work—never accepting a bungled or ill-fitting job. That is how one learns. And then when one can make lovely things one can be as well dressed as a queen—on no matter what income.

* * * *

That's what it is about pyjamas, you see—one can make them as easily or more easily than shopping around to find a style that actually fits and hangs properly. Of course, one has to have an idea of how material should be cut to fit over the hips, and to hang and not be baggy or floppy as to trousers! But for that, you just have to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to do all this. Pyjamas of any sort and for any occasion have to fit, as every woman knows. Well, our basic pyjama pattern does—so send for the leaflet and be properly pyjamaed for once—and forever!

Fashion French.

Bon marche (bong mar-shay) means "cheap." "Expensive" is "cher," and is pronounced "share." "C'est bon marche" means "It's cheap." "C'est trop cher" means "It's too expensive."

* * * *

Can you anything but adore the little jumper dresses? Once upon a time we thought of jumper dresses as very, very young girlish—now we see them for morning, noon and night, still jumper dresses, still very youthful in effect and charm, but with sleeves far too elaborate to be mistaken as belonging to little sister's wardrobe.

White balloon sleeves of organdie—with a black velvet jumper dress—made one lovely lady at the Paris Opera look as though she had stepped out of a Gainsborough painting. And a favorite way to make a summer dress into two is to wear a jumper dress cut high enough to really be worn without sleeves—and then have a guimpe of lighter material to wear for a second version. More of these two-version frocks anon.

Au revoir.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

BAKED SHAD IS ALWAYS DELICIOUS.

BAKED shad and no less, for tomorrow's dinner, all of which proves that spring with its attendant good things to eat is really here at last. Not that shad is a stranger to our column; we have suggested it before, but always with the feeling that it was a delicacy because of its early season high price and, therefore, demanded a very careful accompanying menu to the end of keeping the budget in working shape. But now that the season advances we dare plan shad with little or no fear of consequences. So here is our menu, almost a "party" one in its goodness, and quite fit to take the place of the famed four and twenty blackbirds song and fable.

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Clear Soup
Saltines
Baked Shad
New Potatoes with Paraley Butter Sauce
Shredded String Beans
French Rolls
Cucumber Boats
Grapefruit Pie
Coffee

Baked Shad.

Have a three to five pound shad cleaned, cut off the fins and leave head and tail. Wash and wipe dry, rub inside with salt and fill with bread stuffing, as for chicken. Sew or tie up the fish and sprinkle with oil. Also oil the baking pan in which it is placed. Place in a very hot oven until it begins to brown, then reduce heat. It is not necessary to baste shad, as it is a naturally oily fish. When tender and brown, remove to a hot platter and serve with paraley butter sauce. Garnish with quartered lemon.

French Rolls.

3 cupfuls milk, scalded
1 tablespoonful sugar
4 tablespoonfuls butter
1-3 tablespoonful salt
1 yeast cake
2 eggs
8 cupfuls flour

Scald the milk and add the sugar, butter and salt. Cool until lukewarm and stir in the yeast cake, which has been dissolved in a quarter cupful of water. Stir in two cupfuls of flour and set in a warm place until light. Beat the eggs well and stir into the sponge mixture, adding three cupfuls of flour and beating until the surface is covered with bubbles. Cover closely and let rise over night in a warm place. In the morning add the remaining flour or enough to knead and knead lightly but thoroughly. Shape into small, long rolls or round balls and place on a slightly greased pan lightly sprinkled with flour. Let rise an hour. Bake in a moderate oven about a half hour.

Grapefruit Pie.

½ cupful sugar
1 tablespoonful cornstarch
Pinch of salt
3 eggs, separated
1 cupful water
1 cupful grapefruit juice
Grated rind of one-half grapefruit

Mix the sugar, salt and cornstarch and add the well-beaten egg yolks. Heat the water, grapefruit juice and the rind to boiling and add slowly to the egg mixture, stirring all the time. Cook in a double boiler for two or three minutes, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Cool slightly and pour into a previously baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by adding four and one-half tablespoonfuls granulated sugar, a little at a time, to the stiffly beaten egg whites. Flavor with two teaspoonfuls of grapefruit juice. Place in a slow oven (250 degrees) until the meringue is a delicate brown.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

CAN you furnish layouts and plans for garden trellises for climbing rosebushes? R. B. K.

You can obtain layouts from any architect. The last pages of most of the seed catalogues picture all sorts of designs of trellises which could be easily copied by any one with sufficient skill to build an arbor. The horticultural magazines also picture trellises.

Please tell me the name of the plant of which I am inclosing a leaf, and also its care. MRS. G. W. S.

The dracema requires a rich soil and a daily drink. Keep the surface soil in the pot quite loose and the plant in a location where it will have the early morning sun. Wash the leaves once each week.

Three weeks ago I made some geranium cuttings which are now in sand. When must they be transplanted into soil? How much moisture must they have while they are developing roots? What fertilizer should be given to coreopsis plants which were transplanted in the fall? What should be done for peonies that were planted last fall? I have some shaded steps upon which I want to place some potted plants, preferably blooming varieties. What do you suggest? Why did my nasturtiums fail last year? I have rather clayey soil; would this influence their growth? FRANCES E. T.

Transplant geranium cuttings when they have become well rooted; while in sand merely keep them moist, never wet. Bonemeal is a splendid fertilizer for coreopsis plants. Give your peonies an application of bonemeal at this time and keep them well watered. They are not apt to bloom until next season. Tuberous-rooted begonias would do well on steps in the shade. Perhaps you overwatered your nasturtiums or overfed them. As a rule, they do not require a very rich soil. Bonemeal would no doubt have a tonic effect on them.

My variegated ivy leaves are beginning to turn brown. Please tell me the cause and suggest a remedy. I have them in a west window and keep them quite moist. MRS. W. H. C.

It is likely a case of too strong sun. Better remove the plant to a less sunny place.

Did I do right when I pruned my large-flowered white hydrangea? The late ones did not bloom. MRS. F. H. D.

The shrub varieties of hydrangeas bloom on wood made the same season; therefore they should be pruned in the late fall or early spring.

Please tell me what to do with an Easter lily which is through blooming. Also, when shall I plant decorative pepper seed? MRS. P.

When an Easter lily has finished blooming, it should be kept well watered until all the leaves are yellow, which is an indication that the bulb is ripe. The plant should be then set aside until June 1, when the dead tops can be removed and the bulb planted in a sunny spot in the garden, where it should bloom in late August. Plant pepper seed at this time.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed leaf how to transplant a snake plant and the after-care of a hyacinth plant. MRS. ANNA C. S.

Crassula arborescens. Use a pot two sizes larger than the one in which the plant is now growing, and use plenty of drainage material. Water hyacinth until leaves are yellow, then set pot aside until October, when the bulb may be planted in your garden.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

TOO DRY.

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "My sister does not sweat in summer and she suffers greatly. What can be done for it?"

There are several possibilities, three of which we will discuss. Let us begin with a very important one, important because of its prevalence as well as for other reasons.

When grown people tell us they do not sweat, our thoughts run at once to myxedema, or a deficiency of thyroid secretion. The thyroid is the large ductless gland, located in the front and lower part of the neck. When it is enlarged our German friends call the disorder "big neck" or "thick neck." In most forms of goiter this gland is visibly enlarged. However, there is no necessary relationship between enlargement of the gland and goiter. In some cases the gland is enlarged and there is no increase in secretion, or there may even be a decrease. On the other hand there may be no change in the size of the gland while there is too much gland secretion.

The condition which we are now interested in is too little thyroid secretion, regardless of the size of the thyroid gland. If this condition of too little secretion is present in a child of the growing age we say the child is a cretin. If it develops in adult life we say the person has myxedema. A metabolism test is the method of diagnosing this condition. In this disorder the skin is very dry. There is almost no sweating. The coarseness of the skin is a part of a story of coarse hair.

The remedy for myxedema is daily dosage of thyroid gland, or some preparation thereof. When a case of myxedema takes thyroid the metabolism rate goes up; the coarse, lusterless hair falls out and is replaced by hair of better quality; much of the coarse dry skin can be scoured off in a Turkish bath, leaving softer, more babylike skin and fewer callouses and corns, and the blessing of being able to sweat is restored.

It is possible that mild cases of myxedema need to do nothing more than to move to the seashore and live on a diet of oysters, fish and seaweed.

Another possibility is ichthyosis, or fish skin. Not many people have well developed cases of ichthyosis, but a very great number are that way in spots. The mild form of the disorder is dry skin. Many persons belong to dry skin families. They inherit the peculiarity. The majority of them do not indulge it further than to develop dry scalp, dry skin in the forehead, or perhaps on the hands, or patches around the ankles or on the shins. People of this type are apt to suffer from winter itch, and they get the itchy, dry skins of senility years in advance of the conventional program for living. It is this group of people who get the most benefit from the use of creams, and theirs are the names found signed to honest indorsements of patent skin salves and ointments.

Just a word about another type of person who suffers greatly in summer. I refer to the people of the polycythemia type. They are red, or purple faced. They look like a blood sausage at times. In some cases they seem on the verge of bursting and running blood. They meet one of your specifications—they suffer in summertime. But they miss out on the other. They sweat, as a rule. They usually sweat excessively.

LUCKY TO SAVE ARM.

Mrs. C. R. P. writes: I know of a little girl whose arm was fractured about seven months ago right above the elbow (compound fracture). The small bones pierced the skin, causing infection, which lasted some time. New bone formed, making the elbow stiff, and there is very little motion in the joint. She as supposed to have had every attention. Some doctors have said a piece of bone could be removed later, giving her motion in the joint, while others have said not.

REPLY.

The little girl was lucky not to lose her arm. Compound infected fractures near the elbow are often followed by loss of motion. In most cases an operation to increase motion in the joint proves successful.

DECEPTION IN BIDDING.

A SOUND principle in Contract bidding is to bid enough to encourage your partner to continue with safety and yet not completely reveal every strong point and every unguarded feature of your hand to your opponents. Occasionally, a Contract player observes every letter of the law and yet writes himself down a loser in the play. This is often because his bidding is always an open book to his opponents, even though it is also crystal clear to his partner. This is not an argument for the coarse, bluff bids, which some people regard as psychic. Bold bidding and, at times, overbidding, may be dictated by the necessities of defense.

Today's hand recounts how Miss Louise Morgan Sparrow, who plays at the Cavendish Club, in New York, and her partner combined boldness with slight overbidding and thus prevented opponents from contracting for a game, but were doubled in a game contract, which they made.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K Q J 9 ♡ 6 4 2 ◇ 9 3 2 ♣ 10 4 3
♠ A 8 3 2 ♡ 9 3 ◇ K J 6 4 ♣ 8 6 5	N W E S	♠ 7 4 ♡ K Q J 10 8 7 ◇ A Q 5 ♣ 7 2
	♠ 10 6 5 ♡ A 5 ◇ 10 8 7 ♣ A K Q J 9

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1♠	2♡
2NT(1)	Pass	Pass	3♡(2)
3NT(3)	Pass	Pass	Dbl.(4)
4♠(5)	Dbl.(6)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—South's hand contains 6 playing-tricks. It is possible that 9 tricks are available to the North and South partnership. Eleven tricks appear impossible on the bidding.
2—Proceeding cautiously in view of his partner's two passes.
3—Again a bold bid, which had much to do with the success of the eventual contract.
4—East wishes to be assured of a heart lead.
5—South realizes that the notrump contract is impossible.
6—West places the major diamond tenace in the South hand on the bidding, and thus reasons that he holds 2 to 3 tricks and that his partner's bid should count for enough to make the set of the spades fully as profitable as the defeat of the notrump contract.

In the play, East opened the heart King, which was won by the Ace in Dummy. The heart was returned, and East won and led to a club to "kill" this suit before the Doubler's trump stopper had been removed. North won the club trick with the Ten and ruffed his losing heart with the Ten in Dummy. West overruffed with the Ace of spades and led a club, hoping to give East a ruff in that suit. Trumps were then led and exhausted, and the Dummy was put in with a club, losing a diamond at the end. Unquestionably, East's plan of campaign was faulty, and West was even more to blame for the unfortunate result.

East's rebid, vulnerable, of the heart suit can only be predicated upon strength in diamonds, as the situation, as regards clubs, is an open book to the West player. Instead of returning the club for a mythical ruff, West should have realized that the chance of defeating the contract lay in securing tricks in diamonds before the Declarer had a chance to discard losers in that suit on the established cards in Dummy. The situation, from West's standpoint, was not one permitting the use of waiting tactics. East must have diamond strength; otherwise the contract cannot be defeated. Even crediting North with only a four-card trump suit, East cannot have more than two trumps, and the remote chance that his lead of the club was a singleton should not have prevented West from making sure of a penalty before risking the entire future of the hand on the chance.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The sound principle in bidding is to bid enough to encourage your partner to continue. In play, the defense should always seek to find some loophope by which the superior forces of the contracting side may be brought to disaster.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ — ♡ 6 4 3 2 ◇ A Q 10 9 7 5 ♣ A 10 5
♠ 10 6 5 3 ♡ J ◇ 8 6 4 2 ♣ J 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ K Q 8 4 ♡ 10 ◇ K J 3 ♣ K Q 9 7 4
	♠ A J 9 7 2 ♡ A K Q 9 8 7 5 ◇ — ♣ 8

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU. "TAURUS."

IF MAY 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4:20 p. m.

Events on May 19 are foreseen to circle around home and home affairs. Parents will be called upon to assist or advise in the affairs of their children. People now contemplating a second marriage will find the course of true love does not always run smoothly, and are advised to await developments before going to the altar.

The child born on this May 19 will have a captivating personality. It will be a superficial student in the schoolroom, but will have too keen an eye and clever a brain not to constantly pick up interesting bits and ways in the broadening university of everyday life. A very promising future is pictured for it, although its best opportunities will not come very early in life.

Born on May 19, you have many of the characteristics belonging to a clinging-vine sort of person. You need somebody upon whom to lean, and it would be a mistake to place on your shoulders a load which only a sturdier and more solid being could carry. You lack faith in your own judgment and ability and always like the moral backing of someone, no matter what it is you are going to do. On your assumption that the whole world is wise and you are foolish, you seek counsel from both reliable and unreliable sources. Advice seeking and advice mongers are killing your initiative and dulling your personality.

You will always run with the pack and never will have enough nerve to strike out as a pioneer in any field of endeavor. You would go further and be happier as a subordinate than trying to fill more independent or masterful positions. You are a willing worker and when once on to the ropes are deft and quick. If you can find a safe and comfortable rut into which to slide, and out of which you can seek a comfortable living, you will be content. You feel security and find comfort, not boredom. You are very much a home body and like social contact with your family and special friends. You are fond of light reading.

Successful people born May 19:

Arthur Eugene Bestor, president Chautauqua Institution.

Viscount Astor, husband of Lady Astor, M. P.

Johns Hopkins, founder of university and hospital bearing his name.

James O. Broadhead, U. S. Minister to Switzerland.

George W. Whistler, civil engineer.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

WHEN the Federal Radio Commission let the bars down with regard to announcements of phonograph records and electrical transcriptions, as such, last February, it was predicted that the listening public would hear some very fancy camouflaging. That prophecy was so well borne out that the commission has found it necessary to strengthen the language of the new ruling.

Prior to February 1, any radio station broadcasting a phonograph record was obliged to announce the fact before the record was played. In the case of an electrical transcription—a record especially prepared for broadcasting—an announcement was required immediately before and following the broadcast. There were many objections to this practice, both from the radio stations and the listening public, mainly on the ground that it proved too monotonous to the listeners.

After careful consideration, the Radio Commission consented to modify the ruling so that the language to be used in describing such mechanical reproductions was left optional, with one provision only, that it be "clear and in terms commonly used and understood."

THE straight record announcements have given some trouble, but the electrical transcription commercial presentations have given cause for the real complaint. Frequently radio stations present these programs in such ambiguous terms that the listener is at a loss to know whether the talent is in the studio or whether it is a record. In order to straighten this situation, the commission, in a new general order, amends the paragraph dealing with mechanical reproduction to read:

"In all cases where electrical transcriptions made exclusively for broadcast purposes are so constructed as to record a single continuous program upon more than one mechanical reproduction, rather than a recordation of the entire program upon a single mechanical reproduction, the announcement required hereby shall be made at the commencement of each such program and in no event less than every fifteen minutes. All other announcements required hereby shall immediately precede the use of each separate mechanical reproduction."

With this new ruling, effective June 1, the commission hopes it has disposed of the mechanical reproduction problem for a little while. The radio stations in metropolitan centers have fairly good records in this matter, but out in the hinterland, where the broadcasters feel themselves removed from the watchful eye of the Radio Commission, there has been much taking advantage of the commission's leniency.

THE third and final in the series of radio job auctions being conducted by Herluf Provensen, announcer, and Francis Miller, of the American Legion, to provide employment for legion men in desperate need, will be held tomorrow night (WRC, 6:15 o'clock), during the Wilkins Coffee Quarter Hour. More than 60 jobs were provided as a result of the first broadcast, and the telephone calls asking for men during the second broadcast have not yet been fully tabulated.

Friendly relations between Chicago and cities in Germany will be cemented when German residents of the Windy City pay tribute to the Fatherland in a program which will be heard in both countries (WRC, 10:30 a. m.). Dr. H. F. Simon, German consul general in Chicago, will extend greetings. Marion Claire, operatic soprano, and the Richard Wagner Men's Singing Society, will participate in the half-hour program.

Radio will turn to the clouds high above New York for its jazz melodies during the Lucky Strike Dance Hour tonight. Marion Handy's Band, playing from an eighteen-passenger airplane over mid-Manhattan, will feature the program. The plane is equipped with two microphones and insulated to deaden the roar of the motors. Joe Moss and his orchestra will be heard during the hour from the studios. Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, will be guest speaker.

What happens when Sherlock Holmes finally comes face to face with the notorious Prof. Moriarity will be revealed during the "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock). The story which concerns the theft of a famous Da Vinci, is an adaption of the story entitled "The Final Problem."

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Terrell to the wedding of their daughter, Charlotte, to George Nicholas Saegmuller, jr., on May 31, at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Livingston Heights, Va.

Mr. Terrell is chief of the radio division of the Department of Commerce, and one of the two original radio inspectors in the United States.

Speaking of weddings, the feminine contingent at Station WRC gave a surprise luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Miss Stuart Gordon, of the station staff, who will be married to Mr. Raymond Currey on June 1. Those present were Gladys Murphy, Ynez Whitney, Rita Hughes, Phoebe Gale, Virginia Birgfeld, Bess Dees, Helen Schaeffer, Elsie Ramby and Ruth Campbell.

The thirtieth anniversary of Cuban Independence celebrated tomorrow in Cuba as Proclamation Day, will be observed in a special program (WMAL, 4 p. m.).

Abrasha Borodkin and three cellists of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will perform as a guest quartet with Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and vocal ensemble on the Week-end Hour tomorrow (WRC, 8 p. m.).

A broadcast, entitled "Leicester Square," featuring musical comedy and vaudeville tastes of Great Britain, will be mirrored in a special half-hour program sent from London for rebroadcasting, tomorrow afternoon (WMAL, 5 o'clock).

On radio horizon: The G. A. R. memorial services in the Arlington Amphitheater will be broadcast over a nation-wide network on Memorial Day * * * Mary Roberts Rinehart's celebrated "Tish" stories, followed by millions of readers for more than 20 years, have been dramatized for radio listeners, the new series to begin June 6 * * * A history of electricity, from its original identification by Benjamin Franklin, to the very latest development, will be presented on Friday, June 10, over WRC.

The current issue of Variety, Broadway weekly devoted to the screen, stage and radio, publishes a compilation taken from reports sent in by its correspondents throughout the country to determine the twelve most popular radio programs.

The following, Variety says, enjoy "the top popular vogue:"

(1) Amos 'n' Andy; (2) Ziegfeld Radio Show; (3) Burns and Allen-Guy Lombardo; (4) Walter Winchell and dance bands; (5) Harry Richman-Dave Rubinoff; (6) Ben Bernie; (7) Kate Smith; (8) Morton Downey-Tony Wons-Jacques Renard; (9) Rudy Vallee-Irene Bordoni; (10) Ruth Etting-Boswell Sisters-Nat Shilkret-Alex Gray; (11) Myrt and Marge; (12) Tony Wons.

FROZEN CONFIDENCE.

*("When our people recover from frozen confidence * * * there will be no need of exercising emergency power."—President Hoover.)*

* * * *

ARE you puzzled by the actions
That you see on every side?
Do you wonder why some people
Do not seem to fight the tide?
Well, their confidence is frozen—
They're too cold to force a grin,
But you watch the transformation
When
the thaw
sets
in!

II.

Do you know just what's the trouble
With the folks from sea to sea—
Why they look so sad and beaten
And they move so timidly?
Boy, their confidence is frozen—
They're in ice from toe to chin,
But you'll never know 'em, buddy,
When
thaw
sets
in!

III.

ARE you awed by lamentations—
Do the croakers get your goat?
Do you marvel that so many Think they're in a sinking boat?
Say, their confidence is frozen
And they've lost the will to win,
But you'll never know those babies
thaw
sets
in!

IV.

Do you marvel at the lack of
The emotion known as joy?
Do you, too, have some misgivings
In these troubled days, my boy?
Shucks! Your confidence is frozen—
Snow and ice-caked is your chin
But you'll quickly lose those jitters
thaw
sets
in!

V.

DO you wonder when you listen
To the pessimistic talk
Of a nervous, jumpy people
And perceive the growing squark?
Man, their confidence is frozen
And they're cold from head to shin
But their sudden change will floor you
thaw
sets
in!

VI.

Are you puzzled by the bleatings
Of the folks who act like sheep?
Do you wonder why so many
Talk depression in their sleep?
Well, their confidence is frozen
And goose-fleshy is their skin—
But you watch your Uncle Sammie
When
thaw
sets
in!

BATTER UPSKY!

SOVIET Russia is to take up baseball. Theoretically, of course, the hits and runs will have to be equitably divided.

It struck this department that the gait from start to finish was just a series of hops.

The rich get beer—

Tests by 150 psychologists at Columbia show that women are happier than men.

Why shouldn't they be? They don't know what it is to get up in the morning and find all the razor blades are dull.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

MR. HUBBARD KEAVY, our West Coast operative, is much concerned—as well he might be—as to what moviedom may be coming to.

It seems that Loretta Young has built herself a new home that falls something short of real A-1 movie garishness. It actually looks as if it might be lived in with some degree of comfort.

Just to give you a rough idea, it has no sunken bathtubs, no concealed barrooms, no marble stairways. And—can you imagine!—no swimming pool!

You know, really, this is going just a bit too far.

It's a new house into which Loretta has moved the family, all white except for the green shutters—the house, not the family—and it sits very primly in the middle of some new lawns and gardens.

There are two slender white columns that give the front an extremely formal appearance. But there is nothing gaudy or movie-starrish about it. What's the world coming to, anyhow?

Furthermore, believe it or not the whole first floor of this house is on one level. Mr. Keavy reports that he knows of one star's home that actually boasts of seventeen different floor levels.

In the living room, which is only a skimpy 18 by 30 feet, there is but one fireplace and that is a small one. Why, in some Beverly Hills homes, says Mr. Keavy, there are fireplaces you could hang a beef in—if you had a beef.

There is a nice dining room and a nice kitchen, but no breakfast room. Upstairs there is a bedroom for Loretta's little sister, still a kindergartener, an adjoining suite for Loretta's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. George Belzer, another suite for Polly Ann Young and Sally Blane, Loretta's older sisters, and Loretta's own suite.

The bathrooms are ordinary, with no fol-de-rols, no sunken tubs, no superfluous sqizzywiddles of any kind. There is no marble in the entire house. No show. No front.

The whole thing is so homelike and comfortable that it's thoroughly disappointing!

Oh, yeah?

Wesley Eddy and the boys and girls in the stage show "Blue Waves," which closes its engagement at Loew's Fox tonight, have been wondering what to do with their spare time this week.

Eddy and the Phelps twins took part in a radio program Saturday morning and again Tuesday night; Eddy was on at the National Theater Players' testimonial Sunday night; he, Serge Flash, the Runaway Four and the Chester Hale Girls did a dinner routine for the radio executives; on Saturday, Wes will entertain the local ad men with a few selections. In between times, he has managed to appear at a benefit at the Mayflower and do four-a-day at the theater.

Well, he asked for work when he came here!

The twenty-eighth annual "Frolic" of the Friars will be given one performance here in the Washington Auditorium tonight.

The Mammoth "Frolic," with its multitude of famous stage, radio and screen stars, after its New York premiere at the Metropolitan Opera House last Sunday night, comes to the Capital to begin a tour of 50 principal cities of the country.

During the many years of the Friars Club existence, it has been giving its internationally famous benefits. This is the third time only that a "Frolic" ever has appeared outside New York. The first time, the itinerary included ten cities; the second, only one——

Pardon me just a moment, the 'phone is ringing.

"Nels?"

"At the 'phone."

"Harold Phillips calling. Did you know the Friars' Frolic, due at the Auditorium Thursday night, has canceled?"

"No, I was just writing a piece about it."

"Yeah; folded last night, and if you want to know why, you can probably get 70 different reasons by asking the 70 members of the troupe individually. Write your own ticket."

"Okay, fella; thanks for calling."

"Righto. I'll be seeing you around."

So go back to the first paragraph of this and change to read:

The twenty-eighth annual "Frolic" of the Friars will NOT be given one performance here in the Washington Auditorium tonight.

And that's that.

However, there are some attractions not far off that will be pleasant to watch.

For instance, beginning next Monday night, the National Theater Players will be seen in "The Vinegar Tree," a rollicking sort of comedy that took Broadway by storm and has never before been presented on a Washington stage.

Hailed as a "flare-back" to the old-fashioned comedies of the English-speaking stage in the time of Oliver Goldsmith and Richard Brinsley Sheridan, in the eighteenth century, "The Vinegar Tree," nevertheless, is a strictly modern tale of a certain Mrs. Merrick, who, as a matter of fact, is another Mrs. Malaprop.

Mary Boland originated the character on the New York stage. It will, of course, be played here by Leona Powers, with the other members of the players all congenially cast. Matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, as usual.

Then, out at the McKinley Auditorium, Second and T streets northeast, also beginning Monday night, with a matinee Saturday and no performance on Friday, Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Yeoman of the Guard, or the Merryman and His Maid" will be sung for the week by the Washington Civic Opera Company. A cast and chorus of more than 80 young singers of the Capital City have been in rehearsal for several weeks on this tuneful and popular work.

The cast of fifteen principals will be led by Alma Harris, Maxine de Silvia, Esther Mellick Ingram, Alma Bishop and Jesse Veitch.

Chesapeake Beach, with its refurbished Seaside Park, will join the slowly growing list of outdoor resorts in full running order for the summer season on Saturday. The inaugural day will be made notable by the first expansive outing of the year—the National Press Club's Texas barbecue, for which John Snider has come all the way from the Lone Star State to show the local gentlemen of the press how such things should be done.

About 3,000 are expected to be in attendance, and, as I understand it, the stalwart Mr. Snider has driven up a steer for every guest—or something like that!

In the meantime the 50 or more amusement devices at Glen Echo Park are humming along in midsummer form. Picnic parties are daily occurrences, all of the rides are doing land-office business and MacWilliams and his band entice crowds of dancers to the ballroom every night except Sunday.

A week from Saturday, the Crystal Swimming Pool will be opened for the first time this year.

The post positions of the entries to be in the race for business in the motion picture field next week will be approximately as follows: Loew's Fox, Warner Baxter in "Man About Town," and Wesley Eddy with Loew's "Three Screens" revue; Earle, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Mary Brian in "It's Tough to Be Famous," and Roscoe Ates, stuttering comic, headlining the vaudeville; RKO-Keith's, Dorothy Jordan and Eric Linden in "The Roadhouse Murder" and special screen short-subject, "Cain;" Palace, Ramon Novarro and Madge Evans in "Huddle;" Metropolitan, "The Blonde Captive;" Columbia, Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford and Lewis Stone in "Grand Hotel," two performances daily, three on Sunday; all seats reserved. Second week.

I understand from Fred Bradna, the genius who "puts on the show" for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, that those Ubangi savages are pretty tough hombres to handle. Well, maybe not pretty!

They're apt to give you a piece of lip 'most any time!

HEARING OF RECTOR WILL RESUME TODAY

Money Raised by Defense to Continue Fight Against Morals Charges.

Stiffkey, England, May 18 (U.P.).—The Rev. Harold Davidson, white-haired rector of Stiffkey, will go on trial here again tomorrow on charges of immorality much to the displeasure of this little village, resentful of the searchlight of publicity which will again be turned on it.

Dr. Davidson's trial began more than a month ago in Norwich consistory court, but it was adjourned to permit the defense to raise funds to carry on. The aged rector was accused of immoral relations with young girls he met during social service work in London, with meeting various women while they were clad in their nightdress, with kissing an actress, and with making a sly journey to Paris with one of his lady friends.

The populace of 500 is divided over the question of Dr. Davidson's guilt or innocence, but few have risen to champion him. He has not preached in the little village church in recent weeks and his congregation is awaiting the judgment of the consistory court before taking any very definite stand on the conduct of the rector.

Mrs. Davidson and her four children still occupy the ancient rectory and refuse to believe that the rector is guilty of the charges he so vigorously denied.

Children Exist Who Regard Selves as Animals, Is Claim

However, Such Tendencies Are Not Marks of Inferiority, Dr. Hrdlicka, of Smithsonian, Declares; Use of Teeth Also Cited.

(Associated Press.)

Evidence that children exist who believe they are animals was offered yesterday in a special report of the Smithsonian Institution as a result of studies by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, distinguished anthropologist.

Such children, usually very young, identify themselves so closely with animals, such as dogs, cats or pigs, that they seem to forget they are really human, says the report.

"This strange behavior goes so far," says the report, "that children seem to speak and understand the 'language of animals,' imitate their gestures in such minute detail that it is difficult to believe that the behavior is purely imitative, and consider themselves as lower animals rather than human beings.

"There are instances of youngsters who for weeks at a time will not respond to their own names, which they know perfectly well, but will come immediately when their mothers address them as dogs. Among lonely children in particular this form of behavior may develop and continue for a long time."

Such behavior is no indication of inferiority, says Dr. Hrdlicka.

He tells of a small boy and a pig once found wallowing together and grunting at each other in a mud puddle in the yard of a lonely Western farmhouse. The child, who had no human playmates, with parents too busy to give him much attention, considered himself a pig and behaved like one in every way. The two seemed to understand each other. The boy now is an honor student at an Eastern college.

Some other ways in which children identify themselves with animals, as described by Dr. Hrdlicka, are:

Picking up objects from the ground with the teeth, while walking on all fours, as a dog carries a ball.

Hoarding shiny pebbles or other small, bright objects as do squirrels or blue jays.

Biting and snapping at people's legs when angered while walking on all fours, like a puppy.

Nibbling at grass or other herbs as if to satisfy some craving.

Hrdlicka to Renew Asiatic Trail Hunt

Smithsonian Expert Plans Fifth Search for Traces of Peopling America.

Seattle, May 18 (A.P.).—Trails made thousands of years ago by the drift of Asiatic peoples to the Americas again have lured Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, scientist, to the Bering Sea region.

Before sailing today for Kodiak, Alaska, the Smithsonian Institution anthropologist said he welcomed the aid of a few volunteers.

"I am going alone on this, my fifth trip north since 1926," he explained, "because the economy program cut our funds. However, three or four Eastern college boys will join me later at their own expense."

Capt. Dollar's Funeral Is Held in California

San Rafael, Calif., May 18 (A.P.).—Funeral services were conducted for Capt. Robert Dollar in the First Presbyterian Church here today. The church, one side of which was banked with flowers, seated 800 persons. Amplifiers carried words and music to 2,000 more who stood outside.

The body of the 88-year-old shipping magnate and lumber dealer was taken to the family vault in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery. Capt Dollar died Monday, of bronchial pneumonia.

BANK CHIEF IS SHOT; GANG FREES CASHIER

$17,000 Bonds and $4,500 Cash Lost; Another Hold-up Nets $25,000.

Aberdeen, S. Dak., May 18 (A.P.).—Chester Doolittle, cashier of the Bank of Ipswich, kidnaped by four men who robbed the bank today, was released by his captors near Binford, N. Dak., tonight, authorities here were advised. He was weak and unable to tell a coherent story.

Doolittle said the bandits had headed east toward Grand Forks, N. Dak.

Abducting the cashier as a hostage, the bandits fled from pursuing possemen.

Officers feared pressing the gunmen's car too closely as it headed for the hill region, because of the danger to Doolittle. An airplane soared aloft to assist in the hunt. The loot, an early check revealed, was $4,500 in cash and $17,000 in registered bonds.

M. P. Beebe, president of the bank, was shot in the thigh when he left his office as the two bandits entered. A third was on the sidewalk and a fourth is believed to have waited in the car.

In another Middle Western bank robbery, during the day, three gunmen bound four officials and seven customers of the Noble County National Bank at Caldwell, Ohio, and escaped with $25,000. The victims were searched and all valuables taken from them. After a systematic rifling of the vault and cashier's cage for currency, the robbers walked to a waiting automobile and fled toward Marietta. A posse shortly afterward found the bandits' abandoned car and learned from a farmer that his automobile had been stolen by the holdup gang.

2 Plead Guilty of Theft In $30,000 Swindle

They had represented Henry Ford as interested in the scheme, and collected large sums of money

NATS BOW, 11-7, AS BROWNS SWEEP 4-GAME SERIES

Poor Pitching by Weaver And Burke in Relief Role Wastes Washington Lead

Nats Pound Stewart Out and Overcome 5-Run Lead Yielded by Lloyd Brown, But St. Louis Stages Uprising in Eighth.

Goslin Potent Factor in Attack With 4 Hits. Myer Clouts Homer Over Wall; Yankees Now Game and Half in Front.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THE Browns made their rout of the Nationals complete here yesterday afternoon when they took the fourth straight game and swept the series. The Browns started with a rush and, at one stage of the proceedings the Nationals overcame a five-run lead to become one up, but poor relief pitching by Monte Weaver and Bob Burke and some timely long-distance hitting by the visitors found the Nats trailing, 11 to 7, at the finish. This loss, coupled with a ninth straight victory for the Yankees, put Manager Walter Johnson's charges a game and a half behind the leading New Yorkers.

Lloyd Brown and Walter Stewart were the starting pitchers but neither was on hand to see the finish. Dick Coffman relieved Stewart and was given credit for the victory while Fred Marberry was well on his way to get his first triumph when he gave way to a pinchhitter, and Weaver and Burke let the visitors grab the decision.

Home Run by Myer Bounces Over Wall.

It was not the fault of Buddy Myer, Heinie Manush or Roy Spencer, that the Nats did not win, for they were credited with nine hits among them. Myer poled out his second homer in as many days when his looper in the sixth hit the top of the right-field wall and skidded over, while his single drove in the tying run in the seventh. Manush got three hits and Spencer, back in the game after a long absence, was credited with four.

Goose Goslin, former Nat, cracked out four hits, including a double and triple, to drive four runners over the plate. This gave him high gun honors for the visitors, although Burns was credited with three hits and all of the other Brownies except Schulte and the pitchers poled out two each.

Browns Take Lead At Outset.

When the Browns started off by scoring five runs in the first three innings as a result of nine hits off Brown's offerings, it looked as though the Nationals again were in for a bad licking. Stewart apparently resumed where he left off when he downed the natives last Sunday and the skies were dark indeed for the small home crowd. The natives, however, rallied in their half of the third, scoring four times and putting themselves right back in the running.

With one out, Burns singled in the opening stanza, advanced on Campbell's tap to Brown, and registered on Goslin's double to center. Ferrell walked and the visitors benefited from a break when Melillo's topped one hit the plate and bounced high in the air. It went as a hit and packed the aisles. Then Grimes singled two more runs home.

Two more St. Louis runs came in the third when, with one dead, Ferrell singled, Melillo doubled, Grimes tripled and Levey singled, all in rapid succession. Grimes was caught trying to steal home before Levey made his hit.

Nats Stage 4-Run Rally in Third.

A brace of home hits went to waste in the first and another in the second, but the Nats staged a four-run rally in their half of round three, a questionable decision against the visitors by Umpire Nallin helping considerably. Stewart hit Myer to start the ball rolling and, after Manush flied out, walked West. Cronin singled Myer home and West stopped at second. Both runners moved up after Campbell's catch of Reynold's long fly and then Judge singled to left.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

BY the peculiar and unusual arrangement of the dates in the American League schedule a much greater premium is paid on a good start than has been the case for the past many seasons. The date list throws the Nationals, Yankees and Mackmen at each other almost continuously, and, as they are generally regarded as the class of the circuit, any one of these teams stepping out between the opening day and June 6, when the Eastern teams open their first Western invasion, will have a big edge in the race.

Manager Walter Johnson's Washington Team has been most fortunate to-date in these face-to-face conflicts with its greatest rivals, having captured nine of twelve games played with both—six of eight from the Athletics and three of four from the Yankees. But the worst is yet to come.

Five Games With Yanks In Three Days.

Starting today in New York with a double-header, meeting the Yankees in a single game tomorrow, and ending on Saturday with a twin bill, is just a beginning of a short stretch which can either make or break the Nationals. They meet the Red Sox here Sunday and Monday and then face the New Yorkers on four successive days, hop to Philadelphia for

7-Run Attack in 7th Wins for Giants, 9-3

Cincinnati, May 18 (A.P.).—After being held helpless for six innings, the New York Giants cut loose in the seventh today with a cluster of six blows that brought seven runs, drove Si Johnson from the mound and defeated the Reds, 9 to 3.

Bill Terry's ninth home run of the season was the final blow of the big inning. It came with two on base after Larry Benton had taken the hill.

Pitching Heroes of Yankees' Nine-Game Winning Streak

Showing surprising strength on the mound, the Yankees have held the opposition to only four runs in the last six games, which included a string of four consecutive shutouts. Gomez, Ruffing, Pipgras, Allen and Johnson will be tossed at the Nats in the five-game series starting today.

RUTH'S DRIVE GIVES YANKS NINTH, 3-2

Homer in 10th Ends Duel; Johnson Strikes Out 12.

NEW YORK, May 18 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth, first man up in the tenth inning, capped a brilliant pitching performance by Henry Johnson with his seventh home run of the season, and the Yankees won, 3 to 2, over Cleveland today.

Johnson, making his first start of the year, after being held back by an appendicitis operation, gave only six hits in a duel with Clint Brown and fanned a dozen batsmen, but he weakened toward the end and allowed the Indians to tie the score.

Bill Dickey also hit a homer for the Yanks.

Red Sox Beat Chisox, 13-10, as Jolley Shines

Boston, May 18 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox today scored their first win of the season on their home diamond by topping the Chicago White Sox, 13 to 10, in the final game of the series. Five rival pitchers were slaughtered as the Red Sox broke a six-game losing streak.

Smead Jolley, formerly of the White Sox, led the Boston attack, getting four singles and a double on five trips to the plate. Marty McManus, Boston second baseman, injured his leg sliding home in the fifth and was carried off the field.

Tuttle and Underwood Honored by Middies

Annapolis, Md., May 18.—Awards of the two highest athletic honors that may be attained by midshipmen during an academic year at the Naval Academy, were announced today by officials of the Navy Athletic Association.

Magruder S. Tuttle, of Lenoir, N. C., will have his name engraved on the Thompson Trophy Cup for influence in the promotion of athletics, while George B. Underwood, of Portland, Oreg., will receive the athletic association's sword for personal excellence in athletics.

Twenty Grand Starts Training at Belmont

Lexington, Ky., May 18 (A.P.).—Twenty Grand, 3-year-old racing champion of 1931, will be shipped to Belmont Park tomorrow to reenter training, it was announced tonight by Maj. Louie A. Beard, manager of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Farm here.

Twenty Grand was brought here recently to recover from a recurrence of an injury suffered last year. Maj. Beard said that Twenty Grand would be raced soon if he trains soundly.

Paavo Nurmi Weds In Private Ceremony

Abo, Finland, May 18 (A.P.).—Paavo Nurmi, Finland's great distance runner, married today Miss Sylvi Laaksonen, at a private ceremony attended only by relatives and close friends. The wedding climaxed a friendship of many years.

Miss Laaksonen, popular in Abo, said she would not object to Paavo's continuing his running career, "so long as he doesn't run after the girls."

Ruling of Eastern Colleges Bans Sports Scholarships

NEW YORK, May 18 (A.P.).—The athletic scholarship, awarded only on the basis of athletic ability, today was outlawed by the Middle States Association of Colleges and secondary schools.

Prof. Adamleroy Jones, director of admissions at Columbia University and chairman of the commission on institutions of higher learning, announced that September, 1933, has been set as the deadline, by which time colleges must eliminate the scholarships or be erased from the commission's list of approved schools.

It is the first action taken by an Eastern academic body of the scope and power of the Middle States Association to curb the evil of subsidization of college athletes. It affects 110 colleges and universities, including all of prominence in the district covering the States of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

"It has long been felt," Prof. Jones said, "that the academic standing of colleges has been gravely affected by the practice of subsidizing athletes.

"No student who is a good student and capable of earning a scholarship will be barred because he is also proficient in athletics. But the practice of handing out tuition to some husky because he carries a football or fields a baseball better than his fellows must be stopped before any constructive step toward raising the standard of scholarship can be made. Raising the scholarship standard of colleges in our association is our primary objective."

In order that there might be no misunderstanding as to what constituted an "athletic scholarship," the commission defined it as a money payment, "or the equivalent," granted to a student because of athletic promise or athletic achievement.

The latest approved list of members issued by the association's commission includes Bucknell, Colgate, Columbia, Cornell, University of Delaware, Fordham, Georgetown, Johns Hopkins, Lafayette, Lehigh, New York University, Pennsylvania State, Princeton, Syracuse, the Universities of Maryland and Pennsylvania, Temple, Villanova and Washington and Jefferson.

Chevy Chase Medal Won By Pitt

Burrows Shoots 73 to Finish Stroke Behind Leader.

79 Highest to Gain Place in Championship Flight.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

HARRY G. PITT, District amateur golf champion and also champion of the Manor Club, held his own as medalist in the Chevy Chase annual spring invitation tournament with his card of 37—35—72 made on the first day of the qualifying round, despite the fact that his supremacy was seriously threatened in the second day's qualification on the Chevy Chase course yesterday.

Bradley H. Burrows, who for the last three years has held the leading place among the public links golfers in this section and who was runner-up on the Chevy Chase tournament last year, romped around the course with a fine 73, one stroke behind the leader. Joseph P. Lynch, the Georgetown University freshman, who was the medalist in the recent Army-Navy invitation tournament, was also a menace. He played the first nine in 36, gaining one stroke from Pitt after starting with an eagle 2 on the first hole, and had negotiated the first thirteen holes in two under 4s. On the last five holes, however, he had a succession of 5s, due to under-clubbing his approaches, and finished with 75 in third position.

Burrows Encounters Traps.

Burrows had several chances to win the medal, but encountered too many traps. He had no three-putt greens and was fortunate enough to have four one-putt greens, but of his four strokes over par three were due to drives or second shots into traps on the second, fourth and twelfth holes, while on the sixteenth he lost a shot by failing to reach the green with his second and then chipping short of the cup. His card:

Out .....4 5 4 4 4 4 4 5 3—37
In .....2 4 5 3 4 4 5 4 4—36—73

When all the scores had been turned in only the 79s were eligible to compete in the championship flight and there were only two places for the seven contestants who had scored this figure. Maj. Earl L. Naiden, War College, was absent when the play-off was called and automatically went into the second sixteen. The other competitors were L. T. Newton, George Washington University; John Slattery, Georgetown University; Everett Eynon, the Columbia Club champion; Richard D. Lunn, Chevy Chase; Fred A. Savage, jr., Elkridge, and William D. Waxter, jr., Baltimore Country Club. Newton and Waxter lost out on the first hole and Lunn saved himself on the second with the only 4 scored on the hole. On the third hole Slattery came through with a par 4, eliminating Eynon and Savage. Slattery, by the way, had an unusual experience. In his qualifying round he was 44 for the first nine and seemed destined to be outside the breastworks.

Slattery Winner In Play-Off.

However, he came back in 35, one stroke over par, for a 79, and then gained a place in the championship flight by winning in the play-off. Capt. K. J. Fielder, Army-Navy, and Miller B. Stevinson, Columbia, former winner of the Chevy Chase event, with cards of 80, which would have landed them in the second sixteen, withdrew their cards.

Owing to the fact that there were nearly 400 contestants, the golf committee decided to qualify five sixteens,

Sherdel, Free Agent, Signs With Cardinals

St. Louis, May 18 (A.P.).—Bill Sherdel, former St. Louis Cardinal southpaw, who was unconditionally released Monday by the Boston Braves, today signed with the Cards. Sherdel was a member of the St. Louis team from 1918 until 1930, when he went to the Braves with Pitcher Fred Frankhouse in a trade for Pitcher Burleigh Grimes.

Macks' 3 Homers Beat Detroit, 8-2

Philadelphia, May 18 (A.P.).—The Athletics captured the series from Detroit, two games to one, by winning the final contest today, 8 to 2. Grove allowed the Tigers nine hits.

Three homers featured the assault on Uhle and Herring. Foxx hit his tenth of the season with one on base. Dykes and Simmons accounted for the other two. White hit a homer for Detroit in the ninth.

HILDUR ROCK, 12-1, WINS IN CHURCHILL DOWNS SURPRISE

Harned Star Is Winner In Drive

Upsets Mark Program; Flag Pole Defeats Belmont Stars.

War Saint Triumphs in Feature Sprint at Aurora.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, Ky., May 18 (A.P.).—Long-shot players came in for a big inning here this afternoon. The talent which has been extremely successful at this meeting managed to land on the first winner but was in something of quandary thereafter, as one outsider after another scored at the wire.

The outstanding surprise of the day came in the fourth race, most pretentious offering on the card, when Hildur Rock, racing for Harned Brothers, defeated Justice Logan in a driving finish. Hildur Rock, one of the extreme outsiders in the betting, got the decision in the last drive to reward his backers at $26.58 for $2. Justice Logan was a neck in advance of Through Omond; which in turn defeated the favorite Pryor for the show money. Onanon and Lady of Grace were the only other starters.

H. M. Woolf's Culloden, the winner of the 1931 Latonia Cup, finally found a spot when he defeated a band of fair platers in the fifth event on the program. Culloden came from eleventh in a field of twelve to lead Herendeen and Deemster in the mile and three-sixteenths trip.

Flag Pole Surprise Winner.

Belmont Park Race Track, N. Y., May 18 (A.P.).—In a race run to order for the winner, the Brookmeade Stable's steadily improving colt—Flag Pole—sprang a surprise here today when he easily captured the thirty-second running of the Swift, a 7-furlong dash over the main course. The winner of the Sansovino Handicap received a fine ride from Georgie Fields and scored by two lengths over the Anall Stable's Larranaga, covering the distance in 1:24 2-5.

The first and second horses both closed at 8 to 1. In their wake came Pompeius, winner of three straight handicaps at Jamaica, and Economic, second to Burgoo King in the Derby. Pompeius lost the place by five lengths while nosing Economic out of the show. The winner earned $3,975. He carried 114 pounds, holding 8 pounds pull in the weights over the two favorites. Economic was favorite at 4 to 5, while Pompeius was quoted at 9 to 5.

Pompeius and Economic, both speed marvels, raced themselves dizzy in the first five furlongs, with the Coe colt showing the way by a head. Larranaga moved up suddenly leaving the far side and the three colts rounded the stretch turn almost like a team. Fields got Flag Pole to running at this point, and the son of American Flag came through inside the tiring leaders. He overhauled Larranaga, which had forged to the front in the stretch, at the sixteenth pole and won going away.

War Saint Triumphs At Aurora.

Aurora, Ill., May 18 (A.P.).—War Saint, 5-year-old son of St. James—War Goddess, cantered home first by a two-length margin in the feature 6-furlong event at Aurora today.

Piloted by Jockey C. Critchfield, he shot to the front after the barrier was sprung and made every post a winning one. Blue Day finished second with Outer Harbor third in the eight-horse field.

War Saint, which arrived here recently from his successful trails around Maryland, covered the distance in 1:12 4-5 and paid $7.10.

EPISCOPAL NET WINNER.

Alexandria, May 18. — Episcopal High's tennis team had no trouble here today in defeating Central High, of Washington, seven matches to none.

Singles—Swift defeated Rosenberg, 6—0, 6—2; Williams defeated Porteski, 6—2, 6—0; Tabb defeated Waller, 6—1, 6—4; Reed defeated Rodi, 6—2, 6—2; Burke defeated Welsh, 6—2, 6—1.

Doubles—Lanier and Walke defeated Rosenberg and Robins, 6—1, 6—1; Kline-Feiler and Claibourne defeated Rost and Waller, 2—6, 6—4, 6—1.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Three straight wins. K. Russell at $21.34 was the winner Asbestos played yesterday. The horse paid $7.02 for third and his roll went up $12.18 on the day. The total is now $44.51. It may take Asbestos a little longer than it did last time to reach the $1,000,000 mark, because he is only making depression bets. But they can't keep a good man down.

PASS CHRISTIAN moved to leader with a rush at the stretch turn, but tired in the final eighth. SUNGROS lost some ground and showed a good effort. SIMON had no mishap. BIANOZ had early speed. GUNFIRE forced early pace under light restraint, drew into a good lead after reaching the stretch, but weakened. THE WHIG bettered his position gradually after the stretch and, coming to outside in the final eighth, closed fastest of all. PRINCESS ZELDA, fractious at the post, raced well. The latter, under energetic tactics from start, was going well at the end. PAT C., under strong restraint for three-eighths, raced into an easy lead entering the stretch, but faltered in the drive. RUNNING WATER had speed from the start, saved ground and also weakened in the closing stages. LIQUIDATE showed a fair effort. GREEN WAVE quit badly after five-eighths.

The latter showed the most speed from the start, bore out entering the stretch and stood a long drive. THROUGH OMOND, up close under light restraint the first three-eighths, held on well under strong urging, could not reach the leader, but, slowly, raced greenly and the effort may benefit him. CULLODEN, well up after a quarter and, under strong restraint until reaching the stretch turn, where he was lightly shaken up, easily disposed of AGAPANTHUS after the latter had moved well to the hand. HERENDEEN began slowly, moved up steadily after reaching the final mile and stood the drive gamely, but could not threaten the winner. DEEMSTER, strong factor all the way and slightly forced back entering the stretch, held on fairly well. AGAPANTHUS, under strong reserve the entire five furlongs, reached the lead entering the latter part of the drive, but, faltered in the drive. TEA-CRACKER lost ground almost all the way. TYPHOON had good early speed. HIGH STORM dropped out of it as if sulking and showed a dull effort.

PRINCE MEGAN, away slowly and going sluggishly first half mile, gave improved speed thereafter, stood strong urging gamely and, wearing down SOPHIST, was ready to draw out. The latter, taken to the lead, where he showed good speed, increased his advantage at the stretch turn and held on gamely, but was not good enough. CAPTAIN ED, a strong factor throughout, saved ground and weakened in the drive, but outstayed ST. NAZAIRE. The latter raced wide almost throughout and showed a good effort. KNEE HIGH met interference shortly after the start, again at the close of a half mile, and failed to rally when clear. PRINCE HERBERT had early speed. DELVEN dropped out of it after three-eighths.

NO UPSETS IN WOMEN'S GOLF

First Sixteen Battles Are One-Sided

Mrs. Emge and Mrs. Pray Win Only Close Matches.

Former Will Oppose Mrs. Haynes Today in 2d Round.

THERE were no upsets in the first round of match play in the championship flight of the women's District golf title on the course of the Manor Club yesterday. In fact, all the matches were one-sided affairs, with two exceptions. Mrs. Ora Emge (Beaver Dam) was carried to the nineteenth hole by Miss Virginia Pope (Kenwood), and won when Miss Pope hooked her third shot into the rough. Mrs. L. G. Pray (Manor) won on the eighteenth hole from Mrs. H. R. Quinter (Columbia) by the narrow margin of 1 up.

An extended contest which went to the twenty-sixth hole marked the match between Mrs. E. C. Schroedel (Manor) and her fellow club member, Mrs. T. N. Beavers. Mrs. Schroedel was 1 down on the eighteenth tee, but squared the match by winning the last hole with a 5. Every hole thereafter was halved until the short eighth was reached. On that hole Mrs. Beavers drove into a trap and then played over the green, but finally landed on the green in 3.

Mrs. Schroedel Takes Three Putts.

Mrs. Schroedel meanwhile had driven to the edge of the green but took three putts for a 4. This, however, was good enough to bring the extended and exciting struggle to a close, for Mrs. Beavers took two putts to hole out for a 5. The eight extra holes were played by Mrs. Schroedel in 38 strokes and by Mrs. Beavers in 39.

The upper bracket of the first sixteen promises an interesting series of matches as Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, medalist, Middle Atlantic champion and former District champion, today meets Mrs. Emge, the Beaver Dam champion, while in the lower bracket Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, present defending title holder, is paired against Mrs. Hugh Nicolson, who has held the District title five times.

In the lower half of the bracket is Mrs. Everett Eynon, who last year won the Rhode Island women's champion and is the present woman champion of the Columbia Club.

All the players who were defeated in their first round matches yesterday will continue in the consolations this morning.

Eastern, Tech Faculty Nines Clash June 1

That which is annually the worst baseball game of the season will be committed June 1 at Eastern Field, when the faculty of Eastern and Tech get together in their annual diamond disaster. Some of the stars for Eastern are John Paul Collins, Jack Suber and Chuck Guyon, the latter to be used as backstop.

Tech enlists such diamond desperados as Hap Mardell, Jack Faber and is contemplating signing up Bere Coggins, of Central, and Lynn Woodworth, of Business, to aid the cause.

A dinner for the players and kibitzering newspapermen, will follow the game, which yearly affords students of the schools concerned their only chance to present to their instructors what is known as a ripe razzberry.

Colored League Opens Play At Griffith Stadium Today

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES CURTIS is expected to throw out the first ball at the local opening of the East-West Colored Baseball League today at Griffith Stadium at 4 o'clock. The initial local game pits the Washington Pilots against the Hilldale team, of Philadelphia.

Chet Brewer, who numbers a one-hit game among his mound feats, will pitch for Washington today. Philadelphia, like unto the Philadelphia of the American League, will not name a flinger until game time.

Tomorrow the Pilots will encounter the Cuban All Stars and Saturday sees them play the Baltimore Black Sox. Saturday night the Pilots entrain for a swing around the Western cities of the league, Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh. They will be back at Griffith Stadium on May 30.

Five Star Netmen Miss City Tourney

With five of the first ten tennis players of Washington missing, the City of Washington tournament's list closes tonight at 6 o'clock at the Tennis Shop. Play opens Saturday on the courts at Sixteenth and Kennedy streets. The tournament is more wide open than at any time during its four-year history.

Among the missing are Eddie Yeomans, District champion; Bob Elliott, Barney Welsh, Bud Markey and Maurice O'Neill. The five who will take an active part are Dooly Mitchell, Tom Mangan, Frank Shore, Anthony Latona and Gilbert Hunt. A field of about 100 players is expected to compete in men's singles.

The draw will be made tomorrow night and announced in Saturday morning's Post. The women's list does not close until tomorrow night. Play in the women's division opens Sunday. All matches will be held at the Reservoir courts.

Among the many entrants who are classed as dark horses will be Joe Olhausen, former high ranking Philadelphia netman, who is now residing in Washington. 3-Game Play-Off Proposed To Decide High School Title

A THREE-GAME series, to decide the winner of the high school baseball championship, was recommended yesterday by the board of faculty advisers. The motion, which concerns Eastern, Western and Central, will be acted upon Saturday at the regular meeting of high school principals.

The faculty advisers, in presenting their plan, did so with the reservation that the plan is contingent upon Central's beating Tech today and thus make a three way tie for first place. If Tech should win today's game, and it is not favored to do so, Central would be eliminated from consideration and Eastern and Western would play off for first place. Both these latter teams have won three and lost one. Central has won two and lost one and is expected to win from Tech today.

If Central does win, and the three-way tie becomes an actuality, the first game of the play-off series will be held next Monday, between Central and Eastern. Western will meet Central the following Thursday and Eastern will meet Western Tuesday, May 31.

The faculty advisers turned down a suggestion that the play-off be conducted in tournament style, drawing one team aside and having the two remaining ones play, and the winner play the team which was drawn aside.

Western High was picked from a hat to engage the Naval Academy Plebes May 28, at Annapolis, and will represent the District high schools. On the same day an all-high track team, made up of the first three boys to finish in each event of the inter-high meet, on May 27, will engage the Naval Academy Plebe track team.

STREET RENAMING PLANS CONSIDERED

Arlington Civic Federation Group Meets With Braden on County Project.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The committee selected by the Arlington County Civic Federation met with County Manager Roy S. Braden to consider a plan for the renaming of streets in Arlington County.

While it was revealed by County Manager Braden that the members of the committee were of the opinion that all that was to be done was to rename a number of the streets in the county, thereby doing away with duplication, he pointed out that unless there was a complete, comprehensive plan for renaming of all streets in the county the plan would not be in any way a success.

Braden announced that the county board has provided in the budget, effective July 1, an item which gives authority for the purchase of street markers which will be placed at the intersection of all streets in the county when the committee completes its plan for renaming.

Sergt. John A. Velke, of the Army Medical Corps, at Fort Humphreys, and William Babcock and George T. Belew, of Washington, who were indicted by a special grand jury in the Arlington County Circuit Court Monday for holdup and robbery of a bank and two bus terminals in the county, yesterday were identified by two of the victims, Sheriff Howard S. Fields announced last night.

Those identifying the men as their assailants were O. J. Moore, employed by the Arlington-Fairfax Transportation Co., and W. F. Kaylor, assistant cashier of the Washington-Maryland-Virginia Coach Co. She

A. T. & T. WILL PAY REGULAR DIVIDEND

$2.25 Quarterly Installment Leaves Stock on $9 Basis; Payable July 15.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 on the capital stock.

Payment of a regular disbursement at the rate of $9 annually had been expected in Wall street which has recently heard that current operations of the company are running at approximately the level of the first quarter when the corporation earned $2.07 a share. Loss of telephones was rather substantial in that period, which usually sees the leanest business, but it is reported this decrease has slackened.

Today's dividend, payable July 15 to stock of record June 20, means distribution of about $42,000,000 to the stockholders, numbering more than 650,000.

The company's cash and short term investments at the end of 1931 totaled $289,000,000, so that financial quarters see American Telephone well supplied with funds to meet its needs during 1932 without assistance from new financing.

Southern Pacific Passes.

The Southern Pacific Co. today formally omitted the dividend on the capital stock. Three months ago directors deferred action until today because of the drop in earnings. A statement issued at this afternoon's meeting said it had been decided to conserve cash resources of the company "in view of the continued decline in revenues" and to "omit further dividend declarations for the present."

Southern Pacific's last dividend payment was $1 a share on January 2 of this year, prior to which time $1.50 was paid quarterly.

American Sugar.

Directors of the American Sugar Refining Co. today ordered a dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, payable July 2 to stock of record June 4. Three months ago the company paid $1.

The company said that despite a normal distribution of refined sugar to the country, deliveries of domestic refiners for January to April declined about 15 per cent from the corresponding months of last year. In the face of this, the company asserted, imports of refined sugar steadily increased and for January to March displaced about 12 per cent of the volume of the domestic sugar industry, beet and cane.

Electric Bond & Share.

Electric Bond & Share Co. directors today ordered the regular dividends on the common and preferred stocks.

The quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on the common is payable July 15 to stock of record June 6; the $1.25 on the $5 preferred and $1.50 on the $8 preferred, August 1 to stock of record July 5.

Seaboard Oil.

The Seaboard Oil Co., which paid its last dividend in November, 1924, today ordered a quarterly payment of 10 cents on its stock, payable June 15, to stock of record June 6.

Originally known as the Mexican Seaboard Oil Co. with producing properties in Mexico, the company has in recent years acquired extensive holdings in California.

This is the second important oil company to resume dividend payments in the last few weeks, the Ohio Oil Co. having authorized a payment of 20 cents after being out of the dividend column for more than a year.

Consolidated Oil.

The Consolidated Oil Corporation is now operating at a profit, Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee, said today

The company represents the consolidated unit growing out of the merger of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and the Prairie Pipe Line Co. for the thirteen months ended June 31 last, the Sinclair Co. reported a deficit of $22,010,172.

At the annual meeting of the Consolidated Co. today the vote for re-election of directors represented 66 per cent of the 14,218,835 shares of stock outstanding at the end of January.

Cities Service Co.

The Cities Service Company reports for April net income of $1,521,826 available for reserves and common stock against $1,817,460 in April, 1931.

For the 12 months ended April 30, net to common stock and reserves was $15,472,219, against $32,433,115 in the corresponding period of last year. The company declared its regular preferred and common dividends due at this time.

International Telephone.

The International Telephone & Telegraph Co. report for the first quarter will show profits of about 17 cents a share, according to unofficial estimates. The next board meeting for dividend action will be held in June and Wall street opinion is that the dividend is likely to be omitted. The company has been paying 15 cents a share quarterly.

Willys Overland.

The Willys Overland Co. reports for the quarter ended March 31 net loss of $1,032,395 after taxes, depreciation and interest, compared with net profit of $117,106, equal to 88 cents a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock in the first quarter of 1931.

Warner Brothers.

Directors of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., have taken no action on the quarterly dividend of 96¼ cents on the preferred stock due at this time, it was announced today.

The last payment on the preferred was made on March 1.

Manhattan Shirt.

Directors of the Manhattan Shirt Co. have taken no action on the quarterly dividend on the common stock due at this time, the company announced today. Three months ago a dividend of 15 cents was paid.

Frank & Shattuck Co. had first-quarter net profit of $359,502, equal to 20 cents a share, compared with $556,896, or 43 cents a share, in the same period of 1931.

The Packard Motor Car Co. had a net loss of $1,563,960 for the quarter ended March 31, after all charges and depreciation. This compares with net income of $113,004 in the first quarter of 1931.

Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. had net loss of $158,937 in the first quarter, compared with net income of $7,947 a year ago.

MARKET COMMENT

Hornblower & Weeks—The course of the market during the coming week can be expected to be determined by the tenor of news developments from Washington. Although the indices of industrial activity continue to trend down and corporate developments are discouraging, it is difficult to believe that the current low level of securities has not adequately discounted present conditions, which leaves fear and uncertainty regarding the future as the only logical explanation for the continuing pressure of liquidation.

Westheimer & Co.—Stocks showed little change in dull market. Understand April cigarette production figures to be made public soon will show a reduction of around 22 per cent, compared with April, 1931. Oil news continues moderately cheerful.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—Ticker announcements that Congress probably would be unable to complete its business before the conventions depressed budding speculative enthusiasm yesterday. Business and Wall street had been expecting that tax and other legislative uncertainties would be settled in less than another month and were making their plans on that prospect. For the first time in many weeks there were indications of concerted speculative buying, but it remains to be seen whether it will continue.

National City Bank—Combined net profits for the first quarter, of a group of 170 industrial corporations aggregated $21,000,000, compared with $9,000,000 in the preceding quarter and $107,000,000 in the first quarter of 1931; this after deducting all charges, but before dividends.

STEEL PRODUCTION RISES AS AUTOS BUY

Yield Up 1 Point Average to 25 Per Cent Capacity; Scrap Price Lower.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Responding to increased steel buying by the automobile industry, ingot production for the country has risen a point, to 25 per cent of capacity, Iron Age said today. In the two preceding weeks production was at the rate of 24 per cent.

Steel making activities in the various districts show marked contrasts, the review stated. In the Pittsburgh district the rate has declined from 20 per cent to 18 per cent, the lowest in many years, while Cleveland plants are operating at 38 per cent against 23 per cent last week. The Detroit district, including the Ford Steel plant, has by far the best production, 81 per cent, according to the review.

The determination of steel producers to adhere to a level of prices that will give them the full benefit of savings accruing from wage reductions is one of the strongest factors in the steel situation, it is asserted.

Due to the registering of new all-time lows at Pittsburgh and Chicago, the Iron Age scrap steel composite price has been lowered this week to $7.41 a gross ton as compared with $7.62 a week ago.

There is also a new low since August, 1915, in the pig iron composite price, now at $14.06 a ton against $14.22 a week ago.

The finished steel composite price remains unchanged at 2.087 cents a pound.

Competition from imported pig iron is said to be having a depressing effect on markets along the seaboard and for a considerable distance inland. Dealers assert that some of the prices quoted on foreign iron are so low as to make it extremely difficult for domestic dealers to effect sales.

Insurance Official Asks Railroad Aid

Prudential Vice President Says Funds Needed to Avert Receiverships.

San Francisco, May 18 (A.P.).—Imperative need of more financial assistance "if a large percentage of the railroads are to remain solvent throughout this emergency" was described by Alfred Hurrell, vice president of the Prudential Insurance Co., of America before the National Chamber of Commerce today.

"The pressing need of the moment is to prevent receiverships," he said.

Mr. Hurrell said he spoke in behalf of the security owner, with $3,000,000,000 invested in railroad bonds. American life insurance companies were interested not only for their own welfare, but for the masses whose funds they hold in trust, he declared.

"Either the Government should itself take over the railroads and operate them, payng the owners the reasonable value thereof, or it should refrain from such interference with their operation as denies to efficient and economical management the rewards which are naturally and justly due it."

Net income of the railroads last year, he said, was $141,160,000, while forecasts for 1932 "point to a deficit after charges of from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000."

The foremost reason for loss of traffic by the railroads, Hurrell said, was "unregulated and in effect subsidized competition from motor trucks and buses." He urged equality of regulation and recommended abandonment of unprofitable branch lines and curtailment of passenger schedules.

Remedial legislation by Congress, understanding assistance by the Interstate Commerce Commission and economy and efficiency on the part of the railroads, he said, would make it possible for the security owner to continue cheerfully in the picture.

WARDMAN BUILDINGS AUCTION POSTPONED

Sale of 14 Properties, Valued at $15,000,000, Delayed to October 21.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Auction of fourteen buildings of Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., having a current assessed valuation of more than $15,000,000, is postponed from tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, to October 21 at the same hour, by an order of the bondholders' protective committee signed yesterday by Justice Jesse C. Adkins, of the District Supreme Court.

This action marks the fourth postponement of what will be the largest auction sale in the history of the District of Columbia. The sale advertised by the Central Hanover Bank Trust Co., New York City, as trustee, was first scheduled for November 20, 1931, and subsequently postponed until January 15, April 15 and May 20, 1932.

Reasons for the various postponements have been described as due to an absence of qualified bidders other than the majority committee of the corporation's bondholders, the advisability of a longer period of advertisement of the sale and expectancy of better market conditions.

Properties Involved.

Properties involved in the postponed sale are the Wardman Park Hotel, its addition, the Carleton Hotel; the Chastleton Apartments, the north and center buildings of Cathedral Mansions, the Connecticut Avenue and Davenport Apartments, the Boulevard Apartments, Stoneleigh Court Apartments, the office building housing the United States Department of Justice and an apartment building at 2700 Connecticut avenue.

Auction of the properties was ordered by the court as the result of a suit brought in June, 1931, petitioning a foreclosure on the first mortgage on the properties because of defaults on interest, sinking fund and tax payments. A large number of persons, including many Washingtonians, hold first mortgage bonds in an amount approximating $11,000,000. A bondholders' protective committee was formed in New York several months ago.

Hull to Be Speaker.

Maj. Roger B. Hull, New York City, general counsel of the National Association of Life Underwriters, will be the guest speakers at the May luncheon meeting of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Hotel. Maj. Hull, who was formerly assistant attorney general of Porto Rico and special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, will speak on "The Road Back to Security—the American Plan."

Three of the following nominees will be elected to the directorate at this meeting—Thomas P. Morgan, Mutual Life of New York; Russell P. Freeman, Prudential; Horace Winter, Travelers; Eugene G. Adams, Continental Assurance, Prudential; Horace Winter, Travelers; Eugene G. Adams, Continental Assurance; Carl Dow Smith, Northwestern Mutual; Herbert O. McLean, Provident Mutual.

The board of directors of the Florsheim Shoe Co. have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on the preferred stock of the company payable July 1, to stockholders of record June 15

General Asphalt Co. in the year ended March 31, had net loss of $7,174 against net profit of $844,567 in the previous year.

Stocks and Bonds Resume Reaction to Bottom Levels

Public Utility Issues Lead Sagging Market to New Lows as Trading Drops to 684,270 Shares; Curb Joins General Decline.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Weakness in public utility stocks proved mildly contagious today and the market sagged to a new low as measured by price averages.

Trading, however, shrank to very small proportions. Among industrial and railroad issues few net losses equaled or exceeded a point, although power and light company stocks were depressed somewhat more severely.

Volume totaled 684,270 shares, the smallest in more than a week.

Business news was uninspiring. Publication of the electric power production figures for the last week, showing a drop of 13.1 per cent from a year ago, the largest comparative decline so far reported, put utilities under fire and they continued heavy. Dividend actions affecting stock exchange listings were about as expected.

Steel production was up a point, thanks to larger takings by automobile manufacturers, but not all districts are sharing in this very mild improvement.

The executives of two oil companies informed their stockholders of better current earnings.

Net Losses Recorded.

Net losses of a point or more in United Gas Improvement, North American, Public Service of New Jersey, Standard Gas, Pacific Gas and Consolidated Gas outstripped declines for U. S. Steel, General Electric, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Standard Oil of New Jersey and numerous rails.

Tobacco issues sagged on estimates of a sharp decrease in April cigarette output.

American Telephone sold off after a regular dividend had been voted and closed 1¼ lower. Wall street had looked for the maintenance of the $9 annual rate and was chiefly interested in guessing to what extent the compatny must go into surplus to cover the payment. In the first quarter, Telephone's subsidiaries paid to their parent company about $5,000,000 more in dividends than they earned. It has recently been said that second quarter operating results thus far were approximately those of the first.

Central Bank Purchases.

The decision to continue Central Bank purchases of Government securities along flexible lines was construed favorably. Whether the recent rate of $100,000,000 a week is to be maintained was not disclosed by the board, but some bankers were inclined to look for no complete halt to expansion activities in the near future, at least, until interior banks begin to increase their loan and investment accounts.

Iron Age saw evidence that steel consumers are becoming convinced prices will be maintained, reporting that some interests were making inquiries for a considerable distance ahead. One of the strongest factors in the present steel situation, this review declared, is the determination of the producers "to adhere to a level of prices that will give them the full measure of savings accruing from wage reductions."

A better and well distributed demand for bankers acceptances was reported by leading dealers, who also said the supply was improved. Money rates went unchanged, but there is a growing belief that the official stock exchange peg of 2½ per cent for call loans will be lowered.

Bonds Continue Decline.

The bond market, for the sixth consecutive session, sank to new low depths for the year today and support was noticeably lacking in practically all categories.

Some selective buying imparted mild strength to United States Government securities; State and municipals and a few high grade corporation issues, but a lower trend was evident throughout the day's proceedings.

At the same time offerings were inclined to dwindle under pressure and there were few indications of urgent liquidation. Sales totaled $8,662,000 par value, and the average for 60 principal loans was off three-tenths of a point.

Decision of the Federal Reserve Board, at its meeting in Washington yesterday, to continue its purchases of Government obligations, did much to hold up the Federal group. All of the Liberties finished fractionally higher, as did some of the Treasuries.

Rails Add Discouragement.

The flabbiness of railroad liens helped to discourage activity in the other categories. Atchison General 4s were especially under pressure, dropping 2¼ points to a new year's low. Other substantial losers included some bonds of Allegheny Corporation, Chesapeake Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Rock Island, Erie, Illinois Central, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern and Union Pacific. Weakness of Chesapeake Corporation followed the slicing of the company's annual dividend from $3 to $2. Allegheny Corporation, a large holder of Chesapeake stock, sagged in sympathy.

Utility loans were generally lower following publication of power output figures for the past week. These disclosed another severe drop in the total under the same period last year. American Telephones steadied upon the declaration of the regular dividend. Industrials held about even.

British 5½s were strong, again reaching a new high for the year. French loans firmed, and some of the Japanese recovered mildly. German 7s and 5½s declined. Polish 8s slipped one-half point and losses were recorded by issues of Denmark, Austria and Finland.

Curb Sinks Lower.

A flurry of selling, which capped a session of dull trading, sent prices of the main body of curb stocks lower late today. Transactions totaled 120,000 shares, against 130,000 yesterday.

The utilities bore the brunt of late liquidation. Electric Bond & Share common was driven down to a new low at 9½, but rallied fractionally to 9¾, where it closed, off 1½ points. Commonwealth Edison yielded 3 points, to 63. American Gas & Electric was off 1½ points, to 24½. Fractional losses were suffered by a number of other utilities. Electric Bond & Share 6 per cent preferred resisted the tide, advancing 1 point, to 33.

The latest power production figures, published today, apparently led to some selling of the utilities. Niagara Hudson Power was an active feature, closing off ¼ at 4, following an announcement that directors had declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share.

The oils again showed resistance to selling. Standard of Ohio advanced fractionally on news that it had marked up gasoline prices. The Standard issues of Kentucky and Indiana were fractionally lower. Indications of progress in the peace table conference of leading oil interests in New York and in the Pacific Coast effort to curtail production still further, were accepted as encouraging.

National Sugar yielded to 20, off 1½ points, following American Sugar's action in reducing its dividend.

Singer Manufacturing broke 5 points to a new low at 85 and Great Atlantic & Pacific also went to a new low at 111, off 1. Aluminum Co., which early this year sold up to 61¾, gave way 1 point to 24½, but still hovered above its former low price of 23⅜.

Electricity Output Is Slightly Higher

Week's Gain Still Leaves Total 13.1 Per Cent Below 1931.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—Electric power output for the week ended May 14 was 1,436,928,000-kilowatt hours, a slight gain over the preceding week, but 13.1 per cent below the corresponding week last year.

This is the widest decrease reported in power production since issuance of weekly figures, begun several months ago.

The previous record decline, 12.7 per cent, was reported for the week ended May 7 as compared with the 1931 period.

In the Atlantic seaboard territory, the decrease in output was 10.6 per cent, in the central industrial region 16.2 per cent, while the Chicago district alone was down 11.6 per cent.

The Pacific Coast was off 11.7 per cent and New England 14.3 per cent.

Kreuger Optimism In Dividends Bared

New York Banker Says Match King Assured Ample Earnings.

New York, May 18 (A.P.).—A few weeks before he killed himself in Paris Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, told S. Sloan Colt, president of the Bankers Trust Co., that irrespective of his ability to make foreign exchange transfers from certain countries in Europe and South America, the income from International Match Corporation and from the Kreuger & Toll match interests would be sufficient to pay dividends.

Mr. Colt disclosed this statement today in testimony at the hearing into the affairs of the bankrupt International Match Corporation before Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy.

He was the first of the bankers called to testify concerning the $4,000,000 unsecured loan made by his bank, the National City Bank, the Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, and the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago, to International Match.

RESERVE BANK HEAD SEES LIBERAL LOANS

Meyer Says System Will Aid Business With Funds Piled Up in Institutions.

(Associated Press.)

From the twelve Federal Reserve Banks of the country, aggressive efforts are to be launched to make available more generously in loans to industry and agriculture the funds piled up in commercial banks by the Federal Reserve Board's open market policy.

The decision was disclosed before the Senate banking committee yesterday by Gov. Eugene Meyer, of the Reserve Board, during testimony in opposition to the Goldsborough and Fletcher bills, under which the board would be directed to restore the 1926 price level by purchasing Government bonds.

Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, asked Gov. Meyer whether the policy of buying Government securities on the open market has had any effect as yet on the wholesale commodity price level.

Gov. Meyer replied that he thought it had.

"It does not show up in a rise," he said, "but there is an arrest of the decline. In our meeting yesterday with the governors of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks, we discussed the wholesale commodity price level and ways and means of making more effective the open market policy in bringing to industry, agriculture, construction and the like the results aimed at.

Governors Plan Aid.

"I think the governors are going back to their respective communities to endeavor more aggressively to bring this about."

Meyer said passage of the Goldsborough measure by the House was "very disturbing."

"Because I feel it is not capable of doing good and is capable of disturbing, I oppose it unqualifiedly," he added, asserting that to fulfill the mandate of the bill would be beyond the power of the board and would "establish a rigidity which is undesirable."

The board, he said, "has been endeavoring to do what it could do to stem the tide of contraction in business and deflation of prices."

"No one country," he asserted, "can determine the world commodity price level."

Bond Buying Program.

The Federal Reserve Board, which decided yesterday to continue open market operations and buy Government securities to "the extent and amount, to be determined from time to time, as conditions justify," is expected in informed financial quarters here to decrease the securities purchases in coming weeks.

These have approximated $100,000,000 a week for five weeks. It was believed the committee would watch the cash reserves of member banks, and if they dropped the purchases would be increased. The general impression was that the present week would be the last in which the system would purchase $100,000,000 of Government securities.

No one in authority would comment upon the open market policy of the system, but the impression prevailed, officials believe, it has accomplished the purpose in making funds available to banks with which credit could be extended.

The Reserve system's credit expansion program has met obstacles in legislative delays and uncertainties, but bankers feel its effects will become more apparent when these have been cleared away. A turn in commercial borrowing is likely to come slowly, bankers say, and will probably be preceded by substantial increases in banks' bond investments. There has already been some progress in the latter direction.

U. S. Treasury to Sell $60,000,000 in Bills

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills announced yesterday that the Treasury would sell $60,000,000 in 91-day Treasury bills on Monday, May 23.

The bills, which will be dated May 25, and mature August 24, will be redeemed at their face value on the latter date. The money received from the sale of the bills will be used to retire $62,000,000 in Treasury bills which fall due on May 25.

Wabash Railway to Get New $1,576,200 Loan

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday approved an additional loan of $1,576,200 by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Wabash Railway Co. It previously had been granted a loan of $7,173,800. It had applied for a total of $18,500,000.

The new loan is to be used to pay interest, bond and note maturities and taxes. The Wabash is in the hands of receivers.

Number of advances	84	188
Number of declines	248	192
Stocks unchanged	147	150

Stocks.

Better steel prospects were offset by another sharp decline in power output last week, which later imparted the weakness in utilities to the entire list. New lows for 1932 were registered in the rail and utility averages as well as the 90-stock list.

Bonds.

Industrial averages were unchanged, but those of the rails and utilities made new lows for the year.

Curb.

The early weakness developed in the afternoon trade, apparently in sympathy with the big board. Bond & Share made a new low.

Wheat.

Weakness at Liverpool failed to check a 1-cent advance at Chicago, but big buyers then switched to the selling side and the close was ⅜ to ½ cent lower.

Cotton.

The weather map was bullish and continental inquiry better at Liverpool. The close was 8 to 10 points above Tuesday's.

WHEAT PRICE DROPS AS SECURITIES LOSE

Corn and Oats Also React; Liverpool Market Sags on U. S. Reports.

Chicago, May 18 (A.P.).—Running into an overbought condition, wheat tumbled back about 1½ cents a bushel from the day's top figures today, influenced partly by bearish behavior of securities and by heavinoss of the Winnipeg market, as well as by indications that 2,500,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat had been exchanged for futures at Kansas City.

Wheat closed unstable, ⅜ to ⅞ cent under yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅜ cent lower; oats, unchanged to ¼ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

For a while wheat speculators achieved considerable success in efforts to capitalize beforehand as a bullish factor the Senate vote on a resolution to tax beer. The volume of buying broadened gradually until the market showed more than a full cent advance from an initial sag.

Unfavorable crop prospects for domestic winter wheat gave some impetus to the rise, and so, too, did suggestions of 10 per cent reduction of United States spring wheat seeding as compared with last year.

In the last half of the day, buying demand dwindled and early purchasers switched to the selling side. Long before the beer vote in the Senate, the defeat of the proposal was taken as a foregone conclusion.

Liverpool price declines were a weight on the market in the late dealings here, and were attributed in some quarters to a drop in vessel rates from Fort William to Montreal, bringing the rates down to 4 cents as compared with 5½ cents recently and with 7 cents or more last season.

Corn and oats were dominated by the action of wheat. No sign of export demand for corn was apparent, but domestic call was better.

Provisions averaged a little higher on account of scattered buying and in the face of a downturn of hog values.

BOARD OF EDUCATION EXPANDS PRIVILEGES FOR NIGHT STUDENTS

Pupils Will Be Enabled to Enter College After Five and Half Years' Work.

NEW SCHEDULE OFFERS TERM OF 108 EVENINGS

Class Time Also Extended; Officials Urged to Change Playground System.

Reorganization of night schools so as to make it possible for students to receive the certificate privilege of admission to college was approved by the Board of Education yesterday.

The reorganization plan was proposed by E. J. Lockwood, director of evening and summer schools in the white divisions, and C. O. Lewis, director of the colored, and presented to the board by Supt. Frank W. Ballou.

Under the reorganization plan, which will take effect at the beginning of the next school year, the evening school year will have 108 evenings instead of 90, and the opening date, vacation periods and holidays will conform with the day schools.

Standard Diploma.

An evening school student, under the new plan, will be able to earn a standard diploma in 5½ years. Students who need a standard diploma to enter certain fields of work will have the opportunity of earning it.

The new plan, it was announced, will not increase the total expense for night schools. Instead, it will eliminate the uneconomical maintenance of small classes toward the end of the year, and will provide more extensive and adequate instruction for those students continuing their attendance throughout the evening school term.

Periods of Classes.

The class period for instruction will be extended from 60 to 67 minutes. Certain schools will be designated as standard schools, both for grades and high schools, and at the end of the seventy-second evening of instruction all classes will be consolidated and accommodated in these standard schools. There will be no change in the pay of teachers, principals, or assistants to principals, it was announced.

A reorganization of the playground system, under which the District department of playgrounds would be obliged to apply to the community center department for use of public school playgrounds and facilities in public school buildings adjacent to the playgrounds, was proposed to the board by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the community center department. It was referred to the committee on community buildings.

Nocturnal Disturbances.

Complaint was received by the board of nocturnal disturbances on the Johnson School playgrounds at Lamont street and Hiatt place northwest. George F. Poole, who lives near the school and who made the complaint, protested that he and his wife are kept awake at night by "boisterousness, vile language" and the practicing of a jazz orchestra in the Powell Junior High School, which is also nearby. The complaint was referred to the superintendent for action.

Exchange of American flags and British flags between five Washington schools and a similar number of schools in the town of Washington, Durham, England, was proposed in a letter from the American Consul at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, to the Acting Secretary of State, which was transmitted to the board. The members commended the idea and instructed the superintendent to make the necessary arrangements.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, vice president of the board, presided in the absence of Dr. Abram Simon, president.

Hearing of Means May Be Postponed

Decision Due Today on Plea by Attorney for Trial's Continuance.

A last minute demand for a postponement yesterday by J. William Tomlinson, attorney for Gaston B. Means may serve to continue Means' trial, scheduled for Monday, for at least a week, it was learned in the District Supreme Court yesterday, when Justice James M. Proctor set down for 10 o'clock today the arguments on the motion for a continuance.

Attorney Tomlinson said that he had not had sufficient time to talk with the many witnesses he plans to call in Means' behalf.

Subpenas have already gone out for a score of witnesses wanted by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover for the prosecution of the man who is alleged to have obtained $100,000 from Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean on the basis of a return to his parents of the Lindbergh baby.

Association Says Change of Precincts Has Cut Down Protection.

More policemen to patrol the Southwest section of the city was requested of Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, in a resolution adopted by the Southwest Citizens Association last night at a meeting in the Fairbrothers School, Tenth and E streets southwest.

According to the association, since the moving of the Fourth Precinct from Southwest when it was combined with the Fifth Precinct in Southeast, the policemen detailed to the Southwest have not been able to patrol that section properly.

Plans were discussed at the meeting for the colonial dance and frolic to be given by Mr. and Mrs. George Washington" on June 16 at the Neighborhood House, under the auspices of the association. The next meeting of the association will be held in September.

They said they arrested Stewart at Seventh and G streets southwest while he was pedaling (or was it peddling) along on his way to make a delivery of the wet goods.

HOUSE UNIT FAVORS CREDIT UNION PLAN

District Committee to Report Measure; Debate May Start Monday.

The House District committee yesterday approved a favorable subcommittee report on the bill authorizing incorporation of credit unions in the District. The measure was ordered placed on the House calendar for consideration next "District Day," probably Monday.

The bill, which has passed the Senate, would legalize organization of groups formed for the sole purpose of lending money to members at low interest rates.

Several other measures were ordered favorably reported by the committee, including the Copeland barber shop closing bill, which would force District barber shops to close their shops "one day in seven" as a health measure. As in the Senate, the Sunday closing feature of the bill was eliminated.

Other bills approved would authorize appointment of new steam boiler inspectors, permit Commissioners to close certain thoroughfares, authorize the widening of upper Thirteenth street northwest, appropriate $5,000 for the relief of Mrs. Jennie Bruce Gallahan, widow of a fireman killed in line of duty, permit construction of a railroad spur south of the navy yard into Buzzard's Point, where broad industrial development is projected.

Riot Squad Escorts Group of Veterans

Protest at White House Is Feared as Bonus Seekers Arrive.

An unexpected police escort was provided yesterday for a group of World War veterans who, although peacefully inclined, caused a flurry of excitement when it was rumored they planned to stage a "demonstration" in front of the White House.

Occupants of a police radio car sounded an alarm when the veterans, 25 in number, passed through Georgetown on a huge truck labeled, "We Want Our Bonus." A riot squad was immediately dispatched and met the truck on Pennsylvania avenue, near the Executive Mansion.

The surprised veterans only laughed when asked how soon they planned to start the "demonstration." It was pointed out by Frank Kalis, their leader, that the group had just arrived from Chattanooga, Tenn., with the object of obtaining their bonus. No attempt, they said, would be made to see President Hoover until a regular appointment had been arranged.

CARPENTERS REJECT $9 PER DIEM SCALE

Threaten to Withdraw Men From Job if Builders Cut Without Consent.

The second wage referendum submitted in two weeks to the Carpenters' District Council last night resulted in rejection of the proposal of the Master Builders Association to cut wages.

The original proposal of the builders was to reduce the $11 per day wage scale to $8 per day. This proposal was rejected with a vote of 12 to 1, and construction operations paying less than the union scale were "locked out" by he carpenters. About 40 men were removed from work, according to L. H. Hardison, president of the council.

A compromise offer of a $9 per day scale was submitted by the builders. At the meeting last night, at Masonic Auditorium, 846 ballots were cast and only 225 carpenters were willing to accept the reduced scale. Hardison said the council was open to any other offers proposed by the contracting group, but that any attempt to cut the union wage without the consent of the carpenters would result in the removal of the men from the job.

Terms of Couple Convicted In Mail Fraud Cut by Gordon

District Supreme Court Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday cut substantially the five-year sentences he originally gave Herman O. Hagner and his wife, Mrs. Julia C. Hagner, following their conviction on charges of use of the mail to defraud.

Mrs. Hagner was given a sentence of 18 months and her husband was given three years. Justice Gordon said he believed the ends of justice would be served just as well by shortened sentences. He also said he had received communications setting out the good character possessed by the couple previous to their entanglement in the law.

The case attracted unusual attention because of the failure of the Hagners to protest properly the lack of jurisdiction held by the local courts. However, the higher courts, including the United States Supreme Court, said that in not attacking seasonably the lack of jurisdiction, the Hagners had, in effect, waived their right to a trial in the jurisdiction, Scranton, Pa., where the offense was committed.

When Mrs. Hagner went to jail recently she took with her a small daughter, who is now living with relatives.

S.A.R. CONVENTION ASKS DEPORTATION OF ALIEN RADICALS

Seeks Legislation Against Those Urging Overthrow of Government.

MILLSPAUGH ELECTED PRESIDENT GENERAL

Cut in Appropriations for Military Training Also Fought at Session.

Aliens "who favor the overthrow of our Government by force" would be deported under legislation advocated in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Sons of the American Revolution in convention here.

The antiradicalism resolution urged registration of all aliens in the United States and appropriation by Congress of "sufficient money to enable the Secretary of Labor to deport every alien unlawfully in this country, as well as deport every alien in the country, whether he came lawfully or unlawfully, whose teachings or practice are in favor of the overthrow of our Government by force and violence * * *."

The convention adopted another resolution which opposed curtailment of Reserve Officers' Training Corps and Citizens Military Camp activities. A copy of this measure was dispatched at once by special messenger to the offices of Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner.

New National Officers.

Frederick W. Millspaugh, of Nashville, Tenn., was elected president general of the organiaztion. He succeeds Joseph A. Van Orsdel, of Washington, retiring president general.

District vice presidents general elected were Samuel Punderson, Springfield, Mass., New England; Messmore Kendall, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., North Atlantic; Dr. Mark F. Finley, Washington, Middle Atlantic, reelected; E. L. Baxter Davidson, Charlotte, N. C., South Atlantic; Ransom H. Bassett, Louisville, Ky., Southern. Charles A. Breece, Indianapolis, Central; Norman B. Conger, Detroit, Great Lakes; Louis B. Hanna, Fargo, N. Dak., North Mississippi; Oscar B Colquitt, Texas, South Mississippi; Leslie Sulgrove, Helena, Mont., Rocky Mountain; Walter B. Beals, Olympia Wash., Pacific Coast, and the Marquis de Rochambeau, France, foreign.

Preceding adoption of the antiradicalism resolution, a lively debate took place. Judge Wallace McCamant, of Oregon, opposed the proposal, contending that such steps would put aliens in the position of being under greater restrictions than are American-born citizens. He said many reputable citizens violate the eighteenth amendment.

Former Governor Speaks.

Oscar B. Colquitt, former Governor of Texas, supported the resolution, pointing out that all persons who hold public office are required to take oath they will uphold the Constitution and the law of the land.

The former Texas executive said the step should be taken to curb immigration "because these aliens are stealing and murdering our children." He apparently referred to the Lindbergh case, although he did not do so directly.

Gen. Louis W. Stotesbury, of New York, was elected chancellor general, and the Rev. George B. Eastman, of Orange, N. J., chaplain general.

General officers reelected were Frank B. Steele, Washington, secretary; Francis B. Culver, Washington, registrar general and librarian; Henry R. McIlwaine, Richmond, Va., historian general, and John Hobart Cross, Pensacola, Fla., genealogist.

Father's Suicide by Gas May Cause Death of Son

Boy, 12, Investigating Fumes, Is Critically Injured by Explosion; Two Brothers Hurt in Extinguishing Flames.

A 12-year-old boy lay near death last night at Providence Hospital, his two brothers lay nearby suffering, but on the road to recovery, and the father of the children, William B. Cochrane, 52, was dead through his own design which caused injury to his sons.

The brothers are Claude, 18; David, 12, and John, 8. The Cochrane home is at 122 Tennessee avenue northeast. The father, according to Mrs. Nellie T. Cochrane, the mother, had been depressed lately over difficulties encountered in a new job.

Early yesterday David smelled gas and arose to seek the source. In a kitchen on the second floor lay the body of his father. David lit a match and the gas, accumulated from open burners on the range, exploded. The blast awoke the neighborhood, and David, burned horribly, rushed into the street.

The two other brothers were burned in their attempt to extinguish the flames that enveloped their brother. A passing motorist took David to the hospital, while an ambulance took the other two.

Nearly every window in the Cochrane home was blown out. A window sash was found in a tree across the street. Mrs. Cochrane and her daughter, Theresa, 16, were unharmed. Mrs. Cochrane was prostrated with grief.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald last night said he would issue a certificate of suicide in the death of Mr. Cochrane.

JURY HOLDS BARBER IN DEATH BY RAZOR

Erwin McFadden, Colored, Involved in Slaying of James Havenner.

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Ervin McFadden, 48, colored, held for grand jury action in connection with the death Tuesday night of James Havenner, 40, former barber supply salesman. Havenner died as the result of razor slashes to his throat.

Testimony at the hearing showed an altercation occurred in a yard in the rear of 320 C street southwest, at which address McFadden, who is a barber and former customer of Havenner, and the salesman, were said to have been drinking. Viola Simms, colored, testified she sold the men liquor.

Several other persons present at the C street address said the men left the room and appeared to be on amicable terms. The Simms woman testified, however, that she heard a cry from the darkness, "Mac, you've cut me."

Havenner was taken to Emergency Hospital in a taxicab, but died a few minutes after arrival. McFadden was arrested by Private Joseph Comisky of the Traffic Bureau.

Havenner lived at 2017 Klingle road with his brother-in-law, John F. Wynkoop, former president of the Union Beauty & Supply Co., with which Havenner was at one time connected.

Dancer Loses Suit Over Loss of Toes

Ruling in District Supreme Court in Favor of Fox Theater Concern.

Alberto K. Ferreyros, professional stage dancer, who last spring was given a jury verdict for $50,000 against the Fox Theater Corporation for injuries he sustained when the stage elevator chopped off two toes as it was ascending with him on it, only to see that verdict set aside as being excessive, yesterday lost his second suit entirely when Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue, in the District Supreme Court, directed a verdict in favor of the theater company.

The action was taken, because, in the opinion of Justice O'Donoghue, Ferreyros had failed to make out a case of negligence or carelessness against the Fox Theater.

Ferreyros, it was recalled, was the object of an unusual court proceedings when moving pictures, showing him dancing and playing outdoor games, were shown in court. These pictures were taken to disprove his claim that the loss of the toes had impaired his ability to get around on his feet. Attorneys Douglas, Obear & Douglas, and J. V. Morgan represented the dancer, while Louis M. Denit, of the firm of Brandenburg & Brandenburg, represented the theater.

Hearing June 8 On Picket Signs

Fur Workers Will Argue for Amendment to Prevent Regulations.

The District Commissioners yesterday set June 8, at 10 a. m., as the time for a public hearing on an amendment to the sign regulations proposed by the Fur Workers Union, Local No. 72, in order to permit the carrying of banners in labor disputes.

Capt. Hugh P. Oram, director of inspection, who has charge of enforcing the sign regulations, expressed his disapproval of the amendment on the ground that "it is class legislation," but agreed to the holding of a hearing.

The regulations, as originally adopted, were not intended to prohibit picketing, but were so interpreted recently. The amendment provides that the sign regulations shall not apply "to signs displayed or carried for the purpose of acquainting the public with the existence of a labor dispute."

CHEVY CHASE GROUP BACKS CRIME DRIVE

Citizens Association Urges Higher Mental Standard for Jury Panels.

Adoption of a resolution indorsing efforts of the Police Department and the District attorney's office in the prevention and curbing of commercialized crime and vice in the District, the denunciation of the mental caliber of jury panels and a plea for better cooperation between citizens and the Police Department featured the monthly meeting of the Chevy Chase Citizens Association held in the auditorium of the E. V. Brown School last night.

George Strong, chairman of the law and legislation committee, gave a short address deploring the lack of interest of the citizens of the Nation toward the present wave of crime and banditry. He said that unless remedial steps were taken "we would degenerate into a stage of mediaevalism in which every man's home would indeed be his castle."

Edwin S. Hegge, a former president of the association, spoke of the unfortunate tendency of intelligent and educated people to evade jury duty, thus leaving the panels to be composed of the mentally unqualified. He said "jury service should be made obligatory upon qualified people." Mr. Hegge also deplored the many technicalities in our legal procedure which tend to retard justice and make punishment less certain.

Mrs. Lillian Wright Smith gave a short talk on the garden plans of the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission.

The meeting was presided over by H. V. Schrieber.

Good-Will Work Abroad Is Told at Y. M. C. A.

The advocation of good will and interrelationship being carried on by the Y. M. C. A. in 33 countries of the world was outlined last night by Francis S. Harmon, general secretary of the intercommission of the Y. M. C. A., in charge of foreign work, speaking before a dinner meeting of the board of managers of the Washington Y. M. C. A. at the Central Y. M. C. A. building at 1738 G street northwest.

Harmon, a Mississippi newspaper publisher, enlarged on the duties of the thousands of persons engaged in carrying out the principles of the Y. M. C. A. in the United States and foreign countries.

OPTIONAL RETIRING OF WORKERS URGED AS SAVING METHOD

Leader of Federal Employes Holds Voluntary Quitting Plan More Humane.

BILLER ASSERTS SOME HAVE SUFFICIENT FUNDS

Transfer of Bureau Forces to Meet Needs Proposed in Bill by Maas.

Optional retirement of Government employes who have served 30 years as a "humane" method of Federal retrenchment was urged before the House civil service committee yesterday by Ulrey J. Biller, vice president of the National Federation of Federal Employes.

At the same hearing E. C. Babcock, assistant secretary of the Civil Service Commission, testified bills liberalizing the present retirement laws would not increase Government costs.

Representative Emanuel Celler (Democrat), New York, author of optional retirement bill, declared the Government instead could effect $10,000,000 a year in economies if his bill passed.

Would Transfer Workers.

Meanwhile, Representative Melvin J. Maas (Republican), Minnesota, introduced a measure authorizing the President to transfer Federal employes from one department to another temporarily and to create a "central pool" to which clerks could be assigned. The central bureau would "perform all services not specifically delegated by legislation to other agencies of the Government."

Urging approval of the optional 30-year retirement plan, Mr. Biller told the Civil Service committee there is conclusive evidence his plan would not result in wholesale exodus from the Government service.

"In view of the insistent demand for economy and balancing the budget it seems probable that a considerable number of employes may be forced out of service within the coming year," he said.

Uurges Humane Method.

"If this is done, why not do it in a sensible, humane way? Why force men without means or income and with families dependent on them out into a world with millions of other workers unemployed, when there are at least some employes in service financially able to take care of themselves, who are willing to retire provided the annuity is commensurate with their salary, length of service and attained age.

"Why do a thing harshly when the same end may be attained by a method which will leave those in the service who can not afford to lose their jobs, and will let out those willing to go."

Memorial Birthday Party Arranged for Dolly Madison

Dolly Madison, wife of President James Madison, will be honored on her birthday anniversary tomorrow when the North Carolina Society of the United States Daughters of 1812 will sponsor a special ceremony which is to be held at 10 o'clock in the morning on the decks of the U. S. S. Constitution ("Old Ironsides"), in the Navy Yard.

Invitations to the affair have been sent to Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Maj. Gen. Ben F. Fuller, commander of the Marine Corps; O. Max Gardner, Governor of North Carolina, and Josephus Daniels, wartime Secretary of the Navy.

Dolly Madison was born in North Carolina. Greetings at the function will be delivered by Maj. E. P. Benson, president of the North Carolina Society of Washington. Mrs. Andrew Taylor, of Richmond, Va., will sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," and the Marine Band will be heard in several selections. Capt. Louis Gulliver, commander of the frigate, will act as host.

Mrs. Charles Fisher Taylor is chairman in charge of arrangements.
